DAVIS ON TRIAL IN LOTTERY CASE

Today

France Is Worried.
Dr. Hibbs, Noble Scientist.
Can Japan Swallow China?
Have It, Then Advertise.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE FRENCH government accuses Germany of secretly arming for a war of revenge, already well planned, with the recapture of Alsace Lorraine as its object, also recapture of the colonies that France and Great Britain divided between them.

French newspapers express alarm and warn readers with such headings as:

"Germany is openly preparing for war."

ALL THIS bodes ill for the disarmament conference. The intelligent French realize that their hope of keeping what they took depends on their ability to meet any attack.

Premier Herriot says he is ready to prove to the League of Nations that Germany has been manufacturing arms, secretly.

It is to be hoped that our childish nation will be allowed to keep out of whatever happens.

RUSSIA IS said to be much relieved, convinced that the war of "capitalism" against herself, which has been her nightmare, will be long postponed.

IN MONTE CARLO, if you lost all you had, the gambling house used to supply money to buy your ticket home, to prevent you from committing suicide on the premises and discouraging other gamblers.

Perhaps France and England could plan some deal, or refund, with Germany that would avoid early trouble.

Without that, it will probably come. And while war has changed, and French fliers destroying enemy cities might offset Germany's greater population, it would be a hard war for France, with no Russia, England or Italy on her side, no millions of American men and billions of American dollars, thrown in at the last moment.

A GREAT loss to science in the death of Dr. Russell A. Hibbs, chief surgeon of New York's Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital. Only 63 years old, Dr. Hibbs, saving so many others, destroyed himself with overwork, and over anxiety for his patients.

The welfare of any one of the thousands of poor children and adults, upon which he operated gratuitously, weighed upon his mind.

KNOWN AND blessed all over the world, Dr. Hibbs' ideas and discoveries are used in every country. His greatest discoveries include his invention for fushion of the spine, used everywhere, saving thousands from life-long suffering, from tuberculosis of the spine, spinal fractures and curvature.

He invented new methods of surgery for the hip, knee, ankle and foot. Dr. Hibbs, born in Kentucky, devoted his whole life to surgical science and the relief of human suffering.

His ideas were given freely to whoever would use them. He accumulated no fortune for himself, wanted nothing but ever greater usefulness. There are many that honor the medical profession as he did.

If there were more men like him in other lines of effort, men concentrated on public service, not on self, many of our problems would not exist.

THOSE WELL informed say China's only immediate hope is in a more or less benevolent domination by Japan. China's war lords, fighting each other, starving the people, offer no hope.

Japan would discourage bandits by killing them, and diminish starvation by abolishing roving bands that devour or destroy crops.

LATER, AS always happens, the Chinese would absorb the Japanese as England absorbed the Normans, Italy the Germanic invaders, Persia her many invaders, etc.

Poppy growing and the opium habit seem to play a part in China, in spite of efforts to get rid of the drug. One hundred and three magistrates of Honan Province resigned when ordered to undergo investigation as to their use of opium. With few, if any, exceptions, all were users of the drug.

Six thousand acres in one plot are devoted to poppy growing, for opium, in Eastern Honan.

TO SUCCEED, first get what people want, then, by advertising, let them know you have it. Competition as keen as any in the country is that between various makers of electric refrigerators.

The others will want to know that E. G. Biechler, president of a branch of General Motors, announces a new construction idea to increase storage space in a refrigerator by twenty-five per cent without increasing outside dimensions.

This sounds like putting a quart into a pint, but not when responsible engineers propose it. What interests newspaper publishers is the fact that, having a good idea, the company will immediately spend half a million dollars to let the people know that they have it.

PROBABLY General Electric will come along with a plan to put two quarts into one pint, with advertising information interesting to newspaper publishers.

Announcing his new plan, Mr. Biechler also announces a reduction in price. First, get what the people want, and then, by advertising, let them know that you have got it. Intelligent advertising, increasing volume, makes price reduction possible.

JURY CHOSEN TO DECIDE SENATOR'S FATE

Men Quizzed on Bias Toward Fraternal Organizations

FEDERAL COURT, NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The trial of United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, on charges that he violated federal lottery laws opened today before District Judge Frank J. Coleman.

A 14-man jury, including two alternates, was selected in an hour and 55 minutes.

Senator Davis was indicted with six other persons a month ago. Last week he obtained a severance so that he might be tried before the November election in which he seeks re-election.

As director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, Davis is named in two indictments, one charging conspiracy to cause the delivery of lottery tickets by express to members of the New York lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose in October and November of 1931.

SECOND INDICTMENT

The second indictment in which he is named includes nine counts charging transportation of lottery tickets from Pennsylvania to New York in 1931.

Conviction on all the counts against Davis would provide a maximum possible penalty of 20 years in prison and fines totaling $28,000.

Davis was represented in court by former United States Attorney Charles H Tuttle. Assisting Tuttle was Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh, and Joseph E. Davies.

The government's case was in the hands of Louis M. Treadwell, Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York.

Senator Davis, a stocky, gray-haired man who came to America as an immigrant boy and worked his way up from a steel mill puddler, sat in the midst of seven at-

Light Rate Cut Urged on Council

JUDGE TOLD OF HILLTOP RACKETS

Constable Linked With Numbers, Beer Halls By Residents

Judge Frank P. Patterson's crusade against passive constables gained new impetus today when these accusations were made against Constable John Healy of the Nineteenth Ward:

1. More than a score of speakeasies and number joints operate in Mt. Washington and Duquesne Heights with Healy's knowledge.

2. Constable Healy was quoted as declaring he was going to "cut in" on the numbers racket and was offered $100 a month to allow the Italian Republican Club to operate.

3. Attempts to obtain help from the police to close clubs which sell booze and operate slot machines were reported as futile.

RESORTS NAMED

The names and addresses of speakeasies, numbers joints, numbers writers and gambling spots in the city's biggest ward—the Nineteenth—fell one after another from the mouths of willing witnesses in Quarter Sessions Court today.

And most of the testimony was directed at Constable John Healy.

Healy admitted he was afraid to raid the Italian Republican Club in Sycamore street, one woman testified. Not only that, he said he was offered $100 a month by Frank Petrolio to let the club operate, the witness added.

Witnesses against Healy were Joseph A. McArdle, son of Councilman P. J. McArdle; Thomas K. Dunn, of 114 Cohasset street; Mrs. George Soffel, Republican vice chairman of the ward; Deputy Constable Blair Schuler, and Joseph Regano, a contractor, of 47 Wyoming street.

Hoover Administration Neither Republican Nor American, Says Hearst

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Sept. 15, 1932.

To William Griffin, Editor and Publisher, New York Enquirer, New York City:

MR. HOOVER'S characteristic modesty prevents him from mentioning the one overwhelming reason for Maine's defection from the Republican party.

There are many specific reasons.

For instance, the subservience of the Republican administration to the power trust.

The approval the Republican administration extended to some of the very questionable proceedings of the international bankers.

The failure of the Republican administration to understand the causes of the depression, or to formulate any effective plans for relieving the depression.

THE OPPOSITION of the Republican administration to job-creating legislation.

The disposition of the Republican administration to center its efforts to financing the financiers.

The complete neglect by the Republican administration of the interests of the farmers and the working classes.

The disposition of the Republican administration to favor foreign interests rather than American interests.

The inclination of the Republican administration to transfer the financial burdens which European nations had incurred to the back of the American taxpayer.

THE INGENUITY of the Republican administration in devising moratoriums for the relief of Europe when America needed the best thought and effort of its own government.

The autocratic attitude of the Republican administration towards the people's Congress, arrogating to itself the functions which properly belong to Congress.

The contempt for popular opinion and popular judgment which the Republican President had expressed in written articles, and frequently evidenced in his official acts.

THE INEXPLICABLE hostility of the Republican administration to the veterans of the World War, culminating in the shameful attack upon the innocent and unarmed veterans of the bonus army, and upon their wives and children, by soldiers employing bayonets, gas bombs and tanks; as the result of which two veterans lie in Arlington Cemetery and several children in untimely graves.

All of these reasons, however, for the Democratic majorities in Maine could be summed up in the one word, Hoover.

Doubtless many Republicans also remembered that Hoover is primarily an internationalist and second a Wilson Democrat, that he had spent most of his life abroad and that most of his interests—financial, political, social and sentimental—were foreign interests.

There must have been many Republicans who did not care to vote in indorsement of an administration which was neither Republican nor American.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

RESOLUTION TO ACCEPT OFFERED

Proposed Reduction to Average 20 Cents Monthly

New electric light rates proferred by the Duquesne Light Company were recommended for approval by Council today by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

The rates, according to Waldschmidt, provide for a monthly saving of from 4 to 12½ per cent on the average consumer's bill, or about 20 cents on each house of seven rooms or less, and that it "represents a considerable saving" above the rates first proposed by the light company.

Councilman W. Y. English, chairman of the Finance Committee introduced a resolution to accept the new schedule of rates as satisfactory.

BOWSER BOOKS GIVEN TO U. S.

Reports that the Federal government was delving into business transactions of Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, indicted in the county probe, were confirmed today when O. K. Eaton, counsel for Bowser, obtained a court order turning over the books to the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Eaton explained to Judge Frank P. Patterson that Bowser wanted the books delivered to the government income tax officers so he could appear before them and explain certain items.

For more than a week the books, which have been in custody of District Attorney A. T. Parks, have been examined privately by government agents in Park's office.

Bowser's reputed profits in the $200,000 slag haul contract for the county airport are believed to be the object of the checkup.

Lindy's Stunt Flying Thrills Spectators

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Dwight W Morrow, Jr., flew here yesterday from New York to test a new plane owned by John C. Breckenridge, a summer resident.

Lindbergh went aloft in the new plane and performed a series of stunts that thrilled a large crowd. Later he and Morrow left for the Morrow summer estate at North Haven.

Coolidges Returning To Vote in Primary

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge motored today to Northampton, Mass., where they will vote in Tuesday's Massachusetts primary.

Two Chances to Register for Election

Residents of cities in Allegheny County who have been assessed, still have two chances to qualify in order to vote at the November election.

TOMORROW

Second registration day in Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne. Pittsburgh polls will be open from 8 until 11 o'clock a. m. and from 5 until 11 o'clock p. m.; in other cities, 8 to 10 a. m.; noon to 3 p. m., and from 5 to 11 p. m., eastern daylight saving time.

OCTOBER 8

Third and last registration day in the cities. This is also the last day to pay poll taxes. Only those regularly assessed can pay taxes.

September 7 was the last day to be assessed.

WOMAN, 4 MEN HOLD UP CAFE

While two accomplices, one of them a woman, waited in an automobile outside, three armed men held up the restaurant of R. W. Ross, 2506 Bedford avenue, today, and escaped with $250 taken from the cash register.

The robbers pointed guns at Ross, but did not molest four men customers in the place.

They ran from the restaurant with their loot and leaped into a car in which a man and a woman were sitting and sped away.

Early today police of the Center Avenue Station received a telephone call that four suspicious looking men were in an automobile at Greenlee Field near the scene of the holdup. Police went to the place but reported no trace of the car.

Jap Fliers to Hop For Alaska at Dawn

SAMUSHIRO, Japan, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Japanese goodwill airplane which flew here from Tokio last week in preparation for a trans-Pacific flight to the United States will take off for Nome, Alaska, at daybreak tomorrow, it was announced today.

R.F.C. Lends 2 Million To P.R.R.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company today was granted a loan of $2,000,000 by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to build 1,285 freight cars.

The loan, which comes under the classification of "work" loans, is expected by the corporation directors to give 500 men at Altoona, Pa., employment for five months.

The corporation said that as inasmuch as the construction of the cars is largely an assembling job, employment will be stimulated also in shops and plants turning out parts for the cars.

Jessel's Wife Will Get Divorce Today

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Mrs. George Jessel, wife of the famous New York comedian, will obtain a Mexican divorce today in Nogales, Sonora, according to Constantino Riccardi, who said he was her attorney. He refused to reveal her whereabouts, but said she was "nearby."

REED, HERRIOT MEET ON ARMS

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—Premier Herriot, at an intimate luncheon at the Quai D'Orsay today, informed Ambassador Walter E. Edge, United States Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Theodore Marriner, counselor of the American embassy, that he is ready to accept President Hoover's proposal for a one-third cut in armaments as the principal basis for discussion at the Geneva disarmament conference.

The fact that Herriot had announced this decision at secret meetings of parliamentary commissions on foreign relations was exclusively revealed by International News Service Saturday.

The luncheon lasted more than an hour.

Afterward it was stated in authorized American quarters that Premier Herriot had made a distinct advance toward the American viewpoint on disarmament.

REED SPOKESMAN

Senator Reed, it was learned, explained lengthily to Herriot American insistence upon an appreciable arms cut at Geneva.

He told the French premier that America's views on the German memoire demanding arms equality were much the same as the British, as disclosed in the British memorandum made public today.

The United States, he said, insisted that treaty agreements be respected and could not condone violation by Germany of the military clauses of the Versailles pact while at the same time advising Japan that she would not respect

Seek Four Men In Holdup On Hill

Police were searching for four Negroes who strongarmed John N. Knapp, of Glenshaw, at Fullerton street and Center avenue and escaped with $50 early today.

Bandits Hold Up Charleroi Trolley

Two armed men early today held up John Samuels, operator of a Charleroi-Pittsburgh street car, at a stop near the Allegheny-Washington county line and robbed him of $25, police reported.

Samuels said the men warned him not to make an outcry and sped away in a waiting automobile.

Walker in Italy As 'Rubbernecker'

PALERMO, Italy, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—James J. Walker, former Mayor of New York, arrived here today en route to the Riviera for a rest.

Snake Put in Mail Here Terrorizes Ohio Clerks

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Toledo postoffice employes breathed easier today, after the capture of a four-foot blacksnake which escaped in transit.

Unaware that the reptile was non-poisonous, the employes stepped gingerly past dark corners, until the snake was found in a desk drawer.

It had escaped from one of two cans in which several snakes had been shipped to the Toledo Zoo from the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh.

N. Y. GOVERNOR TO TALK ON UTILITIES

Rousing Reception in Intermountain Region Pleases Nominee

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.
International News Service.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 19.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was given a rousing welcome to Montana today when he arrived in Butte. Gov. John E. Erickson headed the welcoming committee at the station, where a parade was formed to tour the city. The parade ended at the courthouse, where a platform had been erected, and Gov. Erickson, Senator Thomas J. Walsh and Gov. Roosevelt spoke.

All of today will be spent in Montana, tomorrow in Washington, with a major speech at Portland, Ore., Wednesday before the Democratic nominee turns southward along the Pacific coast to California, the home state of President Hoover.

Gov. Roosevelt will speak in Portland on public utilities. It will be a companion piece to his railroad speech in Salt Lake City, in which he advocated the placing of motor buses and railroad holding companies under the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Senator William E. Borah, who, four years ago, was one of Mr. Hoover's most effective orators, but who, this year, is off the Republican reservation, was not in evidence as the Democratic special passed through his state. But Borah's outspoken opposition to Mr. Hoover and his still unspoken praise of the Democratic candidate and platform is proving a potent factor in this contest for the electoral vote of the Northwest.

Gov. Roosevelt left traditionally Republican Utah with assurances that he would carry the state in November. Ordinarily, the idea of a Democratic presidential candidate carrying Utah would seem fantastic, but this year, with a third of the population of the state "on charity," as phrased by Gov. George H. Dern, "anything may happen." Unemployment is rampant, and the mining industry is prostrate, the farmers are broke, and Utah is set for political revolution, according to its spokesmen.

Hoover to Lead Stump Campaign of G. O. P.

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—A flood of Republican oratory will be directed into every nook and corner of the United States in the next seven weeks in an effort to convince the electorate that President Hoover must be retained in the White House.

The President personally will lead the invasion of the states.

Former President Calvin Coolidge will deliver one address.

All salient arguments advanced by Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate, will be answered directly, and Mr. Hoover will attend to the most outstanding.

The "four horsemen" of the cabinet—Mills, Hurley, Stimson and Hyde—will go into high gear until election day.

This, and more, was decided last night at a White House conference at which the President assembled National Chairman Everett Sanders, Secretary of the Treasury Mills, Secretary of War Hurley, Judson C. Welliver, prominently identified with the publicity of the Coolidge administration, and Wright Patterson, Chicago, editor of the Western Newspaper Union.

Five Go On Trial In Arson Ring Case

Five persons alleged to have been implicated in a ring responsible for fires in the Braddock and Rankin districts were to go on trial in Criminal Court today charged with arson. They are John Mihalchick, Frank Nanci, Rose Getz and her husband, Frank Getz, and John Adrina.

Vincent Prato, who pleaded guilty in July, was expected to be the state's star witness. Prato's home in Braddock was bombed last week. Police believe it was in reprisal to his alleged arson confession.

HILLTOP 'WIDE OPEN,' JUDGE TOLD

to remove the bond he posted for Healy, once a friend.

Here were the accusations made before Judge Patterson:

M'ARDLE—"Healy said he could see no harm in people selling beer and numbers and he named the Workingman's Club in Boggs avenue, the Nineteenth Ward Republican Club, the Skookum Club in Fingal street and the Mannerchor Club. Numbers are sold at the Grandview service station in Grandview avenue."

BRIBE OFFER TOLD

MRS. SOFFEL—"I conferred with Healy many times. I tried to get him to close the Italian Republican Club. He told me in my own home Frank Petrolio offered him $100 a month to let the club run. Healy admitted he was afraid to raid it.

"When Schuler (deputy constable) raided the club I told Healy where the liquor could be found. Healy thought someone double-crossed him on the raid. I think the liquor was taken to a little store next door. I see people coming out drinking."

Judge Patterson asked Dunn if he knew any places where liquor was sold.

Dunn replied:

"Yes, the South Hills Republican Club. I bought beer, whisky and gin there on Saturday, September 10, and played two slot machines. The Skookum and Mannerchor Clubs were closed on September 10. I was in the South Hills Republican Club the night they got the order to close. I heard the proprietor, Bill Robinson, say he got the order.

SLOT MACHINES, TOO

"I saw slot machines in Liney's restaurant in Grandview avenue and in Martin Hantz's store. Liney's sell numbers, too. About three months ago I met Healy in front of the Courthouse and he complained he wasn't making any money out of being a constable. He asked me for a list of the numbers writers in the Nineteenth Ward."

Judge Patterson interrupted:

"What did he want that for?"

Dunn replied:

"He wanted to cut in, he told me. I didn't get him the list. Bill Madden sells numbers in Hantz's store. Cy Ruddey is a pickup man and operates right across from the Grandview gas station. A man named Walsh operates in Meridan street. Last winter in McArdle's office we were talking about closing the clubs and Healy said he didn't want to do it."

Judge Patterson:

"What do you mean, 'cut in'."?

Dunn:

ADMISSIONS QUOTED

Deputy Constable Schuler said Healy had admitted he knew certain places were operating. Schuler added:

"Ten days before the last constables' return I made a survey and was refused admittance at the clubs. I took it that something was going on. I discovered open violations in the numbers racket."

McArdle asked:

"Do you know a man named Minetti?"

Schuler replied:

"Yes, he makes moonshine and sells it. He was raided recently by the police. He lives back of Healy's home."

At 1612 Broadway a man named Capelli was in the numbers racket and other numbers places are a store at 1542 Broadway and a private home in Fallowfield street, Schuler charged. He added:

"At 11:45 every day a car pulls up in front of Jones' drugstore in Broadway. The license number is 62791—issued to a man named Lauderbaugh, from Duquesne Heights, and driven by Lauderbaugh. I checked up Victor Scott, who rides street cars. Scott was a candidate for constable against Healy. Scott picks up numbers."

Judge Patterson asked:

"Why haven't you done something?"

Schuler explained:

"When I was appointed deputy I knew that Healy was told of these conditions. Why should I act? It was Healy's duty."

Attorney Ralph Frank, counsel for Healy, then asked why Schuler hadn't taken action against Lauderbaugh's car.

Schuler replied that he himself didn't have a car to give chase, that he couldn't get help from the police, that he would have to arrest the pickup man, too, to make out a case. He continued:

"The only raids made in the ward were made by me. I had to get warrants from an alderman in another ward. We met at Healy's home. Deputy Constable Neuner backed out. Grimm and myself and Lausterman went to the Nineteenth Ward Republican Club. But they had been tipped off and were ready for us. We found beer and a little bit of whisky. The case was thrown out by Alderman Henning."

Schuler then read an anonymous letter he had received in which he was threatened with a black eye.

TELLS OF COMPLAINTS

Joseph Regano told of complaining to Healy about the numbers writers. He said:

"Two months ago Healy told me in the Courthouse he was up against it financially. I said, 'If you are not getting your share of what is being handed out, that is your fault.' Healy said, 'I got my eye on the numbers men, but I would like to have someone I could trust in the different sections of the ward.'

"He asked me to take care of my section. He said he was reorganizing the ward and wanted me to be one of his pickup men."

Regano named "Doc" Brune as a pickup man in Duquesne Heights, operating in front of the Shilo Restaurant. He said Victor Scott was a pickup man who lived in Montooth, but maintained a voting residence in the home of Frank Petrolio in Sycamore street. Scott "picks up" at Liney's Restaurant and street car stops, Regano said.

Judge Patterson adjourned the hearing to Wednesday after hearing all the McArdle witnesses.

INSULL PROBE SHOWS LOSS BY TEACHERS

Many Induced to Buy Stock With Scrip, Quiz Reveals

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The state's investigation of the Insull utilities crash swung into high gear today, accelerated by the fresh disclosure that hundreds of Chicago's unpaid school teachers were induced to invest their scrip in one of Samuel Insull's numerous enterprises.

Just a few months before the erstwhile power king's vast realm passed into the hands of receivers, it was learned, thousands of dollars' worth of the school scrip, issued to teachers in lieu of their salaries, poured into the coffers of the Corporation Securities Company.

The Insull investment concern organized a campaign to sell its stock to the teachers, accepting the scrip as part payment. The scrip, which many teachers were unable to cash, was exchanged by the company for city tax anticipation warrants, which were, in turn, converted into cash.

This campaign, it was pointed out, appealed to the teachers because they were told they would be able to realize cash for Corporation Securities stock on the open market. In many instances, however, the market price tumbled precipitously after teachers had purchased the stock. And within a few weeks after the campaign, with its staff of special solicitors, had been launched, the Corporation Securities, together with the other Insull organizations, fell into receiverships.

The campaign to sell stock to the teachers was described by Miss Margaret Haley, president of the Teachers' Federation, and Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' Union.

Meanwhile, State's Attorney John A. Swanson's inquiry to ascertain whether criminal culpability is to be found in the acts of the former Insull management swung into action today. Swanson's expert on extradition, Euclid Taylor, had ready for presentation to his chief the full results of his painstaking study of international treaties on the subject between the United States and France and Canada.

MOTHER DYING, GARNER FEARS

DETROIT, Tex., Sept. 15.—(AP.)—Mrs. Sarch Jane Garner, 81-year-old mother of the Democratic vice presidential nominee, critically ill at her home here, failed to show any improvement today and those in attendance believed the end was not far off.

Speaker Garner, who interrupted his political campaign activities to hurry to his mother's bedside, said this morning:

"My mother cannot recover. It's just a matter of time now."

Mrs. Garner became conscious for a brief period after the Speaker's arrival from Washington yesterday, and feebly acknowledge his presence.

She dozed off shortly afterwards. Her pet poodle, "Fluffy," has refused to eat and spends most of its time lying beside or under her bed.

Husband Asking Divorce

MRS. DELPHINE SELEE HEIMERT . . RADIO, CONCERT-SINGER

Mrs. Heimert, whose husband, Harold E. Heimert, 5860 Solway street, today testified in his divorce suit that the bright lights of fame took her from home to Broadway and Hollywood.

WIFE GONE, MAN BLAMES RADIO

Magnetism of the radio studio wrecked Harold E. Heimert's romance, it was testified today when he asked for divorce from Delphine Selee Heimert, his singing wife.

Charging desertion, Heimert, who lives at 5860 Solway street, said the bright lights of fame took his wife from the dim nooks of their Squirrel Hill home.

Mrs. Heimert, he told Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court, never did like home, and one day packed up and left him. He wrote her in New York, but, if she ever received the letter, she failed to reply, Heimert said.

COX WILL HEAR TISDAL ACCEPT

At the County Fairgrounds near here today he was to hear Dr. Victor C. Tisdal officially accept nomination as the Jobless Party Vice Presidential candidate.

SPINELLO HELD VOLPE SLAYER

Indicted with Spinello were "John Doe" and "Richard Roe," two other men, names unknown, who, detectives say, assisted Spinello in the massacre of John, Arthur and James Volpe.

The only witness before the grand jury was Lieut. Frank Ferris, chief of homicide squad. Ferris said Spinello was last heard of when John Bazzano, owner of the coffee shop in which the Volpe boys were slain, was himself taken for a ride in Brooklyn last August. Spinello is under indictment on other murder charges.

Grid Coach Arrested As Dry Law Violator

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Harry Lispi, 27, new coach of athletics at Christian Brothers College here and a former football star at St. Benedict's College in Kansas City, Mo., was arrested early today on a charge of violating the liquor law.

Mrs. Lena Lenti, 23, with whom Lispi was riding, was charged with transporting liquor and reckless driving.

Man Accused by Girl Held Jaworski Pal

DETROIT, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Frank Hallas, 29, said to be the sole survivor of the notorious Paul Jaworski gang, was held today on charges of assault and battery preferred by Lucille Szumlinski, 19.

The girl said he slapped and scratched her when she objected to his advances, made while she was walking on a street with her mother.

Tear Gas Overcomes Barricaded Maniac

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—George Ben, 54, an escaped inmate of the Warren State Hospital, was to be returned to the asylum today after being captured near here during a tear gas bomb siege.

Ben, who barricaded himself in a deserted farmhouse, levelled a shotgun at state and county police as they attempted to capture him.

Boy, Hit-Run Victim, Gets Hip Fracture

Police today sought a hit-and-run driver who yesterday ran down Henry Mackowiack, 10, of 2407 Home street, while he was crossing Carson street, near Fifth street. The boy, taken to the South Side Hospital, was reported suffering from a fractured hip.

'OTHER WOMAN' FACES QUIZ IN DUBOIS CASE

Jeweler, Slain Wife To Be Buried in Same Plot

International News Service.

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 13.—Side by side as they had gone for 19 years in life, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dubois went to their final resting place today.

Six relatives were the only mourners at private funeral services in an undertaking parlor here, and burial in a single grave in Blue Hills Cemetery at Braintree.

The aged mother of Dubois, urging the public to "judge not, lest ye be judged," was at the side of her son's coffin.

MOTHER AT GRAVE

Mrs. Cecile Dubois, of New York City, the mother, was a pathetic figure, overwhelmed by sorrow, but still firm in her belief that her son did not kill his wife before he killed himself.

She rested on the arm of her other son, Jules, of Wareham. Jules' wife, Marie, and their children, Rosalie, 17, Jules, Jr., 15, and George, 14, were the other members of the little funeral party.

While the final chapter in the strange drama of love and death surrounding the Tuckahoe, (N. Y.,) jeweler, whose suicide preceded by a few hours the finding of the body of his wife in a cement vault in his Plymouth bungalow, was being written in quiet Blue Hills Cemetery, further questioning of "the other woman" in the case loomed.

Police investigators said they wanted Assistant District Attorney John V. Sullivan to again question Miss Grace Atwood, blonde sweetheart of Dubois, and daughter of a wealthy Middleboro box manufacturer, to end certain rumors and clear up certain angles of the perplexing death case.

CLEARED GIRL

Sullivan has stated that he was convinced, following his questioning of Grace, four days before Dubois died, that she was absolutely innocent of any connection in the death of Mrs. Dubois; that she supposed she was in love with a widower and that the case was a closed book as "the real culprit is dead."

In a note written to his lawyer, Jeremiah J. McAnarney, two hours before he died, Dubois claimed his wife shot herself in bed, that he concealed her body because of fear and to keep his sweetheart's name out of any investigation.

American Baroness Dead in Biarritz

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Word was received here today of the death on Saturday in Biarritz, France, of the Baroness Mathilda Meyer de Schauensee, the former Mathilda Toland, daughter of the late Robert and Anna Dale Toland, of Philadelphia.

She was the wife of Baron Frederic Meyer de Schauensee, a Swiss nobleman, and resided in Rome and Paris for about 20 years.

Gunmen Lock Four In Vault, Get $2,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Five armed bandits held up the Good Humor Ice Cream Company in Brooklyn today and escaped with $2,000 in cash after locking four employes in an office vault. The vault was opened four hours later, and the four workers quickly revived by an ambulance surgeon.

California Forest Fires Being Curbed

VENTURA, Cal., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Forest fires which have laid bare 125,000 acres in the Santa Barbara National Forest and nearby timber land were slowly being brought under control today.

thousands of millions, to save, if possible, some hundreds of millions foolishly poured out abroad, in private loans.

NEW YORK requests from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation money to build a $75,000,000 tube under the Hudson River. Experience with the first Hudson tunnel proves that the second tube will pay for itself in a short time.

This is a chance to put money to work and give employment to many without possibility of loss.

McBride Denies Drys Will Lose Congress

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—New fuel was tossed into the dry and anti-dry controversy today by the claim of P. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, that efforts to submit the Eighteenth Amendment for revision or modification will be defeated in the next Congress.

The statement of McBride was issued following a tour in the Middle West and a survey of the results in recent primaries.

He took sharp issue with anti-prohibition leaders who maintain the primaries have shown a distinct trend both for repeal of the amendment and modification of the Volstead Act. He said:

"With only three primaries remaining it now appears certain that the Congress to be elected this fall will not submit a resolution to modify the Eighteenth Amendment. This conclusion is based on the failure of the anti-drys to defeat or replace a sufficient number of Congressmen who voted against the Beck-Linthicum resolution."

Gandhi Begins Training For 'Fast of Death'

BOMBAY, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi began training today for his "fast to the death" which is slated to begin tomorrow as a protest against the British government's solution of the knotty problem of Indian communal elections.

In Yeroda Jail, at Poona, where he is imprisoned, he began by cutting down the amount of food he takes at a meal and widening the space between meals. He has been studying ways, he said, for extending his life as long as possible after his hunger strike begins.

He still hopes, however, he added, that the situation may change and relieve him of the necessity for fulfilling his vow.

3 SONS FACE CHAIR IN SLAYING OF MOUNTAIN 'BAD MAN'

MOTHER TO AID DEFENSE OF HER BOYS

Girls in Stocking Feet Attend Funeral Of Isley Tate

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 19. — Isley Tate, the "bad man" of the mountains, was in his grave today and District Attorney Wade K. Newell was preparing to ask the state to send three of his 20 children to the electric chair.

Newell announced that the three sons, all held in jail for the killing, had signed statements which, in his opinion, sealed their doom. They had not only confessed the murder, but had admitted planning it the night before, Newell contended, so that they could get possession of their father's two farms.

NOT GUILTY PLEA

A not guilty plea will be entered by the sons, George, 19; John, 20, and Sam, 15, when they stand trial in December, according to Attorney E. D. Brown, engaged to defend the youths. While not granted permission to interview the trio, Brown said:

"They'll never convict these boys in the wide, wide world. When all the facts in the case are known, the sons will be given their freedom before any jury in the land. I'm just as certain of their exoneration as I am the leaves are falling to grace their native hills."

Brown was to visit the widow today at Haydentown.

Tate, who once traded a cow for a housekeeper, was buried yesterday not far from the little mountain cabin across the West Virginia line where he lived with his young wife and the 11 remaining children. At services in the Haydentown community church two of the girls attended in their stocking feet.

STANDS BY SONS

Mrs. Tate, an expectant mother for the thirteenth time in her 38 years, stood by her sons. Their statement that the father was cruel and beat them was supported by her.

Newell said that George Tate, one of the sons held, had signed a statement in which he confessed having tried to murder his father a month ago. George said he followed his father five miles through brush, Newell said.

Meanwhile mountain residents wondered where Tate had hidden his money. Many believed that he had buried it on his goat farm.

Tate, who usually carried a gun, was shot from ambush as he walked to Haydentown last Thursday with $200 on his person. Newell said the sons had not only shot their father, but robbed him and split the loot with their mother.

SHERIFF ROUTS FARM PICKETS

WORTHINGTON, Minn., Sept. 19. — (AP.)—Brandishing clubs and blocking roads with steel girders, heavy wire cable and spiked machine belts, farmer pickets seeking higher product prices went into action today and soon afterward lost in their first brush with the law.

Sheriff Eldon Rowe and Deputy Sheriff Albert Levine, went to the aid of S. V. Calvin, a farmer living south of here, and rescued Calvin's load of sheep after the pickets unhitched his team, tied the horses to a telephone pole and ran the wagon load into a ditch.

Led by M. B. Miller, vice chairman of the Nobles county unit of the State Farmers' Holiday Association, which defied the parent body in establishing picket lines, upwards of 300 men patroled 10 highways leading into Worthington.

Farmers to Get Aid By 'Vote or Violence'

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Farmers are going to get relief either by ballots or violence, Howard Y. Williams, national director of the League for Independent Political Action, declared in a report of a two months' survey of "the farm revolt in the Middle West," made public today.

Bodies of Vet, Girl Discovered in Canal

TROOPS QUELL MINE STRIFE

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Troops brought quiet today in Taylorville, where two bombs yesterday damaged the plant of the Taylorville Breeze and the sub-district headquarters of the United Mine Workers.

The troops kept active, breaking up groups of men, while officers interviewed the striking miners, who disclaimed any part in the bombings.

A statement by Edward R. Hemmer, of the Progressive Miners of America, who are holding out against a new wage scale of $5 a day ordered by the United Mine Workers, denied the miners had anything to do with the bombs, and charged that the Peabody Coal Company either "directly" or indirectly "was responsible for placing them, in an effort to alienate sympathy from the striking miners."

Straw Hat Smashed, Owner Files Suit

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—John H. Bramlett has gone to law to prove a man's straw hat is nobody's business but his own.

He said that just because he appeared in a straw lid after the close of the traditional season for such headgear, several loiterers and others called it "goat feed," knocked it off his head and broke it. He asks 95 cents for the hat and $1.25 punitive damages.

Wife Writes of New Love, Dies by Poison

NEWARK, O., Sept. 19.—Leaving a note in which she declared she could not live longer under present conditions and professing her love for an unnamed man, Mrs. Florence Priest Fulton, 20, domestic, died here today. Police said she had taken poison.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today was reported completely recovered from the attack of indigestion which he suffered last week.

SOLDIERS GUARD JUDGE PROBING FATAL FEUD

Shots From Courthouse Kill Two, Injure Third Man

MANCHESTER, Ky., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—In the same courthouse from which hidden marksmen yesterday killed two men and wounded another, Circuit Judge William Lewis, backed up by National Guardsmen, convened the fall term of court today to inquire into the latest outbreak of Clay County's ancient and bloody feud.

The state troops were stationed on the courthouse square where but 24 hours ago death waited for any one bold enough to walk and across which flew the bullets that killed Commonwealth's Attorney Frank H. Baker, and John Brockman, who rushed to his side as he fell. Frank Young, 40, was shot in the hip and another bullet forced Wiley Baker's aged mother back into the house after she had tried to go to her son's nephew.

The two victims of a feud that is traced back to the bitterness of Civil War days by some old residents, lay for nearly four hours until Gov. Ruby Laffoon sent troops and the marksmen in the courthouse and nearby hills fled.

Other men known to be enemies of the Baker family were said to have slipped quietly out of town before the troops arrived; but many of them were armed when they left, against the possibility of attacks in the hills.

Later in the day a large number of Baker's relatives and friends left town under escort of Sheriff Langdon and a corps of deputies, taking with them the bodies of Baker and Brockman. Armed men rode in front and behind the automobiles that carried most of the party.

M'KEE DOOMS BURLESQUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Mayor McKee today sounded the doom of burlesque on Broadway.

Apparently not waiting for License Commissioner Geraghty's recommendations following the recent investigation, he abruptly ordered the immediate shutdown of two houses in Forty-second street—the Republican and the Eltinge.

At the same time he gave other burlesque producers the warning:

Gorguloff's Mother Arrested for Theft

MOSCOW, Sept. 19.—(Universal.)—The 83-year-old mother of Dr. Paul Gorguloff, Russian assassin guillotined for the murder of President Doumer, of France, and his aunt were arrested yesterday for stealing grain from a collective farm.

The penalty upon conviction is death. Scores have been executed within the past month for similar offenses. The two women will be tried, but the mother is expected to receive a commutation of sentence because of her age.

Asks County Office; To Take No Pay

CITY SALES TAX HEARING SET

Council today invited all civic and trade organizations to attend a public hearing within the next two weeks to discuss a municipal sales tax on commodities not included in the state sales tax bill recently passed at the special session of the Legislature.

These organizations were requested to present a summary of recommendations. John S. Herron, president of Council, said no estimate had been made as to the revenue likely to be derived from the new tax.

Hillig, Williams Set for Sea Hop

LIBERTY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Otto Hillig today was awaiting only the final word of his pilot, Roger Q. Williams, before taking off on a projected one-stop flight from this Southern New York village to Athens, Greece.

Hillig had hoped to get away today on what will be his second Atlantic flight, but delay in obtaining the approval of the State Department for his flight caused a postponement in the scheduled departure. Hillig now hopes to leave within two or three days.

Alibi Defense In Arson Trial

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 19.—The trial of L. J. Kamons and his son, Abbon, of Pittsburgh, accused of arson, is expected to end late today with the charge of Judge Frank E. Reader. This morning Attorney H. H. Wilson, for the defense, asked acquittal of the pair, because of an alibi.

Quebec to Deport May Day Rioters

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Fourteen alleged Communists, arrested for participation in May Day riots in the mining districts of Northern Quebec, are to be deported during the first week in October, immigration officials said today.

LINK BAZZANO, VANISHED MAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Samuel Medel, also known as Samuel Medalia, walked out of his restaurant here on September 6 to keep an engagement with two men.

He has not been seen nor heard from since and police today started search for him on the plea of Mrs. Catherine Gerviano, his sister.

The "burlap bag mob," accused of murdering seven men for a price, among whom was John Bazzano, Pittsburgh cafe owner, may be implicated in the disappearance of Medel, police think. They believe he incurred the wrath of a rival gang in the liquor running game and has been put on the spot.

Police questioned Lottie Coll, widow of Vincent Coll, slain gang leader, in Women's Prison. She was a friend of Medel before she married Coll, they said.

Police Probe Death Of Former Soldier

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Police today are trying to learn the circumstances surrounding the death of Wadek Levanowski, a former soldier.

Found bleeding on a street, Levanowski died en route to a hospital last night. His companion, Joseph Wawrisnick, was released after police questioned him. Coroner W. G. Stroble aso is investigating the case.

Son of Ex-Governor To Die for Murder

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Miguel Ahumada, former student at Exeter Academy, Harvard University and Boston Tech, was under sentence of death today for the murder of his sweetheart, Antonia Casillas, two years ago while in a fit of rage.

The death sentence for the son of the former Governor of Guadalajara was upheld in the State's Lower Courts.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure, centered over the New England coast, covers most of the eastern states, while another high, centered over Washington and Oregon, covers the West. A trough of low pressure extends from Manitoba southward over the plains states to the Southwest, with active centers over Eastern Colorado and Western Kansas and over Manitoba. There is considerable cloudiness over the central valleys as a result of the low pressure and showers were quite general yesterday and last night as far east as Indiana. It is raining this morning over the Lower Mississippi Valley. It is warmer than yesterday over the eastern half of the country, while over the West the change was towards cooler. No frost was reported except in Idaho and Wyoming. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over the southern plains and the Southern Mississippi Valley states.

EXPLAIN CELL SMUGGLING

Two holdup suspects have made a partial statement as to how an auto ownership license card was smuggled to them in a cell in Central Police Station, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh disclosed today.

Walsh questioned the two, John Russo, 33, of Cleveland, and James Foster, 25, of Youngstown, along with members of the police force who had charge of the suspects following their arrest last week by detectives.

Wash said:

"My investigation is not completed. If I find any member of the police force connived to smuggled in that card, they will be suspended and if proved guilty I will vote for their dismissal."

Hamrin Government Resigns in Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Swedish government of Premier F. T. Hamrin resigned today.

The resignation arose from yesterday's election for a new lower house of the Riksdag in which the issue was majority rule by the Social Democrats. That party fell short of a majority, although it increased its representation by 14 seats. The political complexion of the new government remains in doubt.

Man Pleads Guilty In 'Torch Murder'

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 19. — (INS.) — Charged with complicity in the "torch murder" of Joseph Yurish, Butler Township gasoline station proprietor, Joseph Hudock, 24, today pleaded guilty.

The action astonished court attaches and spectators. Hudock made himself liable to death in the electric chair. His counsel, appointed by court, asked for an immediate hearing.

Flier Goes on Trial In $75,000 Robbery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—A former aviator, Charles Merritt, went on trial today charged with the $75,000 robbery here three years ago of an armored truck.

He was arrested recently in New Orleans. Two others accused of the robbery, James (Cowboy) Hayes and Russell Gibson, are at large.

Stainforth, Speed King of Air, Crashes

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth, who set an air speed record of 408.8 miles an hour last September, was injured today when he crashed during a flight at Cornwall. A passenger also was hurt. Neither was seriously injured.

Bandits Kidnap, Rob Store Manager

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Robbers early today kidnaped and later released unharmed the office manager of Eiband's department store here. They escaped with about $3,500 in cash.

G. A. R. MEETING AT LINCOLN SHRINE

2,000 Aged Warriors Parade in Tribute To Emancipator

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The streets of Springfield, whereon the poet Vachel Lindsay wrote, the spirit of Abraham Lincoln walks at midnight when danger threatens the Union, today resounded to the tramp of silver-haired veterans who answered the Emancipator's' call in '61-'65.

Stirred by memories of their war-time commander-in-chief, at whose tomb in Oak Ridge Cemetery they gathered yesterday, members of the Grand Army of the Republic, assembled for their sixty-sixth annual encampment, paid homage to their leader.

WEARY VETS PARADE

Enfeebled with age, weary with fatigue caused by journeys from far parts of the country, the veterans passed in review before the tomb which contains the mortal remains of him whom they called "Father Abraham."

But their numbers were not "50,000 strong," as the old song they sang in Civil War days said. Of the survivors of that once mighty host—a few more than 13,000 names are left on the roster—less than 2,000 are here assembled.

Wreaths were placed on the parapets by the commander, Samuel P. Town, of Pennsylvania, and the heads of auxiliary branches. Gov. Louis Lincoln Emmerson delivered an address, telling them that the vast Lincoln monument, reconstructed within the year by the state, was a shrine not alone to "Illinois' most famous son, but to them, the members of the G. A. R. as well."

VISIT SHRINES

He said:

"Springfield gave Lincoln to the world and received him back immortal."

Today, with little business slated veterans were visiting the Lincoln homestead, the old courthouse in which, when it was the state capitol, Lincoln served as a legislator, and the rooms in the building on the square wherein he once had his law office.

Snatches of Civil War songs filled the air wherever a few of the veterans gathered, but they were sung, as Lincoln would have had it, "with malice toward none, with charity for all."

Addresses, elections and other business matters are scheduled on the several days' program remaining.

BLONDE, 2 MEN HELD FOR QUIZ

Blonde Mary O'Hara, 21, and her two companions, George W. Murray, 32, of Hamilton avenue, and Edward Duffy, 26, of Sheridan avenue, were still being held for investigation today following their arrest in Beaver in an alleged stolen automobile.

The girl denied knowing the men. She said they had picked her up after she had missed a Cleveland bus. The description of the woman and her companions tallies with that of suspects wanted here in connection with several robberies.

Flier in Hutchinson Hunt Still Missing

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Nothing is known at Godthaab, Greenland, of the reported disappearance of Ernst Uden, famous German war ace, reported lost while searching for the "flying family" of Hutchinsons, the Governor there said today.

Members of the German film expedition with which Udet was connected said the flier and a group of men had been operating for some time at a distance, but had kept in continuous radio touch.

Codona, Circus Star, Marries Vera Bruce

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Alfredo Codona, the only circus aerialist in the world who does a triple somersault to a hand-to-hand catch, married Miss Vera Bruce yesterday. The bride, herself an aerialist, admitted that the ceremony made her a little nervous.

Codona was the husband of the famous Lillian Leitzel, who was killed in a fall in Copenhagen in February, 1931.

THE AMERICAN LEGION IN SOLEMN CONVENTION AT PORTLAND, ITS TRAPPINGS THOSE OF BIG POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

Gifts Lured Mate, Wife Says; Wins $25,000

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—(Universal.) — Mrs. Suzanne Coughlan, wealthy Seattle matron, must pay $25,000 damages to Mrs. Grace Simpson for assertedly enticing the latter's husband, James T. Simpson, away from her by gifts of an expensive automobile and other presents.

Judgment for this amount, returned in Mrs. Simpson's favor by Superior Judge H. P. Wood when Mrs. Coughlan, who is said to be the wife of Jack Coughlan, a reputed millionaire, failed to appear to contest the suit, was on file today. Mrs. Simpson had sued for $100,000. She testified:

"I went to Mrs. Coughlan and she told me that she was worth $2,000,000, and that she could take any man she wanted."

Mrs. Simpson declared she and her husband married nearly 15 years ago and lived together happily until recently.

Mrs. Simpson had also named a Mrs. Jack Cudahy as defendant, describing her as "a woman of great wealth," who had also contributed to the alienation of her husband's affections, but the suit as to this defendant was dismissed because of failure to serve her with a copy of the complaint.

Rodeo Cruel as Roman Arena, Says Irene Castle

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Rodeos, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin believes, are barbaric displays on par with those offered in the arenas of ancient Rome.

The former dancer, now a Chicago social leader and active protector of dumb animals, asserted today that "certain features of a rodeo are necessarily cruel, saying:

"What I cannot understand is how those who may not even care whether animals are abused still would submit their children to the possible shock of seeing a human being mangled."

Mrs. McLaughlin said she had never been able to "rid my memory of the ashen faces of three men I saw carried off the scene of a rodeo at Phoenix."

She has protested against a rodeo scheduled for this city soon, and concluded her statement with the assertion that some features of this form of entertainment, though perhaps adaptations of ranching experiences, were inexcusable when staged as a diversion.

DAVIS ON TRIAL IN LOTTERY

torneys and their assistants and listened intently while Judge Coleman reviewed the charges against him. He said:

"This case involves a man whose name is known to all of you."

He cautioned the jurors against forming opinions from anything adduced outside of the court.

He described Davis as "Secretary of Labor under Presidents Hoover, Coolidge and Harding, now United States Senator from Pennsylvania and director general of the Loyal Order of Moose. The court said:

"These alleged lotteries were ostensibly, or actually, for benevolent purposes in fraternal orders."

The talesmen were asked if they had any feeling of any sort toward Senator Davis, but none replied. None was a member of the Moose, Eagles or Mystic Shrine.

Three talesmen were members of the Knights of Columbus and one answered that he was a Mason.

Further questions indicated that the court sought a jury free of bias toward fraternal orders, organized labor, government office, politics or toward lottery itself. The court said:

"It is possible for a reasonable man to believe that lotteries are traditional and no crime."

The government exercised several peremptory challenges, excusing two of the Knights of Columbus and a labor union man.

One prospective juror, Walter B. Isaac, told the court:

"I couldn't bring in a verdict against this man on the charge—I can see no harm in it."

unilateral treaty changes in the Far East.

The United States Reed added, frowned upon increase in armaments by Germany or any other power.

Though he spoke in general terms, Herriot replied that he was now willing to repay constructive support at Geneva against Germany's recent moves with an active French policy leading to a serious arms cut. He did not, however, go into details, saying he could not tie himself to a definite program until he saw the turn of events at Geneva.

British Note on Arms Stuns Germany

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Stunned at the sharp rejection of the German demand for arms equality by Great Britain in a memorandum published throughout the world today, the Von Papen ministry decided to abandon note writing on the subject and will reply neither to France nor Great Britain.

The German claim, however, will be pushed in diplomatic conversations.

It was stated at the foreign office that Germany probably will elucidate her views on disarmament at the meeting of the league council September 25, if asked to do so. The foreign office has not altered its stand that further participation in the work of the disarmament conference depends upon how the conference steering committee, meeting Wednesday, treats the German arms memorandum.

NATION SHOCKED

The entire nation, as shown by newspaper comment and the words of government officials, was shocked at the tenor of the British statement, which was handed to Foreign Minsiter Von Neurath by the British Ambassador.

It was believed here Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, was the man responsible for the tenor of the British statement, which was considered one of the severest reprimands tossed at Germany by Great Britain since the World War.

Aside from expressing British official opinion on the German arms question, the memorandum revealed what Britain hopes will emerge from the disarmament conference, stating:

"The objects to be aimed at are, in the case of the more heavily armed powers, the largest possible reduction, and in the case of the lightly armed states at any rate no material increase."

It added that the treaty of Versailles can be modified only by mutual consent of all signatories.

This was interpreted as contending that Germany cannot increase her military strength except by revision of the Versailles treaty.

Pursuit in Nude Regains Bather's Stolen Shoes

Nobody, says Joe Sakalas, of the Helping Hand, is going to steal his shoes and get away with it. Not even if Joe, in birthday suit, must chase the thief several blocks.

That's what Sakalas did today when he saw a stranger help himself to the shoes while Joe bathed at the city bath house, in Wylie avenue. The chase, followed by dozens of cheering Hill district residents, was down Wylie avenue, over Epiphany street and up to Fullerton street.

When the police came, Joe was back taking a bath while he kept an eye on the recovered shoes. They didn't arrest him.

Son Stricken Aiding Crippled Man Dies

Deputy coroners today were investigating the death of William Sunderland, 38, of 812 Etan street, McKees Rocks, reported to have followed a collapse he suffered after lifting his paralytic father into bed. He was believed to have been the victim of a heart attack.

Knights Arrange Columbus Day Fete

An informal dinner will mark the observance of Columbus Day, October 12, by Pittsburgh Chapter, Knights of Columbus, at Duquesne Council, Oakland. Albert A. Scholze, of Allegheny Council, is general chairman on arrangements.

SEES 'NEW ERA' AUTO LEADER

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Addressing the Pennsylvania Automotive Association in convention here today, George Graham, of Detroit, vice president of the Rockne Motors Corporation, predicted the dawn of a new business era in which the "small fellow" would have better opportunities than in the past.

He said that each dealer should ask himself, "What can I do?" to help in the apparent upward trend of business. The answer to that question, he said, was "work."

President Thomas F. Dunn appointed a nominating committee comprised of George Roth, Philadelphia, chairman; C. A. Rothmeyer, Pittsburgh, and William Sheaffer, Reading. The resolutions committee named comprised Harry Brearley, Ardmore, chairman; High Andrews, Scranton, and R. C. Keller, York.

U. B. MINISTERS ASSIGNED

Bishop Glenn D. Batdorf, of Harrisburg, spoke yesterday to 1,200 persons at the closing meeting of the Allegheny Conference of the United Brethren Church held in Shoemaker Memorial Church, McKeesport. The Rev. W. S. Wilson, of Johnstown, was named conference superintendent. Pastoral assignments in the Pittsburgh district included:

M. M. Snyder, Braddock; Glenn C. Mitchell, East Pittsburgh; A. J. Orlidge, First United Brethren Church, and J. S. Strayer, Shoemaker Memorial Church, McKeesport; D. N. Ciampa, Brentwood; C. J. Fox, Sewickley; W. H. Hayes, Wilkinsburg, and John Watson, Pittsburgh.

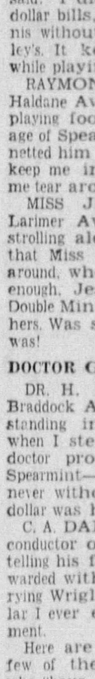
HUNDREDS HERE GET WRIGLEY DOLLAR BILLS

Inquiring Reporters Comb All of Pittsburgh and Suburbs.



By MR. SPEAR.

Talk about excitement. We're having it. Why, Miss Mint and I and our assistants will have to do a "Lon Chaney" to get away from people who recognize us. Especially Miss Mint and her helpers, since their pictures have been in the papers.

Here we are—looking for Wrigley gum users—and the whole city is looking for us. I'll admit our job is a bit easier though.

Miss Mint had an exciting time the other night at a big football opener. Just imagine—she went right out on the field and stopped Richard C. Davison, Drum Major of the Duquesne Band. Although waving his baton and strutting up the field, he pulled out a pack of P. K's. and said: "Wrigley's is just the thing for the football season—I'm never without it."

Among others Miss Mint gave dollar bills to—at the game—were: MANSFIELD HYATT, 931½ Clarissa St.; BUD MILLER, 3903 Fowler St.; H. R. MILLER, 4218 Bruce St., and W. P. SCHRAGER, 1249 Hillsdale Ave., Dormont, Western Union Chief in the press box.

HOWARD GROVE, 1039 Flemington Ave., was ready to play tennis when I stopped him. He received a dollar bill when he said: "I didn't know about these dollar bills, but I never play tennis without a package of Wrigley's. It keeps my mouth moist while playing."

RAYMOND COSGROVE, 4015 Haldane Ave., uses Wrigley's while playing football. He had a package of Spearmint with him, which netted him a dollar bill. "This will keep me in gum all fall—watch me tear around end now," he said.

MISS JEAN BARCLAY, 803 Larimer Ave., Turtle Creek, was strolling along Penn Ave., hoping that Miss Mint or I would be around, when I stopped her. Sure enough, Jean had a package of Double Mint. A crisp dollar bill was hers. Was she happy? I'll say she was!

DOCTOR GETS A DOLLAR

DR. H. H. STERNBERG, 823 Braddock Ave., E. Pittsburgh, was standing in front of his office, when I stepped up to him. The doctor produced a package of Spearmint—said that he was never without Wrigley's and the dollar was his.

C. A. DAILEY, 2319 Sidney St., conductor on a South Side car, is telling his friends how he was rewarded with a dollar bill for carrying Wrigley's. "The easiest dollar I ever earned," was his comment.

Here are the names of just a few of the many Pittsburghers who "have their Wrigley's and a dollar, too": W. E. HOOVER, JR., 417 Lorenz Ave.; R. M. FEELEY, 242 Smith Way, Mt. Washington; W. R. ROSSER, 103 Calhoun Ave., Carrick; CARL SCHMIDT, 1928 Westmont Ave., Carrick; LILLY KRILL, 609 Grandview Ave., Mt. Washington; W. A. McCOURT, 24 Ellers St.; JULIA WABASH, 69 Harwood St.; JOSEPH K. ALLISON, 4004 Northminster St.; MRS. CHARLES C. SHUPE, 105 E. 11th St., Homestead, and JOE THOMAS, 420 Grasfeld Ave.

There is only way to get one of those new dollar bills. Just step up to your favorite gum counter—ask for a package of any of the four Wrigley brands—and you are in the game. Miss Mint and I will be in Pittsburgh indefinitely—so don't give up hope if you are not stopped tomorrow. There is no way to tell where we will be. We are all over town. We try to pop up in the most unexpected places. Men, women and children—all are eligible. The only requirement is a package of Wrigley's. Be sure you have yours tomorrow. You may be next.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- BY SALLY MARTIN

Have Working Wives Spoiled Modern Husbands?

Do husbands always go haywire if the little woman works and pays her half of the rent?

Mary thinks they do. According to her, Us Gals two-timed ourselves plenty when we went in for jobs and fifty-fifty expense accounts. It is true that she has reasons for thinking so?

"If you work and help carry things once, your husband will expect you to keep it up and raise cain if you don't!"

Has that been your experience, Missis Working Wife?

Or do you think that maybe it depends on the kind of husband you've grabbed off?

"Dear Sally Martin—

"I recently read Bina's letter and believe me, I can appreciate her position, as I have one of those Nagging Husbands.

"I have been married going on four years and a year ago I lost my job and since then I haven't been able to find another one. And believe me, if I had it to do over again, I sure would let the man carry on, and meet all the expenses. Because when a woman has once worked and shouldered her half of the responsibility of keeping up the home, her husband expects her to keep on doing it.

"If she tries to settle down at home—well, it sure makes a difference!

"Where are the men of years ago, who insisted on supporting their wives? You certainly don't meet them nowadays! I suppose women were their own undoing, but nevertheless, it's one thing to want to work and help, and quite another to know that your husband expects you to. I don't like it.

EASY FOR MEN

"Don't you think that the men nowadays have a pretty easy time of it? Wives working, paying their half of things, buying most of their own clothes, and so forth. And when a husband tires of married life, all he does is walk out, and that's that, while 9 times out of 10, the woman has to take up the stray strands of what's left, and make the best of it . . . and usually take care of a kid or two also.

"And how long can a woman stand to be nagged continuously because she isn't working? If she succumbs to the other men's flattery because of it, then the whole world is down on her, and people pity her husband!

EXPECTED TO CARRY ON

"I could keep on writing for hours on this subject, but I won't. I guess after all, I am just another married girl raising a beef. But I still say that I think any girl's a nut to start this working stuff, because if she begins it, she'll be expected to keep it up. I think it's a mess. "MARY."

That's her story, and she's sticking to it . . .

But how about you, sister?

Do you think a girl's a goof if she tries to help the Big Boy pull the load?

And will she get the well-known razzberry if she wants to quit and go domestic?

Have Working Wives made Modern Husbands soft? Do they expect too much of the Little Woman, and try to take a mile if she gives 'em an inch?

Come on! Let's hear your story, Clara—Peg—Susie.

Fay King Comments on Girls Who Would Prefer to Marry for Money

I'D RATHER MARRY FOR MONEY THAN FOR LOVE
I'D RATHER HAVE A CAREER THAN MARRY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Recently I read about a group of girls and boys who filled out a questionnaire and the majority of them said that they would rather marry for money than love.

How they will laugh a few years hence when they are all happily settled in life.

If any one of them is married to a mate of 60 with a million dollars, it will probably be one of those who answered by saying that he or she would marry for love and not money.

And the one who declared that she wanted to marry young and have a very large family will probably never marry at all.

And those who so emphatically preferred careers to marriage will probably elope first.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Surprise Tactics in Bridge

The analogy between Bridge and war has frequently been stressed by writers—particularly by Mr. Culbertson. It may be incorrect to assume that a great military tactician could sit down at a Bridge table and compete with experts in Contract play, or that a Contract expert could wage a successful military campaign. Still, there is a direct analogy in the art of war and in the conflict which forms the basis of play at Bridge. The surprise attack waged by puny forces against superior strength wins quite frequently, as history tells us, in warfare, and just as frequently at the Bridge table.

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ Q 9 6 ♡ K 6 2 ◇ 9 7 5 3 ♣ 10 7 5
♠ 4 3 ♡ A Q J 7 4 ◇ 10 8 ♣ A K Q 6	North West East South	♠ A 10 7 ♡ 9 5 ◇ A K J 2 ♣ J 8 4 2
	♠ K J 8 5 2 ♡ 10 8 3 ◇ Q 6 4 ♣ 9 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
			1 ◇
Pass	2 ♡	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

This ended the contracting. It was, of course, obvious, after a study of the East-West cards, that the players had such overwhelming strength that game was available at no-trump, clubs or hearts. In view of the vulnerability of the East and West players and West's showing of great strength by the Forcing Takeout, South decided to launch a surprise attack, not by opening a suit bid by the opponents, but by the choice of a card chosen for the lead. Therefore, instead of opening his fourth best spade, he led the disarming deuce, indicating in all probability a four-card suit. East surveyed his own holdings and the Dummy and noted the lead of the lowest card in the spade suit. This seemed to assure him that he could lose but 3 tricks in spades and 1 trick in hearts, if the heart finesse failed. A hold-up of control of the spade suit appeared futile, as it might well deprive him of extra tricks available if the heart King was located in the South hand. Therefore, he won the first trick with the spade Ace, confident that the play could cost him nothing, as, assuming South to have four spades. North also held four spades, and he would thus lose in any event three spades and the heart King, if North held that honor.

The heart finesse was then taken, and, of course, North won with his King and returned a spade, and South proceeded to cash 4 spade tricks, defeating the contract.

Ordinarily it is wise, in selecting a lead, to be conventional, but in this case nothing was to be lost and possibly something was to be gained by an unconventional Opening. The Declarer and his partner had bid the other three suits. Hence, even though North was misled by the unconventional Opening, his holdings could scarcely have been such as to suggest the return of any other suit, provided he gained the lead. The danger in the lead was in leading from the tenace holding, but the situation was desperate, and desperate conditions require unusual treatment. Had East held the spade Queen, the opening of the suit could have cost an extra trick, but any lead by South was dangerous. It was a case where it was extremely wise to be unconventionally conventional.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

Today's Question.

North and South are vulnerable. East and West are not. No part-score. After two passes, North bids three spades. East passes. Please advise what bid, if any, South should make with the following hand:

♠ 7 3 ♡ Q 9 7 6 4 3 ◇ K 8 4 2 ♣ K

Answer: Four spades. The hand contains 1 plus honor-trick, and adequate trump support is not required to raise Opening three or four bids.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Attendants

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am 23 years of age and I am to be married. I would like to have my married sister attend me. Friends tell me that they never heard of a married woman being an attendant at a wedding. Wouldn't this be all right? I would rather have my sister than a girl friend. C.

By all means have your older married sister as your attendant. Nowadays it is just as customary to have married attendants as it is to have unmarried attendants. No distinction is made. I cannot understand how anyone living today cannot have heard of a married woman being an attendant at a wedding.

Fish Bones

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should fish bones be removed from the mouth while eating, with the fingers or with your napkin?

The fish bone should be removed with the fingers—that is, between the thumb and the first finger, or the thumb and second finger. And as unobtrusively as possible, of course.

Cordial Greeting

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have never troubled to write to you before for the simple reason that I have learned quite a few lessons from your column. Now here is my trouble:

I am going to spend the week-end soon with the mother of my young man friend. I would like to know if it is proper to shake hands with her upon my arrival. This has been troubling me considerably. M.

Your hostess will undoubtedly offer her hand to shake hands with you in welcoming you to her home. I am so sure that she will do this . . . since all hostesses do . . . that you needn't worry about this question any longer. This is a cordial form of greeting appropriate to all forms of hospitality.

The Mourning Veil

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it permissible for a widow to omit the mourning veil when funeral services are just conducted at the home? F.

Yes.

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

Young women should mind their weight, which will not decrease as birthdays come prancing along. Give fat cells half a chance and they'll collect into cushions. They are kept in abeyance by cutting down on foods that contain fats, sweets and starches. All this talk about curves has to do with a pretty rounded slenderness, no more than that. Bending and twisting exercises will tighten up slack tummy muscles, delete adipose tissues.

Hints for the Household

Lime water can be made at home considerably less expensive than the bought liquid. Just take a piece of unslacked lime the size of an egg and pour over it one quart of pure water. Let stand several hours, then filter through a clean white cloth. Pour in clean bottles and cork.

Stained knives will look better if they are rubbed with a damp cork dipped in knife polish. Afterwards polish with a dry cloth.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Lack of Sleep May Account For Many Minor Illnesses

Dr. Copeland

Many minor ailments can be traced to a lack of sleep. Yet the average person does not give much thought to the subject of sleep. Though he knows he feels better after a good night's rest, he may neglect this simple measure of health. The temptation to stay up late makes him forget his resolution to go to bed early.

A well nourished and healthy individual requires six to eight hours of sleep. A man may live for days without water, and a much longer time without food, but if he is deprived of sleep he usually goes out of his mind after the fifth or sixth day.

Sleep is essential to the growth and recuperation of the body. Fatigue breaks down the tissues and during the sleep the body attempts to restore the cells and the energy that have been lost in the waking hours.

There are many who realize the importance of sleep but find it difficult to sleep. Insomnia, wakefulness, is a dreaded and often difficult trouble to overcome. Fear, worry, mental and severe emotional strain, are usually the underlying causes of thousands of cases of insomnia.

Sound, sleep is restful sleep. It is usually a habit acquired in early life. The infant who has been taught to sleep at regular hours, grows and develops more quickly than the child who has scanty and broken sleep. The child taught to sleep properly is given a heritage he will carry with him throughout life.

Like the infant, the health of the adult suffers if he does not have sufficient sleep. It may be necessary to train the adult in this important habit.

Let me warn you against the use of patent medicines and drugs taken to secure sleep. If you have been having difficulty in falling asleep and have not recently consulted your physician, do so now. There may be some constitutional defect that is causing this disturbance. In certain cases medicines are beneficial, but they should be given only on the advice of a physician.

Many a person cannot understand why he does not sleep well. Frequently he is leading a sedentary life, though mentally active. Great mental or emotional strain will drive away sleep. For such persons I would advise more physical activity. A brisk walk before bedtime stirs up the sluggish circulation and induces sound sleep. A warm bath taken before bedtime may be helpful.

I am often asked as to whether it is harmful to sleep on the left side. Many believe it is dangerous to sleep that way because the heart is on that side and its action may be interfered with. This is an ancient theory that has never been accepted by science. Recent experiments tend to show that the position the body assumes prior to sleep is maintained only for a short time. During the night, regardless of how soundly you sleep, the body assumes various positions.

Do not be misled by the various stories of great men who have managed to survive on four or five hours of sleep. The necessary number of hours of sleep are determined by the age, sex, occupation and health of the individual. Though no definite rule can be made, it is safe to say that six to eight hours of sleep are necessary for the average adult. Personally I must have eight hours in order to do my best work.

"VELVET Is Great News" . . . Vogue

In this season when dresses depend so much upon their fabrics for distinction, regal VELVET comes into its own! It's the fabric that fits so ideally into the gracious mode of the season . . . so adaptable to the many tricks to which sleeves are put, so lovely and graceful for straight-hanging skirts, so characteristic of the romance and elegance of these charming Victorian fashions.

Paris couturiers have been free in sponsoring this glorious fabric in their recent showings . . . and our stocks are now at their height for the benefit of those who would make beautiful dresses of these popular transparent velvets, the dramatic new ermine velvets, and glistening metallic velvets!

Metal Brocade Velvet

Vel Accordia

Beautifully shirred velvet that is uncrushable. Particularly suitable for evening wraps. $5.95 yard.

Brocaded Velvet

Offers new versions of that long-standing favorite among afternoon fashions. $4.95 yard.

Vel Vanne

A rich, new velvet with a fashionably dull surface. A smart evening fashion. White only. $4.95 yard.

Hermine

The "champagne of velvets"—a marvelous fabric that imitates ermine. For beautiful wraps, for striking decoration on other fabrics. $10.95 yard.

. . . Horne's, Main Floor . . .

Transparent Velvet

$2.95 Yard

A beautiful dress for surprisingly little. The finest quality velvet we've seen at such a price . . . all-silk back, full 39 inches wide, in the fashionable new fall shades that include black, Manila red, Jap red, rustic green, navy, royal blue, and white.

New Fall Patterns

Something Better in Fur Jackets

It takes fine quality to keep a fashion above the mediocre. And our Fur Salon glorifies the vogue of Fur Jackets, by a new collection which expresses the ultimate in quality of fur and quality of design.

We have chosen those furs that are most adaptable to jacket fashions, furs which are supple and yet substantial; and had them made up in models that will gratify women looking for something that is superior in a practical autumn fashion. Bruyere, Chanel and other Paris creators are represented in the models. Types for both misses and women.

Efficient! Table Electric

Sewing Machines

$39.75

An excellent Hamilton-Beach motor that runs almost without a murmur—convenient knee control that operates at five speeds, built-in sewing lamp, full set of attachments . . . all the factors that simplify home sewing!

In a walnut-finish table.

. . Horne's, Fifth Floor . . .

Sheer Wool Coat Frocks

Wearable By Women of Every Size, 34 to 44

$16.75

Look at their necklines, adjustable so they can be worn low, or buttoned and scarfed to a youthful highness. Look at their sleeves—as neat and unobtrusive as the sleeves of such practical frocks should be. Note their closings—they are the kind that make dressing quick and easy.

There are other models besides the two sketched. And the fabrics include ostrich woolen, kitten's ear and sheer wool crepe, in fall colors and black.

Karl Von Wiegand Discusses 'Behind Scenes in Germany;' Gypsies Celebrate

Karl von Wiegand, chief European correspondent of Universal Service, now spending a vacation in the United States, takes American radio listeners "Behind the Scenes in Germany" when he speaks over a coast-to-coast NBC network, including WCAE, tonight at 6:30 o'clock. His address is scheduled for 15 minutes.

Von Wiegand, who makes his headquarters in Berlin, is one of the best known American correspondents in Europe and has covered hundreds of important assignments, which include a trip around the world in the Graf Zeppelin. He is credited with having one of the widest acquaintances among German officialdom and an intimate knowledge of German affairs.

Mr. von Wiegand

Sixty of radio's most celebrated artists join to help Harry Horlick and his famous Gypsies celebrate their ninth year on the air with a gala full hour concert on WCAE tonight. The festive radio show begins at 8:30—a half hour earlier than the regular weekly Gypsy concerts—in order that listeners may hear Frank Munn, Martha Attwood, Elizabeth Lennox, the Men About Town, the Salon Singers and Frank Parker.

* * *

Program Pointers

The second of the new series of "Mysteries of Paris," "Death at the Eiffel Tower," in which Patricia Barlow, the young American heiress, manages to demonstrate her nerve and ingenuity in capturing one of the most sinister of the henchmen of the "Octopus," is presented on WJAS at 9:30 tonight. Elsie Hitz, John McGovern and Agnes Moorehead are heard in the leading roles . . . A special arrangement of the musical novelty, "Flapperette," for two pianos and a xylophone supported by the full orchestra, is a highlight of the Contented program by Harold Stokes' Orchestra on KDKA at 8.

Miss Moorehead

Frank Luther, tenor of the Men About Town trio and a native of Kansas, pays tribute to his home state when he appears as guest artist on the "Parade of States" program on WCAE at 9:30.

Jack Walasik, accordionist, opens a new series of programs on WWSW at 6 tonight.

"The Tariff" is the topic of an address by Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, on WCAE at 10:45 p. m.

Alexander Roy, tenor, Paul Whiteman's audition finalist recently heard on the "Silhouettes" program over an NBC network, is co-starred with Jeanne Clasky, soprano, as soloist in the second of a new series of presentations by the WCAE String Ensemble tonight at 10 o'clock.

Beginning today, a new series or organ recitals by Doc Whipple replaces the "Morning Devotions" over an NBC network, including WCAE, daily at 8:15 a. m.

Jacques D'Avrey is going the way of all radio flesh—personal appearancing at the Roxy Theater in New York this week, with several other stage bookings to follow . . . Lanny Ross has a prominent part in that new revue, "Americana" . . . Jack Denny is planning to take a vacation late this month . . . The Funnybones have a repertoire of 325 songs which they sing on the slightest provocation . . . Peter Van Steeden, the orchestra leader, has never learned to drive a car . . . Leo Reisman walks all over the studio while conducting his orchestra . . . Ben Alley likes to milk cows.

LISTENING IN

Crumit in New Role.
Alice Joy Back.
Linguist Keech.

Frank Crumit, who's known among sportsmen for his golf, and in days past, for his football, baseball and track prowess, may possibly adopt the role of announcer for some of the season's football games—just as a sideline. He'd like to do a Ted Husing through the Middle West, particularly in Ohio, where he went to school and played with Ohio State . . . Alice Joy, NBC's "Dream Girl," absent from the air waves during the last several months while she traveled about making personal appearances, returns to the network tonight. Her new programs, originating in Cleveland, will be heard each Monday night at 10:30 on WCAE.

Mr. Crumit

English is almost a foreign tongue in Kelvin Keech's home. He always speaks French with his wife, the former Maria Chustiakova, a native of Russia, and can converse fluently in Russian, German and Spanish, although he was born in Hawaii.

J. N., P. MacL. J. DeP., G. F. and R. P.—Husk O'Hare is playing at the Hotel La Salle, Chicago. Broadcasts are carried by WBBM; try WABC at 12:30 tonight for Ted Weems; dial the same station at 12:30 Wednesday and Friday nights for Duke Ellington.

The first football broadcast of the season, Columbia vs. Middlebury, will be heard over a Columbia chain and WJAS Saturday afternoon with Ted Husing at the microphone. The game, scheduled at 2:45, will be preceded by a new fall feature, Football Souvenirs—a musical program of songs of the contesting institutions by Fred Berrens' orchestra and the Four Eton Boys.

A young banjo enthusiast of South Africa with a better-than-average memory "spotted" Harry Reser's playing on an old London recording recently. He wrote to Reser saying that he was sure the maestro was the banjo player with the orchestra which made the recording, and gave the name of the selection, the name of the orchestra and the date the recording was issued. The young spotter was right—Reser had played with the orchestra in London at the time the recording was made.

Speaking of faraway places: A young short-wave fan in Cheshire, England, writes Uncle KD for a Kiddies' Klub membership card. In her letter she adds that she has to sit up in bed to listen to the programs—because it's 11:15 p. m. in Cheshire when they go on the air.

'Globe-Trotter' On Air At 6:25

The usual 6:30 news broadcast by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, is shifted to 6:25 tonight only in order that WCAE listeners may hear Karl von Wiegand's address on "Behind the Scenes in Germany" on WCAE at 6:30. The Globe-Trotter also goes on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 2:30 p. m.

A gala program starring the Lawson Sisters, popular harmony team; Paul Gannon, tenor, the Andrini Brothers, string comedians, with an orchestra directed by David Levin is presented during the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air on WCAE tonight at 11. Pat Haley is master of ceremonies.

Crafton Knights To Honor Bishop

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle will be the principal guest of honor at an informal dinner and housewarming next Monday night in the remodeled council house of Chartiers Council, Knights of Columbus, Crafton.

My Girl Friday Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Nothing in print in weeks has thrilled me so much as the editorials in the papers lately rebuking Mr. Hutchinson for risking the lives of his children in his mad desire for publiicty . . . The editorial writers certainly spoke the minds of the majority when they said that the Flying Hutchinsons should be ignored when they return—no parades, no fuss and no committee of welcome—unless the committee be members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children! . . . The night the Sophie Tucker item about her plans for divorce appeared she reconciled with her groom. The power of the press, if you asked me . . . Al Schwartz phoned that it might be said that J. Walker's enemies gave him a McKee Finn—And also that the trouble at the race-tracks is that the people lead a faster life than the horses.

Silver Screen found itself in a tough spot because it had four attractive pages all set up depicting the Paul Bern-Jean Harlow home—when the suicide took place . . . The whole thing had to be ripped apart just as it was going to press and the issue practically ruined . . . One of the local columnists is having his nose bobbed in a hospital here—and I don't mean Eddie, who is convalescing at home . . . Cal Coolidge had breakfast with Matthew Brush at the latter's home the other day . . . Wonder what's up?

Robert Andrews' most recent novel, "Windfall," is being filmed, as you predicted it would be when it first came out last year . . . Incidentally, Andrews is unquestionably the world's most prolific radio scribbler, despite the fact he is little known as an ether writer . . . Andrews has written over a million words for the air since Jan. 1, when he isn't working on a book, a play or a newspaper! . . . Cab Calloway resumed at the Cotton Club on Sabbath night and the event was sold out . . . I'm going over some night just to hear his version of "Star Dust," and heaven help the person who jangles a clacker or any ice in a glass while Cab Callowahwah's it!

Michael Bartlett, wso succeeded Georges Metaxa in "Cat and Fiddle," is supposed to be the only Princeton man on the stage. So all right . . . Gladys Swarthout, who wears those tights at the Met Opera House, spurned an offer of 6 Gs at the Roxy for a fortnight because her contract doesn't permit her to canary in a place where movies are shown . . . Jack Fulton of the Whiteman crew, will be the next warbler to be built up by NBC . . . When Fatty Arbuckle makes a personal appearance at the State Sept. 30, his first flicker comedy in a decade will headline three other Broadway houses . . . Johnny Mack Brown, the movie actor, may play football with the local Giants, if certain deals are put through . . . Harry Barris, who writes such lovely ballads as "It Was So Beautiful" and "I Surrender Dear," can't sing them! . . . Hot tunes are his forte, which he cannot write! . . .

Poor Joe Lewis. The only good parody he ever wrote has been thefted by so many rival comedians that Lewis never gets a chance to do it . . . Dozens of rivals copied and beat him to it and he is afraid to get up at a night club opening and offer it for fear he will be accused of lifting . . . When he told Jay C. Flippen that it belonged to him the other night Flip said Phil Baker gave it to him . . . Such goings on! . . . A chorus girl pal just phoned and told me how shocked she was this afternoon while walking near 9th Ave., in the 50s . . . A derelict approached her for alms and she kept staring at him until she remembered him. He is one of the better known revue stage managers. Once worked for Earl Carroll, and he is popular with chorines, because of his fairness and kindness . . . If Carroll or any of them want to know his name let them call me . . . He ought to be given a break . . . John Ringling is fully recovered and now walks without a cane . . . Loney Haskell imagines he is sicker than he is.

Dave Chasen called. He wishes people wouldn't put him out of a job. He remains with Joe Cook . . . Edward Eliscu called about your recent paragraph on punchlines in song lyrics that "told a story" . . . He feels badly because you tossed an orchid at a couplet in "Without a Song," and you credited it to Billy Rose, when Eliscu says he collaborated on that number. And to date got no royalty. Your unintentional snub, he added, was the final straw . . . Here is a new low in Americana . . . A certain flashlight company in New Jersey sent their employes up to the roof to see the recent eclipse, and then deducted one hour's pay for watching it! . . . A lad named William Shakespeare has just signed up with Notre Dame and says he wants to play football—a midsummer night's dream! . . . Have another simile on me—As much to be avoided as a broker's advice.

Here's something. A 7-reel film depicting the nudist camps of the world now is in the last stages of production. During the past year cameramen traveling in all principal countries of Yurrop have taken over 50 reels showing nudist camps in action . . . From these seven reels have been made . . . A leading radio announcer has been hired as the screen voice to provide a running commentary on the flicker. He has already seen it and reports that it is excellent, beautifully done . . . In addition, leaders of the nudist movement in important European countries appear on the screen and offer their views on nudism's aims and purposes . . . Connie Bennett wears frowners whenever she's not on the set making a picture, because of a furrow she's getting between the orbs . . . And Helen Henderson, former "Follies" femme, who divorced Bob Rice of the George Olsen orchestra, to marry old man Benesch, and then divorced old man Benesch to remarry Bob Rice, and then divorced Bob Rice to resume with old man Benesch, and then married William Duryea, from whom she recently melted, is going to marry old man Benesch again!—Girl Friday.

Blues

Here's a Tip For Actors

Act naturally—but do not act, is the paradoxical advice offered by Josef von Sternberg, whose work as a motion picture director has made his theories and opinions respected in Hollywood.

Von Sternberg, now directing Marlene Dietrich in "Blonde Venus," declares it is only when actors forget they are actors that they are valuable in front of a camera. He demands of every player in his pictures, whether they be stars or atmospheric "bits," that their reaction to any given situation be natural.

"Forget the camera's presence," he admonishes. "Realize that this little thing you are to do is not a great national event; act as you would in real life—but do not act."

UNA MERKLE, FILM COMEDIENNE, HAS BEEN MAKING A TOUR IN PERSONAL APPEARANCES

Stars Prize 'Treasures'

Nearly every motion picture player in Hollywood boasts of some prized possession. In some cases the main value is extrinsic, but in most the sentiment overweighs the price, since they are gifts from friends and admirers.

Edmund Lowe prides himself on the collection of rare old etchings he has picked up in various parts of the world, many of them presents from the artists, while Irene Ware has perhaps the finest collection of cameo brooches in Hollywood. Some were gifts, but most of them she bought.

Miriam Jordan, who makes her screen debut in the leading role with, Warner Baxter and John Boles in "Six Hours to Live," counts as her most prized treasure a lucky charm given her by her mother when she was 16. Soon after it was given to her she won the British Empire beauty contest, which started her on her stage career. The charm is a tiny golden bell with half a dozen small pearls hanging from its rim by links of silver chain.

Stranger

Ann Dvorak appears with Chic Sale in 'Stranger In Town,' screen attraction that will open Wednesday in Sheridan Square.

'Flying Nurse' In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Pictures of the take-off from Floyd Bennet Field, in New York, of the airplane American Nurse on its proposed flight to Rome, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. Edna Newcomer, for whom the plane was named, tells of her plan to jump from a parachute over Florence, Italy, as a tribute to Florence Nightingale, founder of modern nursing. There are also pictures of Dr. Pisculli, the owner, and of William Ulbrich, the pilot, with a description of the daring flight by The Globe Trotter. There are also pictures of the flying Hutchinson family, husband, wife and two little daughters who, with four others, narrowly escaped death when their trans-Atlantic plane was forced down off the coast of Greenland. Striking scenes taken when the Graf Zeppelin made its last polar voyage, show Arctic waters, similar to those into which the crippled Hutchinson seaplane plunged.

First pictures of the American Legion convention in Portland, Ore., contain talks by former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and Secretary of War Patrick Hurley. A declaration from Hurley that political questions should be kept out of the Legion discussions, is greeted with applause.

Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose, of Italy, are shown leading a procession of hundreds of gondolas as a part of the royal regatta in Venice. The gorgeous spectacle is fully pictured and there are intimate views of the prince and princess.

The seven-time pennant winning Yankees, of the American League, and their probable National League rivals in the world series, the Chicago Cubs, are pictured in action and in close-ups. There are highlights of the Yankee's one hundredth victory, in which they cinched the 1932 pennant, and talks by Managers Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, and Charley Grimm, of the Cubs.

The greatest military display in Germany since the World War is sown at Tempelhof Field, Berlin, where more than 100,000 members of the Steel Helmets organization gathered for their annual reunion. Chancellor von Papen and ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm are among others who review the veterans.

Two automobiles literally playing leapfrog and driven by two brothers in Berlin furnishes a genuine hair-raising thriller.

Lowe Given Role in Rogers Picture

Comedy

Dorothy Jordan plays in support of Will Rogers in the comedy, "Down To Earth," coming Thursday to Fulton screen.

Preston S. Foster Gets Lead In New Film Starring Barbara Stanwyck

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19.

Cruelist place in the world if it doesn't want you, Hollywood can give quick recognition if it does. Several months ago Preston S. Foster, young Broadway actor, came out here to play Eddie Robinson's pal in "Two Seconds."

Recently, with only a few more parts behind him, he was chosen to play Barbara Stanwyck's leading man in "Women In Prison." It is his first straight lead, but Warner Brothers say he has that magic quality—camera personality. They believe he will be an important Hollywood figure.

Barbara Stanwyck

The role in which he gets his big chance is that of a reformer—the man who the heroine believes framed her into prison.

Warners hope to get a good deal of authentic atmosphere into this story. One of its authors is Dorothy MacKaye, who had a tragic personal experience in a California prison.

The director, as matters now stand, will be William Dieterle.

BOULEVARD TOPICS

Polly Moran, bless her heart, is always good for a laugh. The other night someone got off a high-brow remark.

"Yeah," snaps Polly, "I know who said that first—the great philosopher, Confusion."

Lou Golden phones to say he is going to St. Louis to manage the RKO Theater there. Sandy Roth will be another well known Hollywood figure to head East. He is going to Europe. And then there's the romance note about the coming marriage of Vivian Newcom, Irving Thalberg's secretary, and Kenneth Jerstet, local broker. They'll take the vows next month.

He saw a beautiful star approaching and addressed the air audience:

"Here comes Mary Duncan—Mary won't you step up and say something to the folks?"

Just then, Mary Doran, innocent of the by-play, came up the forecourt. Gasping with relief, the announcer exclaimed:

"Mary, step right up and say something."

And Mary, used to being asked, spoke the words and went on into the theater. With a deep sigh of relief, the announcer turned to the next star.

"YES my wife has a Maytag too"

The Maytag has a place in any home. The finest homes have them because there's no better washer to be had. Modest homes have them because there's no more economical way to wash clothes. Everyone appreciates the gentle thoroughness of the Maytag—the longer life of clothes washed the Maytag way—the longer life of the Maytag itself.

The Maytag is not high in price. But if it were—if it cost two or three times as much to buy—it would still be the economical washer. Because it does better washing—more washings—at lower cost per washing.

Come in and see a Maytag demonstrated.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Phony

A MAN NAMED Gordon plays the title role in this column. He was a phony. He was very short and very fat and he had a habit of looking at people over the top of his glasses like a stuffed owl. As a child, he had often amused himself by slapping his baby brother and then complaining to his mother that the kid was always crying.

Such a man was Gordon. A sweet guy at best . . .

When Gordon reached the age at which young men usually look for jobs, he devised a way of avoiding work. He had an uncle. A very wealthy uncle. A man who was one of the greatest cheese manufacturers in the business. And I don't mean a columnist.

So young Gordon went to his uncle one day, and said:

"Uncle, I'm old enough to work. I've got young ideas, but they're good ideas. With me in your business, modern ideas and modern methods will bring about a change for the better.

"Will you give me a job?"

Now the uncle never thought much of Gordon. But a relative is a relative—so what could he do? He employed Gordon immediately, and placed him in the chemistry department.

There they made tests of cheese. And there, as you might have surmised, Gordon made cheese of tests. Being a phoney, he naturally started off by impressing everyone in the department with his importance.

"My uncle," he would say, "is getting old. Soon he will want to retire. That's where I come in. He will leave this vast business in my capable hands. I will breathe new life into this outfit. You men will all receive good treatment, provided I think you deserve it."

Of course the men were impressed. How did they know how much his uncle hated him? How did they know that he was a phony? How did they know that he was nothing more than a new brand of bad cheese?

One day, while Gordon was fiddling about with chemical formula, he discovered something. He found that it was no longer necessary to age good Gorgonzola six long months before selling it. He discovered that a few strands of copper, pushed through the cheese, would do the same trick in a week.

And so, without saying a word to his uncle about it, he ordered the chemistry department to pass the discovery on for practical use. They told him that exhaustive tests showed that the use of copper wires was dangerous. It had a chemical reaction which would endanger public health.

Did that make any difference to Gordon? Absolutely not. He told them that they were a pack of fools and that they'd be looking up the want ad columns unless they did as he ordered pronto. But the head of the department was a very low type.

Do you know what he did? If you do, you're ahead of your story. He went and told Gordon's uncle all about it. And the mean old uncle kicked Gordon right out of the chemistry department into the street . . .

But Gordon learned nothing from that experience. He promptly went into the shoe business. He found a man who was in the business for five years, and hadn't got off the red side of the ledger once.

Gordon unfolded a plan to him. Why not, he asked, make shoe tops of lacquered leather and the soles of a cardboard compound? Thus the shoes would cost about 50 cents to make, and they could be sold to dumbbells for $5.

The shoe manufacturer didn't want to do it. But the head bookkeeper was ordering more red ink all the time, so he finally capitulated.

Gordon was just full of such ideas. For a month he racked his brain trying to figure out how to get $5 from the customers without giving them anything. But somehow that idea was never feasible.

Within six months he had control of the shoe company. Within another six months the man who accepted Gordon's idea found himself on the outside looking in. And Gordon's name was lettered in gold on the stationery. . . .

But the shoe business wasn't enough for Gordon. He looked around for more fields to conquer. So he took the money that he amassed in the shoe business, looked over the top of his glasses at it and threw it into the cutlery business.

"Knives and forks," he told his yes men, "are entirely too expensive. Why, a good knife will set you back a couple of dollars. Forks the same way. Good spoons are worth a fortune. I'm going to revolutionize the industry. Watch me."

They watched. Two weeks later a tall, scholarly looking man came into the office. He had a bundle under his arm. He asked to see Mr. Gordon. He waited for a half hour, and was shown into the inner sanctum.

Gordon glanced at the bundle.

"Ya got 'em?" he asked eagerly.

"Yes, sir," replied the visitor. He unfolded the package and exposed a set of shining knives. Gordon grabbed one. He fondled the cutting edge with his thumb.

"Fine," he kept saying over and over. "Fine. Fine. Fine."

The tall man fidgeted.

"It's not my place to criticize, Mr. Gordon," he said. "You're the man who ordered these knives, and I'm selling the article to you. But it's bad business.

"These knives aren't worth a dime a dozen. They're not much better than paper. And, as for those imitation ivory handles, hot water will kill them immediately."

"Now, now," soothed Gordon. "I'm a business man, and I know what I'm doing. The average couple can't afford good cutlery, so I'm selling cheap stuff to them. It looks like good stuff, and it shines brightly."

Gordon fondled those knives all afternoon. When the office closed for the evening he was still sitting there, thinking up high pressure methods to sell them.

How long he sat there he had no idea. But he suddenly awoke. A noise of some kind startled him. The office was in darkness. He snapped on the lights. A man stood on the other side of the desk. A thick-set man with a blackjack in his hand.

Gordon took the situation in at a glance. He knew that, if the burglar had a gun, he wouldn't be using a blackjack. So, without thinking, he grabbed the knife and lunged at the intruder. . . .

They found the body in the morning. He lay in the center of the rug. The employes summoned an ambulance, but the surgeon said he had been dead for some hours.

The doctor stood up.

"Look," he said. "It's quite evident that Mr. Gordon tried to defend himself during the fatal attack."

He displayed a bent and crumpled knife.

"Whoever sold him this knife ought to be jailed. If he had had a decent one, he might be alive right now." . . .

'Little Caesar' at Home

EDWARD G. ROBINSON, WHOSE NEXT FILM IS 'TIGER SHARK," HOME WITH MRS. ROBINSON

Oddities of Favorites

Either as a matter of policy or superstition, most famous screen personalities have little idiosyncracies which follow them in every picture in which they appear.

Harold Lloyd, for instance, usually gives his screen character his own first name. Thus, in his next picture, "Movie Crazy," his screen personality is called "Harold Hall." With Lloyd it is a matter of policy rather than superstition because he believes that by doing this, he will give the audience a more intimate feeling for his screen personality.

Another of Lloyd's idiosyncracies—the wearing of horn-rimmed spectacles—ended by becoming a world-wide identification. He has always treasured the first pair of cheaters he wore in screen work. When they became broken, he kept them together with chewing gum, wire, string or any other contrivance. He has used many pairs since, but he still keeps the originals.

Peculiarities of this type are not exclusive with the comedian. Janet Gaynor, for instance, always manages to wear the battered slippers which carried her through "Seventh Heaven," her first screen success, in at least one scene in all her pictures. Marlene Dietrich has had some of those goofy, imported dolls somewhere about in every picture she has made. Josef von Sternberg, her director, always manages to slip a black cat into his productions. Frank Tuttle, another director, always makes it a point to appear in his own picture in some minor role.

Herbert Marshall Accepts Lead

Herbert Marshall is in the leading role of "Evenings For Sale" at Paramount after he had succeeded in arranging by cable the postponement of his contemplated stage engagement in London. Studio executives have had Marshall in mind for the part for some time, but the English actor had made plans for his return to London upon completion of his role opposite Marlene Dietrich in "Blonde Venus."

Make-Up Men Have Plenty Troubles

Few film workers are without their troubles. Take the make-up man, for instance. All he has to do, you say, is to put "stuff" on players' faces. The catch is that the make-up applied at 7 a. m. must look just the same when the last scene is made at 6 p. m. Try it some day. To complicate matters, there are 32 shades of grease paint, 20 shades of powder and 28 of liquid make-up for arms and body.

Plays and Players -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Ed Vail, who is in New York on business connected with the Edwin Vail Players, stock company that will open in the Pitt October 3, has telegraphed that he has engaged principal members of the company except a leading man. Shirley Booth will be the leading woman and others will include Kathlyn Miskyl, Baker Moore, Sylvia Manners, Harry Richards, Sam Flint, Ella Ethridge, Charles Webster and Roy Elkins. Not any of them has ever played here in stock. Mr. Vail previously has announced that visiting stars will be seen frequently, and that the plays to be presented will include successes of recent date, including "Reunion in Vienna" and "Animal Kingdom."

* * *

Five new shows will be added this week to the 14 now running on Broadway, oldest of which is a revue, "The Cat and the Fiddle," which will close in two weeks with a record of 50 weeks, which is quite something for a generally bum theatrical year. The new plays will be "Lilly Turner," with Dorothy Hall, of Bradford; "The Budget," with Lynn Overman; "Belmont Varieties," a revue; "Triplets" and "Only the Young."

* * *

Rachel Crothers, one of the more deft writing ladies of the stage, whose new comedy, "When Ladies Meet," was tried out in the summer theater at Westport, will see it asking for the Broadway blessing next month. Janet Beecher, Rose Hobart and Spring Byington will be in it.

"The Case of the Frightened Lady," melodrama by the late Edgar Wallace, will have William Harrigan in the leading role . . . The Shuberts' "Passing Show" will not reach Broadway until it has a new cast . . . Frank McHugh, Pittsburgh actor, and Leo Carillo will have parts in "Parachute," the picture now in production with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., as star . . . Albertina Rasch, one of our best ballet directors, is on the brine en route to London to stage a show, "Wild Violets," five of her stepping having preceded her to proteges months, has mastered English sufficiently to begin to learn ("lines" and parts.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Another sign of fall, even if you're still doing summer things and wearing summer costumes. The Junior League clubrooms in the Clark Building are open again, and members will start dropping in for tea and a chat with friends.

Mary Franklin Robinson is to be director of the club rooms this season with Anne Rose as her aide. And Dorothy Jarvis will be clubroom secretary. All three of the girls are from Sewickley.

Just who'll be the president this winter of the league no one knows. Majorie Kimball, who was reelected president, will live in Chicago this winter, you know. And until there's a meeting of the board, the 'eague will be without a president. * * *

Our list of fall weddings is growing most encouragingly for those of us who enjoy nothing so much as a charming marriage ceremony.

Nuptial List Gains

The most recent date taken is October 29, the day chosen by pretty Patsy Ann McKillips, daughter of the James B. McKillipses, of Fairview road, Fox Chapel, for her marriage to John Cole McCloy. Mr. McCloy is the son of the French D. McCloys of Regent Square.

The ceremony will take place at Shadyside Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr as officiant.

Church Wedding

A reception for the two families and the bridal party, which has not yet been announced, will follow in Beau Soleil, the McKillips' home. Mr. McCloy and his bride will take a motor trip for their honeymoon.

* * *

Mrs. Fitzwilliams Sargent, who's the organizing director of the American Theater Society, was in town Saturday to meet the Pittsburgh committee. Mrs. Sargent is making a tour of the 12 cities subscribing to the society.

Organizer In Town

* * *

Probably the outstanding wedding of November will be that of Mary Ellen Selden, of Minneapolis, Minn., who'll wed James Verner Scaife, Jr., that popular member of the cotillion committee, on Wednesday, the second of that month.

Early next month the bride-to-be is going to visit her fiance's mother, Mrs. James Verner Scaife. * * *

One of those delightfully informal supper parties now taking place, often in the homes of the smart set, was an attractive event of last night. Binney Bothwell, daughter of the E. C. Bothwells, and her brother, Edgar C. Bothwell, entertained in honor of their cousin, Peggy Reed, of South Bend, Ind.

Supper Party

Edgar will leave tomorrow for Hotchkiss, and Binney a week from tomorrow for Sarah Lawrence College.

Butler College Girls Returning to Books And Classes Soon

A number of Butler girls are returning soon to school, and some already have gone to join the growing ranks.

Miss Kathryn Ruff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ruff, and Miss Mary Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Campbell, who were graduated last June at the Birmingham School for Girls, left the past week end, Miss Ruff for Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass., and Miss Campbell for Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Another Wellesley student and a Butler girl is Miss Margaret Hildebrand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Hildebrand, who will leave the latter part of this week.

Returning to schools in the District of Columbia, are Miss Susan Ritts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Ritts, and Miss Mildred Schultis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Schultis. Miss Ritts leaves September 30 and will be a senior at National Park Seminary and Miss Schultis leaves today for Trinity College, where she will be graduated next June.

The Erskine School in Boston claims Miss Undine Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Phillips, this fall for her second year there. She leaves September 27.

Resuming her college work as a sophomore at Goucher College, Baltimore, is Miss Genevieve Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Miller, who does not leave until September 29.

Miss Roberta Miller, daughter of Mrs. Robert B. Miller, who returns to Smith College, Northampton, Mass., for her sophomore year, expects to leave Butler about September 25.

Ruth S. Murdoch Becomes Bride Of G. W. Ball

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Simon, of Glen Arden drive, have issued cards announcing the marriage of Mrs. Simon's sister, Miss Ruth S. Murdoch, to George W. Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ball, of Evanston, Ill., Friday. The ceremony was a quiet affair, owing to the recent death of the bride's father, James B. Murdoch, and was solemnized in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Hugh Thomson Kerr, with only the immediate families in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball sailed Saturday on the Monarch of Bermuda for a southern wedding trip and after November 1 will make their home in Evanston.

Nellie Bender Marries in Chicago

On August 29 in the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bender, of Chicago, Miss Nellie Bender, formerly of Pittsburgh, became the bride of Charles E. Suiter, also of Chicago. The Rev. John M. Schneider, of the Albany Park Methodist Church, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin and carried a colonial bouquet. There was a dinner later in the Bender home. Mr. and Mrs. Suiter will live in Chicago.

The bride formerly was affiliated with the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music of which she is a graduate and was a member of the faculty of Pittsburgh Musical Institute.

Miss Lelia Earhart, Bride-Elect, Feted

Miss Helen Cavitt, of Heberton avenue, entertained with a bridge party in her home Friday evening, September 9, in honor of Miss Lelia Earhart, of Atwood street, whose marriage to James Craft, of Uniontown, will be an event of September 24, in the Schenley Heights Methodist Church. Miss Cavitt is to be the maid of honor.

There were three tables of bridge at the party and decorations were in yellow with yellow roses.

Erie Girl, Aspinwall Man To Wed on October 6

Miss Viola Clara Adele Rust, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rust, of Vermont avenue, Erie, Pa., has named October 6, as the date for her marriage to David R. Pride, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Pride, of Aspinwall. The ceremony will be solemnized in the chapel of the Church of the Covenant, Erie, with the Rev. Ralph Marshall Davis, pastor, officiating. The wedding will be small, with no attendants. Mr. Pride and his bride will be at home in York, Pa.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Carnegie Tech and Massachusetts Tech.

Miss Elda Geyer Weds Michigan Minister

At a pretty wedding Thursday evening in the Christ Lutheran Church, North Side, Miss Elda Grace Geyer, of the North Side, became the bride of the Rev. Clyde B. Hildebrand, of Jackson, Mich.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Edward F. Geyer, Sr., wore a gown of white georgette and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Edward Ela, as matron of honor, wore beige chiffon and carried pink roses and blue delphinium. Miss Helen Hofman, of Chicora, as maid of honor, wore pink satin and carried pink roses and blue delphinium. Rhoda Sarah Geyer, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Miss Sarah Buchner, also a niece, sang, accompanied by Mrs. William Patton.

Carl F. Geyer, brother of the bride, was best man and ushers included two nephews of the bride, Car Buchner and Edward F. Geyer, Jr.

After the ceremony there was a reception in Mrs. Edward Ela's home, Orchlee street, North Side. The Rev. and Mrs. Hildebrand will be at home in Jackson, Mich.

WOOL JACKET-SUIT IS NEW, FASHIONABLE AND PRACTICAL

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Sept. 19.—There is nothing newer in Paris than the wool jacket-suit, with a three-quarter-length jacket. Being a compromise between the hip-length jacket and the full-length coat, it is listed as having the advantages of both. In many cases it will serve where formerly both the short jacket and the longer coat were needed, since it is usually fashioned of a heavy sturdy wool which gives enough warmth for all but the coldest days of winter.

MANY of these new suits are made with jackets which can, in a pinch, serve as coats over dresses. Certainly, they are practical, and since fashion is taking up the shorter coat, they are fashionable as well.

SCHIAPARELLI makes a suit of this type in her own original way—giving it brilliant color by way of material and accessories. The one pictured today is of a striped woolen, combining navy blue and beige in horizontal stripes. Further emphasis is put on the horizontal movement by means of a yoke which extends across the shoulder and over the tops of the arms. The top is collarless, and there is a scarf of the suit fabric which ties in a huge bow right under one's chin.

THE SKIRT of the suit is made on wrap-around lines, though this is concealed by an immense box plait at the center-front. The skirt, like the jacket, is made with the stripes in horizontal arrangement. There is a blouse hand-knitted in a wide-ribbed pattern, and a tuck-in scarf of red. The little beret of knitted wool in navy blue with red flower at its tip, matches the blouse and scarf combination.

Year Book Quotations Aptly Chosen for Avalon's Club

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Nearly every club includes in its year books quotations apropos to the programs, but those selected by the Avalon Woman's Club seem to have been chosen with an especially nice sense of the appropriate as well as a keen appreciation of the beauty of line and thought. The programs have been compiled with considerable thought and care, too.

Mrs. David Denman is to speak at the next meeting, which is October 3. In November the members will present a citizenship pageant, "The Urn of Destiny," and Mrs. J. Charles Wilson will read. Christmas carols will mark the holiday program in charge of the drama committee. In January Frank C. Harper will give "Glimpses of Pittsburgh History," and George Seibel, of the Sun-Telegraph, will give "Confessions of a Newspaper Man." That's to be on "friend and neighbor night" in February.

The home economics department will sponsor a program in March. Warden Stanley P. Ashe, of the Western Penitentiary, will speak in April, and a musicale is scheduled for May with the annual club luncheon coming in June to round out the year.

Social Affairs Arranged For Medical Convention

A number of social affairs already have been arranged for the visitors and delegates to the eighth annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Pennsylvania Medical Society. Mrs. Clarence R. Phillips, president of the state auxiliary, will entertain October 3 with a luncheon at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association in honor of Mrs. Walter Jackson Freeman, of Philadelphia, national auxiliary president.

The following day a luncheon will be given at the William Penn Hotel in honor of Dr. Charles H. Miner, Dr. Thomas B. Carroll, Dr. David B. Ludwig and Dr. Clarence H. Phillips, and in the evening a dinner will be held in honor of past state presidents.

Mrs. W. T. Mitchell, Jr., will be in charge of the program of entertainment. A bridge luncheon is scheduled for October 5 at the Pittsburgh Field Club, the president's ball and reception taking place that evening.

State Officers to Aid At Dormont Reception

Saturday afternoon when the Dormont New Century Juniors hold their president's reception the receiving line will include the junior officers and Mrs. H. M. White, senior president; Mrs. Joseph M. Steim, State Federation junior chairman; Mrs. John M. Phillips, first vice president of the State Federation, and Mrs. E. R. Davis, district chairman of juniors.

The club choral will open the afternoon's program and Mrs. J. R. Bredin, retiring president, will welcome the guests and introduce her successor, Mrs. A. M. Lanford. Mrs. A. J. Davies will outline the year book and solos will be presented by Esther Edmundson Mohr, soprano; Willa Geidel, piano; Harriet Hanna, violin, with Marie Price as accompanist, and Anna Jo Lutz, reader.

Salvation Army Auxiliary to Give Tea

The ways and means and the entertainment committees of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Salvation Army Home under the chairmanship of Mrs. C. Dickson Burns and Mrs. Hubert A. Lane, have planned an active year. The first event is the annual open house and tea to be held at the home on Thursday. In October there will be a benefit musical tea at the Shannopin Country Club, co-chairmen to be Mrs. Edwin H. Langdon and Mrs. Herbert A. Woelfel. On December 3 the auxiliary will hold a sale of Christmas novelties, Christmas offering and package day, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ralph H. Dunlap, is scheduled for December 21. In February a benefit musical tea will be given at the Congress followed in April by a similar event at the Dormont New Century Club. Two affairs in May are a rummage sale and the annual bazar. The last affair of the year will be the annual garden party in June.

In addition to the program above, the auxiliary has planned classes for the girls in the home through the volunteer services of some of its members.

Historical Society To Open October 10

Unlike most of the women's clubs, the Woman's Historical Society does not observe its president's day until mid-season. This time it is to be on January 23, when the Rev. Dr. Jacob Simpson Payton is to be the speaker. However, Mrs. E. D. Harshbarger, the new executive, takes office on October 10, the opening day, on which Canon Edward M. Wilson, of Trinity Cathedral, will speak.

The majority of the programs are made up of papers by the members, each topic dealing with some historical subject. In May the society is to celebrate its twentieth anniversary.

Swissvale Bible Class Gives Musicale Tomorrow

Mrs. George C. Morris is chairman of the group from the Swissvale Presbyterian Ladies' Bible Class and Mrs. John Esler is chairman of program for the musicale to be given at the home of Mrs. R. B. Masters, Irvine street tomorrow.

Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club Obtains Speakers

Among the speakers listed for the season by the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club are James Davey, of the Davey Tree Company; the Rev. Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of Westminster College; Dr. Marion McKay, and Dr. Omar Held, of the University of Pittsburgh; Dr. William Howard Hay, former director of the Sun-Diet Sanatorium, and Miss Vanda E. Kerst, of Pennsylvania College for Women. The president's reception and tea on October 10 is the initial event.

Women Voter Leagues Of Three Wards to Join for Meeting

The Seventh Ward League of Women Voters is combining with the Tenth and Eleventh Ward Leagues for a meeting at the East Liberty Y. W. C. A. today. Mrs. Thomas Trimble, chairman of the Seventh Ward, is presiding and R. C. Dever is speaking on "Registration and Election Laws."

Mrs. Charles Bowlus, of the Dormont and Mt. Lebanon League, announces the opening of activities at a tea in the Dormont New Century Club on Wednesday. The subject for the afternoon will be "Party Platforms."

A tea in the home of Mrs. R. L. Thompson, Brighton road, Ben Avon, on the same day is the opening event of the Ben Avon League. A feature of the afternoon will be a one-act play by the members of the league, including Mrs. M. S. Golding, Mrs. Everett Young, Mrs. Fred Houston, Mrs. Robert Marble, Mrs. John McBride, Mrs. R. L. Thompson, Mrs. Robert McKee, Mrs. Harry Hickox and Mrs. Henry Hinckel.

DRY ISSUE MAIN FACTOR IN TWO PRIMARIES

Associated Press.

Primary campaigns close today in New York, Massachusetts and Wisconsin—and tomorrow's balloting will end most of the state intra-party contests for congressional and gubernatorial nominations.

In several districts of both the two eastern states prohibition figures prominently. Wisconsin's voting will measure the strength of the La Follette and anti-La Follette wings of the Republican party there.

FEW CONTESTS REMAIN

With these three contests over, only the Democratic and Republican conventions in New York party conclaves in Rhode Island and New Mexico and a few run-off primaries remain before all candidates square off for the November election. They will be disposed of by the middle of October.

In Wisconsin, the La Follettes and Senator Blaine, have waged a fight against former Gov. Walter J. Kohler on taxation and other economic issues. Gov. Philip La Follette, aided by his brother, Senator Robert M. La Follette, have advocated "redistribution of wealth" by taxation.

There is no election of a Senator from Massachusetts this year. In New York, the Democratic convention is to decide whether Senator Robert F. Wagner shall be renominated.

LEHMAN FAVORED

Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman is strongly supported by Roosevelt friends for the gubernatorial nomination. William H. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General, and F. Trubee Davidson, Assistant Secretary of War for Aeronautics, are the outstanding contenders for the Republican nomination.

Gov. Joseph B. Ely, Democrat, has no opposition for renomination in Massachusetts. Four Republicans, including Lieut. Gov. William S. Youngman, are seeking their party's support to oppose Ely.

Former Senator James W. Wadsworth, a repealist, is without opposition for the Republican nomination for Representative from the Thirty-ninth New York District.

Presidential Trend by States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The tabulation that follows shows the total vote thus far recorded for President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States. It also shows the majority that each candidate has in each state in which he is leading. In addition it gives the gain of each candidate on the latest returns received from each state as compared with the last preceding report from the state. These state reports are usually a week apart. The final feature of this table shows the net gain of each candidate in each state where he has improved his position as compared with the preceding report from that state.

FEW ELECTORAL VOTES SAFE FOR HOOVER

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Gov. Roosevelt is holding his ground with 269 apparently safe electoral votes to his credit, three more than the 266 necessary to place him in the White House.

Moreover, he has leads in doubtful states controlling 117 additional electoral votes.

ONLY 37 SEEM SAFE

These are the highlights from an analysis of 231,751 postcard ballots tabulated in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

The addition of 41,455 ballots during the week did not make a change of consequence in a single one of the 48 states as compared with a week ago. Neither candidate lost his hold on any state that a week ago appeared safe for him, nor did any state of the 19 in the doubtful group shift its leaning from one to the other candidate.

PERCENTAGES STAND

A week ago Roosevelt had 59 and Hoover 41 per cent of the poll ballots recorded. The same percentages hold good today. There were some changes in the percentage divisions in 28 states, but in no case sufficient to alter the position of the state.

The Roosevelt sweep of the Far West shows no sign of abatement.

The best President Hoover has been able to do is to reduce by 1 or 2 per cent in two or three states the Roosevelt share of the total poll vote recorded.

In California Roosevelt still holds 68 per cent, in Washington 63 per cent, and in Idaho 56 per cent of the poll vote. In the other six states of the Far West the percentages stand as they did a week ago.

SOUTH SIDE MAN HELD IN SHOOTING OF GIRL AT BRIDGE

7,000 MINERS RETURNING TO OHIO PITS

Men, Owners Accept Compromise Plan Of Gov. White

ATHENS, O., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Seven thousand coal miners of Southern Ohio prepared today to go back to work, ending a seven months' strike.

The strike, marked by several serious disorders, was settled when representatives of the miners, meeting at Murray City, yesterday, ratified an agreement previously reached between union district leaders and the operators.

Operations in most of the mines of this section are expected to be resumed this week. In other parts of the state the strike was settled four months ago.

The basis for the state-wide settlement was a 10-point "peace plan" submitted by Gov. George White. As ratified by the miners with slight changes, it calls for a wage scale of 38 cents a ton for machine mined coal and $3.28 a day for laborers. It stipulates there shall be no discrimination against union workers.

The strike originated when the operators made a wage reduction which the miners said amounted to 25 per cent. The new scale is slightly above this level.

With the settlement effected, National Guardsmen who were called into the field to halt shootings and dynamitings, awaited an order to return to their homes, while merchants, miners and operators throughout the region hailed the end of the strike as the beginning of a revival of business.

LANDED TROUT DURING ECLIPSE

Mrs. Edwin T. Clark, 6309 Jackson street, claimed today that her's were the two best fish stories in Pittsburgh.

She has just returned from a vacation at Opeonga Lake, Algonquin Provincial Forests, Canada, where she capped the feat of catching a six-pound trout at the moment of totality in the late eclipse, by hauling in next day a twenty-two pound lake trout.

The huge trout, now stuffed, is on exhibition in Montreal, Mrs. Clark said.

Trolling deep, with about 200 feet of line, she made the strike about twilight. She pulled the fish in herself, after a hard fight, and with an Indian guide clinging to her to keep her from falling from the boat. Mrs. Clark said:

"It was the biggest thrill of my life."

Steal Auto of Judge Warring on Thieves

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The police think that perhaps someone was trying to get revenge on Municipal Judge J. William Brooks, who has been stern with automobile thieves.

When the judge arose yesterday to go to church he found that his automobile had been stolen during the night.

Hoover's Right—Blizzard Coming In November

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Now that Maine indicated it likes its political waffles turned over once every 18 years the Republicans are hanging up new Olympic records for galloping in circles.

They're bending every effort to twist the situation into another shape.

Mr. Hoover has instructed his stentorian orators to talk louder and longer. They don't have to say anything definite, but they must bellow.

Just to make everything comfy and cozy the Legion convention was circularized with letters bearing the government frank. It is the most economical way of losing friends known to science.

Even Cal Coolidge is being rushed to the front for window dressing. They're wiring the sphinx for sound.

And to put an old gray bonnet on the climax, Mr. Hoover has turned goose bone prophet and is predicting a fierce and horrible winter if we don't do as grandma says and eat our Republican spinach.

He's right about one day. There will be a terrific blizzard the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

A Carver in Wood Plying His Art

RALPH WIRTH AT HIS PAINSTAKING WORK . . . THOSE ARE SOME OF HIS WOODCARVINGS

'TRIALS' SLATED IN RELIEF FETE

Civic and political leaders will be "arrested" and "jailed" by a county constable as a feature of the Twenty-seventh Ward fair and bazar every night this week on Marmaduke street, near California avenue, for the benefit of needy families of the ward.

City magistrates will sit in the kangaroo courts and fine the prisoners various sums, which with the proceeds of the entire show will be handled and disbursed this fall and winter by John H. Bragdon, of the Ohio Valley Bank. The fair and bazar, which begins tonight, is being sponsored by the Golden Rule Club, of the Twenty-seventh Ward, of which Samuel J. Grenet is director.

JOBLESS MINE OWN COAL

Families in Homestead Park are not going to be cold this winter. Unemployed men have opened nine coal mines at Shady and McKinley streets.

Fred J. Hahn, head of the Homestead Land Company, is the owner of the property. He said today:

"I did not give the men permission to mine the coal and I am not going to stop them. I am always glad to help them all I can, but if anything happens they will have to take the blame."

So far more than 200 tons of coal have been taken out of the mines.

Knife Victim Dies; Suspect Arrested

Clarence Kelly, 30, a Negro, of 6728 Kelly street, died last night in the Pittsburgh Hospital from stab wounds suffered Saturday in a fight with another Negro, according to a morgue report. Jerry Coleman, 6456 Frankstown avenue, was arrested in connection with the stabbing, which occurred at Frankstown and Hamilton avenues.

Fight With Bear Brings Death to 2

EMERSON, Manitoba, Sept. 18.—(AP.)—Two persons are dead as a result of a farmyard battle with a huge black bear. The bear killed George Kawrilia, 65, a farmer, and Mrs. Kawrilia died from the shock of witnessing her husband's death.

Reports reaching here today said the bear came into the farmyard with the cows.

Unemployed Get Firewood from Farm

Clergymen of the Homewood-Brushton district are co-operating in assisting unemployed members of their churches to get firewood for the winter from the five-acre farm of Miss Ella McJunkin, at Center, near Universal. The wood is hauled to the homes of the needy by trucks donated by merchants in the district.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Sept. 19.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

France says they are "willing to disarm," but they didn't say so till Germany went home from the conference and announced they were starting to build some more of those vest pocket cruisers.

Both political parties are trying to help the railroads. The railroads could help themselves if they would make the fares what they were in the days when they used to make money. If they would compete with a bus and truck instead of just cussing 'em they wouldn't need all this help. Yours,

WILL.

Three Men Accused Of Theft of Sugar

Emerging from the Pennsylvania Railroad freight yards between Tenth and Eleventh streets, carrying a burlap bag containing 50 pounds of sugar, according to police, William Lee, 24, of 2813 Webster avenue; John Stroble, 40, and Roland James, both homeless Negroes, were arrested.

Widow Gets $163,000 Marshall Estate

L. C. PHIPPS, JR., WEDS IN WEST

DENVER, COL., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Lawrence C. Phipps, Jr., son of former United States Senator L. C. Phipps, of Colorado, and Bertha Richmond, of New Orleans, were married here yesterday.

The ceremony was performed by Capt. J. W. Westerman, Fitzsimons Hospital chaplain, in the home of Lieut. and Mrs. Richardson Selee, of Fort Logan, Col.

The Phipps are relatives of the late Henry Phipps, multi-millionaire steel man and an associate of Andrew Carnegie. The steel magnate presented Pittsburgh with its two conservatories bearing the Phipps name.

Man Found Hanged Near W. Aliquippa

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Sept. 19.—Police today are seeking identity of the body of a man found hanging last night from a tree in a woods along the Monaca-Aliquippa road, near West Aliquippa. The man appeared about 50 years old and was shabbily dressed, police said. He had a few cents and a crust of bread in his pockets.

Woman Plunges Into River, Drowns

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Miss Lottie Cornwell, 58, of Toronto, Ont., plunged into the Niagara River yesterday and drowned. Her sister, Miss Mary Cornwell, caught her by the belt as she made her leap, but the belt broke. It was said she had suffered a nervous breakdown recently.

DEATH OF GIRL IN FALL FROM CAR PROBED

Hurled to Wilmerding Street When Machine Turned Corner

Police and county authorities today are investigating the death of Anna Lunio, 17, of 165 Watkins avenue, Wilmerding, who died of a broken neck after she is alleged to have fallen from the automobile of John Lonzo, 23, of Mifflin road, Hays, at Bridge and Middle street, Wilmerding, shortly before last midnight, according to a coroner's report.

Lonzo told police the girl fell from the machine as he rounded the corner, they reported. She was removed to the nearby home of Nick Lonzo, brother of John, where she was pronounced dead.

DRIVER SEIZED IN CHASE

A Negro truck driver was captured by East End police late last night after a 6-block chase after he is alleged to have struck Mrs. Lydia Funk, 65, of 6616 Rowan street, at Rowan street and Lincoln avenue and failed to stop.

The woman was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital where her condition was said to be serious.

After the capture, the Negro, Charles Wetters, 37, of 6226 Station street, was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital for examination. Witnesses said his machine was driven in a wavering course in Lincoln avenue, just before Mrs. Funk was struck. He is being held in East End Police Station on charges of violating the automobile laws and of be a suspicious person.

CHECKS BOGUS, VET, GIRL HELD

When he was discharged recently he came to Pittsburgh.

Today, arraigned in Central Police Court, he admitted cashing five worthless checks on Pittsburgh merchants. Arrested with him was a companion, Marie Tallent, of Cleveland, who said she was a nurse. Before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg held them both for investigation, Feld said:

"Judge, she had nothing to do with this. She's as innocent as you."

2 Accidents Laid To Hit-Run Drivers

Hit-run drivers of automobiles were blamed by police today for two accidents. In one Carl Stafford, 21, of Seventh street, New Kensington, and his wife, Helen, and a son, John, 9, were injured near their home. In the other, Vernie Robinson, 50, of Kane, was injured when her machine was sideswiped after being struck by a hit-run driver. She was taken to Suburban General Hospital, Bellevue.

Spend to End Slump, June Urges Playboys

REPAIRS DELAY ARMY PLANE

Eight other bombers, members of the 96th Bombardment Squadron, left the County Airport at 3 p. m. yesterday, homeward bound, after "defending" Pittsburgh from mythical invaders Saturday.

A few seconds after the takeoff, Lieut. E. A. Hillery, leading the Third Flight, noticed engine trouble, made radio contact with Capt. J. P. Richter, leading the group, and was instructed to return to the field for repairs, which, necessitated by a loose exhaust valve release nut on the starboard engine, were made with the aid of spare parts obtained at the airport.

World Also Needs More Romance, Says Star

What the world needs is more Broadway playboys and more romance to bring prosperity around the corner, in the words of that most recent and prettiest economist, blonde June Knight, star of the late musical comedy, "Humpty Dumpty," which opened and closed in Pittsburgh.

"When the playboys put money back in circulation, Wall street will come out of its slump.

"Then, too, we need more romance. It's becoming a lost art. Romances will make us forget our troubles."

But on second thought, June decided she'd rather be the "sweetheart of Notre Dame" than President, and confided—for publication, of course—

"I'm going to be crowned sweetheart of the campus some time this fall. And why not? I have pictures of all the Notre Dame football players."

Aged Man Struck Running for Trolley

Fred Linhart, 73 of 2428 Charles street, was injured yesterday when a street car for which he was running at Warrington and Beltzhoover avenues struck him, according to a police report. He was taken to the South Side Hospital, where his condition was reported not serious.

Dr. Joffe Speaker For S. A. R. Chapter

Dr. Louis Joffe will speak on "Seven Million Rubles" at the September meeting of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, in the Fort Pitt Hotel at noon Wednesday. Franklin Blackstone, president of the chapter, will preside.

TWO RELEASED AT POLICE HEARING

Suspect Denies Having Revolver, Admits Drinking

Jack Price, 25, of 79 South Twenty-third street, was held by police today pending developments in the condition of Anna Petrunio, 19, who was shot as she neared the south end of the Twenty-second street Bridge last night.

In South Side Police Court today, Price said he had been drinking but denied having a revolver. Several witness said they saw him near the bridge with a gun. Police believe the shooting was accidental.

Miss Petrunio, a domestic, was in St. Joseph's Hospital. Her condition was not belived serious. Her father, Nick Petrunio, and stepmother, of 165 South Eighteenth street, did not learn of the shooting until today.

The girl was approaching the bridge with Sam Wattovich, of 135 South Twelfth street, and Anna and John Deckacz of 133 South Twelfth street, when she was shot.

Ernest Dittmer, 21, of 79 South Tweny-third street, who was with Price, was discharged at the hearing today, along with Frank Slinsky, of 175 South Eighteenth street, a witness to the shooting. Dittmer said he was being deported to Germany tomorrow at his own request.

MEETING HERE ON HEALTH DAY

A public meeting including a health program will be held in the William Penn Hotel the evening of October 5, under auspices of the State Medical Society. The meeing will be in connection with the annual convention of the society, October 3 to 6.

The program will be a part of the state-wide observance of Health Day as proposed by Dr. J. M. Anders, of Philadelphia, and approved by Gov. Pinchot and Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health. D. Adam Dutcher, professor of biochemistry, Pennsylvania State College, will talk on "Foods We Eat and Why We Eat Them."

MAN DISPLAYS CASH, ROBBED

A stranger suggested they go for a walk.

At Fourth avenue and Ross street, at 4 a. m., an accomplice of the stranger joined them. The two took $37 from Hendricks.

Hendricks went to the police. A radio crew picked up John Desmond, 32, of 4 Boyd street. In Central Police Court today, Desmond, who was held for investigation, complained:

"If there was $37 in that roll I only got cut in for ten."

5 SLAIN IN BATTLES TO CAPTURE KILLERS OF WOMAN

'MODEL' PASTOR DESCRIBED AT M. E. MEET

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Speaking at ordination services of the Erie Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday, Bishop Adna W. Leonard painted a word picture of the model minister. He said:

"Our church needs ministers who are men among men, who can mingle with their fellows with perfect ease and of whom their parishioners may be proud."

He admonished the ministers to dress well, declaring:

"Study the harmony of colors, or, if need be, ask the aid of your wife in selecting your necktie and other apparel. The dignity of the church is upheld in the appearance of the minister.

"Improve your personality. The minister must be human. He must be able to win the confidence of children, to be a sympathetic friend of adults. Visit in the home. Know your people."

The bishop said every minister should have five books on his desk—the Bible, the dictionary, a good work on theology, a book of poetry and a detective story or some piece of current fiction.

CAPT. JAMES MOLLISON TELLING HIS WIFE, AMY JOHNSON, ABOUT HIS TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT . . . HE RETURNED BY BOAT

SECOND DEPUTY AND TWO MORE OUTLAWS DIE

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The slaying of a woman by highwaymen two weeks ago has caused five more deaths—two officers and three alleged outlaws—in the sparsely settled hill country of Eastern Oklahoma.

Webster Reece, a deputy sheriff, and Bud McClain, who officers said drove the car in which were men suspected of the slaying of Mrs. Susie Sharp, were killed at dawn Saturday. Sunday's encounter between officers and men suspected not only of the slaying of the women but also of Reese, brought death to Andrew McGinnis, a special deputy sheriff, and to Ky Carlisle and Troy Love, escaped convicts.

Carlisle and Love, believed by officers to have been wounded in Saturday's battle, were surrounded in a thicket which covered several acres. The possemen surrounded the thicket on three sides, leaving an open field ungarded.

DEPUTY SLAIN

A demand to surrender brought a shot from the outlaws. McGinnis dropped, a bullet through the heart.

Carlisle and Love, lying in a half-reclining position on pallets in the underbrush, fired at the officers until their ammunition was exhausted. Leaping to their feet they attempted to escape by way of the unguarded field.

Carlisle ran about 250 yards and Love about 300 yards before they were shot down. They were dead when the officers reached them.

A search was under way for the fourth man.

Seven men have been taken into custody for questioning. They are Robert Trollinger, said by officers to be at liberty on bond awaiting trial on charges of robbery of the Springdale, Ark., bank; Henry Carlisle, father of the slain man; Ben Parnell, an Indian who lived near the scene of the shooting; Robert Ratliff, a brother of Van Ratliff, notorious outlaw; Dick Carter, Mount Cookson and Robert Weatherford.

FIND FOOD SUPPLY

Officers said they found weapons, food and clothing in the thicket where the men hid.

Both Carlisle and Love had been charged with murder of Mrs. Sharp, and were suspected in the Reece slaying. Carlisle escaped from Oklahoma Penitentiary in 1923 while serving a 25-year sentence for robbery. He and Love escaped from Arkansas Penitentiary, July 23, 1932, while serving robbery terms. Carlisle also was suspected of being implicated in the recent robbery of the Bixby, Okla., bank.

At the time Mrs. Sharp was killed September 2, her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Anderson, 26, of Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Anderson's 6-year-old son, L. L. Anderson, were wounded.

National guardsmen, bloodhounds and officers of all Eastern Oklahoma counties participated in the search Sunday.

Hurt Flippin, deputy sheriff wounded in the battle, was said by physicians to be in a dangerous condition.

FELLOWSHIPS AWARDED

Annual fellowships, sponsored by the mining advisory board to Carnegie Tech, have been awarded this year to four Tech graduates. Arthur C. Barnhart, Monongahela, Pa., a last year's highest honors graduate in mining engineering, has been selected to do research on "The Grindability of Coal," studying under Prof. H. J. Sloman. F. R. Millhiser, Pittsburgh, will study cresylic acids, under Guido H. Stempel, of the Tech chemistry department.

The two others, Henry L. Bunker, Wilkinsburg, and Herbert S. Strickler, Pittsbugh, mechanical engineering graduates, will collaborate on "Determination of the Effect of Mixing Coals on the Ash Fusion Temperature of the Mixture."

Y. M.-W. H. A. IN $60,000 DRIVE

A campaign to raise $60,000 for the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association was announced today by Edgar J. Kaufmann, vice president and treasurer of the Bellefield avenue institution. Kaufmann will act as general chairman of the drive, with Maurice Falk as honorary chairman. The campaign will extend from October 16 to October 30.

The $60,000 is required to decrease the indebtedness of the institution, and to continue its program of cultural, social and physical activities. The income of the organization has fallen 50 per cent in the past 18 months, but the membership has fallen only 14 per cent, as a policy has been maintained of continuing the memberships of those who could not pay.

BOGOTA CROWDS DEMAND WAR

BOGOTA, Columbia, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Tens of thousands of Colombians clamored today for war with Peru, and went down into their pocketbooks and their jewel cases to provide funds to finance it.

The Senate passed on second reading a bill authorizing the government to arrange a credit of $10,000,000 for national defense. The action followed a report on the seizure September 1 by Peruvian citizens of the Colombian port of Leticia on the Amazon. Leticia was ceded to Columbia in the boundary treaty with Peru in 1922.

MASONS HONOR DR. KERR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 19.—Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, former moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, and pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, here to receive the honorary thirty-third degree of Masonry, preached befor the Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors General for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction yesterday.

The council is holding its annual conclave here this week and Dr. Kerr is one of a small group upon whom the highest hors will be conferred. He spoke on "Ultimate Values," and said in part:

"The day came when Rome was crushed and all its splendor faded from the sky and St. Augustine saw rising out of the ruins the City of God. It is this process that is going on before our eyes.

SIFT JAIL FIRE PERILING 30

GREENFIELD, Mass., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—An investigation was ordered today to determine the cause of the fire which swept the Franklin County Jail yesterday, endangering the lives of 30 prisoners.

The flames had gained considerable headway in a wooden cupola when the fire was discovered. Swift action was needed if the prisoners were to be saved.

A deputy sheriff opened the cell doors and ordered the prisoners to the basement. They obeyed without question, though in the excitement escape might have been possible for some.

Eight trusties joined the firemen in fighting the blaze, which did $10,000 damage. The other prisoners, including four women, were transferred to the city jail.

Later, state troopers transferred the prisoners to the Hampshire County Jail at Northampton.

SUES FILM FIRM OVER 'TRAGEDY'

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Minerva Brown, of Norwich, mother of Grace Brown, whose body was found in Big Moose Lake, in the Adirondacks after she had been murdered by Chester Gillette in 1906, has filed suit here against the Paramount Publix Corporation for $150,000, charging defamation of character in the motion picture, "An American Tragedy."

The book by the same name was written by Theodore Dreiser. The plot of his book is similar to the murder of the Brown girl, a teacher, and the electrocution of Gillette for the crime.

Mrs. Brown charges in her complaint that she has been made "an object of contempt and ridicule by allusions and innuendoes that she is poor white trash and an unkempt, illiterate, untidy product of the hills."

STEEL AND COAL WORK GAINS

International News Service.

Several bright spots appeared today in the Pennsylvania industrial picture.

In the Uniontown-Connellsville coke region, operations at five plants of the H. C. Frick Coke Company will be increased. The Filbert and Footedale plants will work three days per week instead of two, and other plants report increased production.

The Shenango plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company at New Castle increased operations from 42 to 70 per cent of capacity today, cheerful news to business and industry in the Shenango Valley.

Steel operations in the Mahoning Valley, on the Pennsylvania-Ohio border, continue to increase. Steel production for the week ending September 24 is expected to be about 18 per cent.

TENSION EASED AS BUSINESS CREEPS UP

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Business, responding to seasonal and other stimuli, has been creeping with an irregular upward tendency, after having fallen early in the summer to an almost unbelievably low level.

It started out in July with industrial production at just a shade over 50 per cent of computed normal. The rate of output in many basic lines had been adjusted to the snail-like pace then prevailing in industry. Factories were adjusted to anything except any improvement in sentiment.

Mr. Rukeyser

Since that time there has been marked gain in the financial situation, as a result of the passing of the panic psychology. The repulsing of the foreign raid on the American dollar was the turning point, and the prodigality of relief to hungry banks and needly railroads temporarily at least eased the tension.

FOREIGN BUYERS ALERT

As the panicky liquidation ceased Wall street awoke to find that stocks and bonds had fallen to depths which were out of relation to real conditions, even in time of maximum depression. Foreign investors were perhaps the first to sense the extent to which the market had been undervaluing securities. As buying came into the market, it soon became apparent that there was no supply of securities at the quoted prices. Buyers had to bid for stocks and bonds.

This caused a turn, and after the upturn timid souls who had sacrificed securities in order to conform to the prevailing craze for liquidity rushed back into the market to repurchase their former holdings.

Under such stimulus the rise was continued. Large banks, abnormally liquid, early in the summer were disposed to encourage purchase of securities at bargain prices.

Then pool manipulators saw an opportunity, and they began to exploit the largely worthless along with the meritorious. Market riggers used the renaissance of confidence as an opportunity to distribute stock at vastly higher prices.

CORRECTIONS MADE

Such excesses marketwise invited correction, most of which has already taken place, and there has been a disposition to seek a justification in recent business news for the reaction.

There is no such justification, except in so far as the earlier mixed business news was perverted in an attempt to justify unrestrained bullishness.

In the light of the artificial stimulus administered, the actual net gains in business have, it is true, been indecisive. Yet, from a long term standpoint, it may be significant that the decline has been arrested.

INCREASES CITED

The counter seasonal rise in ingot production was an encouraging straw in the wind. Likewise gains in electric power consumption, coal output and freight car loadings have continued. The August increase of more than seasonal proportions in the factory payrolls in New York state was another good sign.

The improvement in security and commodity prices, it will be recalled, followed the unprecedentedly vigorous reflationary credit policy of the Federal Reserve banks.

Motorist Killed, Woman Badly Hurt

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 19.—Tony Yakomovich, 45, of Bentleyville, was killed and Mrs. Mary Nagel, 40, a companion, also of Bentleyville, critically injured last night when their automobile plunged over a 15-foot embankment on the Charleroi-Monesson road, near Bentleyville.

Mrs. Nagel, a widowed mother of six children, was taken to the Charleroi-Monesson Hospital, in a critical condition.

Convicted for Fatal Fight at Ball Game

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Hugh Montgomery, 31, of Ambrosia, near here, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the death of Dewey Riffle, 35, from injuries received in a fight at a baseball game July 3. Montgomery was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

'Anthracite Wage Parley Resumed

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—A conference between officials of the United Mine Workers of America and anthracite operators seeking a wage cut was to resume today.

The conferees have had several sessions without reaching an agreement and indications have been that the matter may go before a board of arbitration.

High Taxes Drive Man, 70, to Suicide

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—High taxes were given as the reason for the suicide of A. E. Hayward, 70.

Hayward placed a canvas over his head and the exhaust of his automobile and breathed poison gas. A note said he killed himself because of heavy special tax assessments, the depression and ill health.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—In a slow market Curb stocks developed general firmness after early heaviness. Transactions to noon totaled only 90,000 shares, a considerable drop from the volume of recent days.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Following in the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list).

CARRIERS BRACE ENTIRE STOCK LIST

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The stock market moved sluggishly today, but showed strong resistance against an early selling flurry. The list turned upward as trading entered the afternoon hours, with most rails and many industrials moderately higher.

Railroad securities appeared to furnish the backbone of the market. They yielded a point or so at one time, but quickly retraced their steps, holding steadily above the final prices of Saturday.

United States Steel issues were under some early pressure when a break of 6¼ points occurred in the company's preferred stock, presumably based on doubts as to dividend continuation. Later, the common rallied to Saturday's close after a dip of more than a point, and the preferred regained about one-quarter of its loss. Trading was the dullest in several weeks.

Strength of cotton, which advanced on weather news, and firmness of wheat, appeared to help the stock market. Wall street has been paying close attention to the action of commodities.

Most market operators appeared to be weighing evidence on recent business gains and to attach major importance to the question of whether the upturn was actually exceeding seasonal scope, or was barely up to seasonal measure. Electric power production figures have been considered as furnishing strong support for a reasonable amount of optimism. Ordinarily, production during the Labor Day week falls about 4 per cent below the preceding week. This year, however, the decline was held to about 2 per cent. This, coupled with the trend of freight movements, was taken as a hopeful indication that business was plodding gradually ahead.

WHEAT PRICES FIRM UP

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Responsive to upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool, grain values here tended to advance early today. A snowfall in Canada likely to check threshing had some bullish influence. Opening unchanged to ¼ higher, Chicago wheat future rose afterwards all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off and subsequently averaged higher.

Corn and oats reflected wheat firmness, as well as indications that country marketings of old corn showed signs of diminishing. Provisions were neglected.

Date for Wage Cut Notice Undecided

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—No decision has been reached by the railroads as to what date will be selected for filing of notices of their intention to reduce by 20 per cent the basic pay rates of contract employes. Settlement of this point may be made at the meeting tomorrow of the committee of nine operating officers representing Class one carriers.

Another point which is yet to be determined is whether the roads will file the notices individually or collectively on a set date.

Farrel Tin Plant Operating at 100%

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 19.—The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company's Farrell plant employing 3,800 men, increased operations to 100 per cent today, for the first time in two years. The company also has increased operations at its Shenango works, New Castle, Pa., plate plant to 70 per cent of capacity, a gain of 28 per cent over last week's schedule.

Tin plate output in the Youngstown district is substantially higher than for several months.

Atchison Railway Loadings Increase

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The Atchison Railway in week ended September 17 handled 25,597 cars against 22,052 in previous week and 30,691 a year ago.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

UNITED OFFERS STRIP MILL UNCOILER

In response to an insistent demand from the large units in the steel industry for a machine that will prevent delays between starting of the feed of wide, heavy-gauge, hot-rolled coils of steel into cold-rolled mills, the United Engineering and Foundry Company, the world's largest maker of rolls and rolling mill machinery, has developed a new and advanced type of machine known as the magnetic uncoiler, invented by H. H. Talbot, chief engineer of the company.

During the past few years, with the development of larger and faster strip steel mills, a number of auxiliary machines have been found necessary to maintain the speed of the main unit and avoid expensive idle periods in preparing the steel for rolling.

FOR LARGE MILLS

The magnetic uncoiler is an automatic machine that permits beginning of rolling quickly and succeeding coils can be started immediately after the end of the previous coil disappears into the mill. It is applicable to the largest strip mills that have been built and to those to be constructed in the future.

A wide, heavy-gauge, hot-rolled coil is delivered to the magnetic uncoiler by a crane or other transporting device and is laid upon a pair of horizontal carrier rollers with a magnet between them. The rollers are revolved until the outer end of the strip rests directly over the magnet, which holds this end tightly while the two rollers tilt forward and roll the rest of the coil down an incline into a coil box. About 10 feet of the strip is unrolled in this manner and unbent out of its curl.

MAGNET RELEASES

The magnet now lets go, the coil box rollers are revolved and the loose end of the strip sweeps in an arc over the coil to a set of open straightening rollers, revolving, which are immediately closed and commence to straighten and feed the strip neatly into the entry guides of the cold mill.

A following coil is laid upon the carrier rollers of the magnet uncoiler as soon as the first coil rolls into the coil box, so that it can be unrolled immediately the last end disappears into the mill. The magnetic uncoiler has operated successfully under commercial conditions.

INTERNATIONAL'S NEW DELIVERY UNIT

INTERNATIONAL SHOWS NEW TRUCK

A new truck, especially designed for frequent stopping and starting as is required of equipment used for home deliveries, has been produced by the International Harvester Company and is now in use in many large cities of the country. In Pittsburgh the Reick McJunkin Dairy Company is using one of the new models and it is said that its operation has proven entirely satisfactory. This new truck, known as the International Model M-2 is now on display at the factory branch, 5200 Penn avenue.

The new model is the result of demands made upon the truck manufacturers by modern users of motor trucks for a vehicle which will fulfill his individual needs from the standpoint of economy of operation, maintenance and convenience. In previous years a truck chassis was built as an all service proposition, but today the leading manufacturers are aware that there is the need for the right truck for the right job.

To meet demands for a specialized house-to-house delivery unit, the International Harvester Company has developed this special model which is in a low price range for delivery equipment. A feature of this modern delivery vehicle is that the operator is able to make an immediate "getaway" after each stop. The model has free wheeling and automatic clutch and brake operation. The drop frame is used for easy accessibility and convenience.

Operation of this model so far has revealed that it speeds up deliveries and makes possible the expanding of business and in most cases it lowers the distribution costs.

The advantages of such a truck have built up interest among the shippers in dairies, bakeries, department stores, wholesale tobacco and candy houses and many other industries that have rapid house-to-house deliveries.

CUDAHY MEETS FOR DIVIDEND TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Directors of the Cudahy Packing Company will meet for dividend action tomorrow.

Cudahy is the only one of the "big four" packers that is paying dividends, except for Armour of Delaware, whose preferred dividend is guaranteed by the parent company, Armour of Illinois.

No official indication has been given as to Cudahy's plans regarding the quarterly dividend payable October 15 on the common stock. On June 3 directors reduced the dividend to a quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents.

ON $2.50 BASIS

The common was placed on a $2.50 annual basis, according to a statement of E. A. Cudahy, Sr., chairman, in order that the company would be enabled to close the year "with a fair margin of profit."

Since this action, the packers have had at least one month of fair profits, July. August, in part at least, was less satisfactory, owing to the adverse relation of meat prices to live hog quotations after the middle of that month. September to date has been indifferent, although the packers are still getting their volume.

COMPACT COMPANY

Cudahy, however, has one of the most compact organizations of the "big four" packers, which include Armour, Swift and Wilson. It has no plant in Chicago, as have the other three, and thus avoids much of the present day expense of the huge plants in this city. In addition, Cudahy has only nominal investments abroad, where pork and lard business this year has been poor for United States packers.

Directors will also act tomorrow on the semi-annual disbursements on $7 and $6 preferred stocks, which will be payable November 1.

Steel Trade Reports Moderate Gain In Output

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE STEEL INDUSTRY will start the present week with production slightly higher than last week. The industry experienced a moderate spurt early in the month. This was followed by a period of hesitation and then by an increased volume of new orders last week which will result in expanded production this week.

National Steel has increased its output from 25 per cent of capacity to 30 per cent. This is much greater than the average for the industry as a whole which has boosted its output about a point in percentage to 16 per cent of capacity.

This is encouraging but it merely follows seasonal precedents and has not been great enough to provide a foundation for the belief that any pronounced improvement in general business is taking place.

* * *

Volume Greatest In Two Months

ONE INDEPENDENT steel company reports that its volume of new orders last week was the greatest of any week in the past two months. Officials declared, however, that the orders almost invariably were for small tonnages for rush shipments. They stated that they had no idea whether production would be increased after the present week or whether the influx in increased orders would continue.

For the steel industry as a whole, the following facts prevail: The automobile companies in Detroit are specifying delivery for slightly greater tonnages of material. Tin plate shows little change from recent weeks. The demand from other industries is so scattered that general inferences regarding a change in trend cannot be drawn. Prices show no change in finished products. Some shading has been reported in sheet steel but other lines are firm. Higher quotations for pig iron and scrap indicate that surplus stocks of raw materials have been taken off the market.

Hamilton Institute Sees Little Change

IN COMMENTING on general business conditions, the Alexander Hamilton Institute declares that current indices provide no basis for extravagant hopes of business improvement, but they appear somewhat more assuring. The weekly survey of this organization says:

"If there are no signs of marked gains in activity, there are, nevertheless, accumulating evidences that business is holding its own. In the banking field, a moderate increase in net deposits contrasts with a slight contraction at this time last year. While the total is still nearly $1,200,000,000 below 1931, the trend is positive. Deposits this year increased $192,000,000 during the period when there was a drop of $1,000,000 last year. The expansion of the banks' investments also contrasts favorably with 1931. For the past three weeks investments have increased over $80,000,000, more than half of the increase being in other than government securities. Liquidation, while possibly not complete, appears thus close to completion.

"Car loadings are showing some improvement in a narrowing of the rate of decline from last year. Through July and early August, loadings were running from 32½ to 33½ per cent below 1931. This spread has narrowed in succeeding weeks after August 6. The loadings for the week of September 3 were 26.3 per cent below those of 1931. The steel industry's operations are at but little over one-half of the rate of a year ago, with a slight rise this year against a declining trend a year ago. Electricity consumption which ran from 12.4 to 13.9 per cent below 1931 in July and early August has shown a slight improvement. The curtailment in automobile production, on the other hand, is much greater, relative to the 1931 level, than was the output at this time last year relative to 1930. Curative measures are apparently having some effect but as yet revival where it occurs must be thought of in terms of a quickening of replacement demand."

INTERNATIONAL ADDS UNIT

International Business Machines Corporation has just introduced the fifteenth addition to its lines of business equipment, made within the past year, in the form of a new electrical, alphabetical accounting machine that automatically prints both descriptive information and columns of figures in business forms, such as bills or invoices which may be automatically printed complete with the name and address of each customer.

The new alphabetical accounting machine was designed to save a minimum of 25 per cent of the time formerly required for large scale billing and other work. In posting records and listing departmental information it will record the names and amounts of as many as 80 items a minute.

All electrical tabulating equipment in use up to the present time has been capable of printing figures only, alphabetical characters having to be added on the typewriter.

LUCAS TO TALK TO GRADUATES

John H. Lucas will speak upon "The Relationship and Personal Contact of the Young Accountant with the Business Man" at the annual graduation ceremony of Pittsburgh School of Accountancy in the Schenley Hotel at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Lucas, who will be introduced by Guy F. Custer, C. P. A., dean of the school, is president of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Robert Morris Associates. He is also in charge of the credit department of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, where he is assistant to the president.

The graduation ceremony will include, in addition to presentation of diplomas, the presentation of prizes awarded by the dean and by the alumni association.

Speaker

JOHN H. LUCAS

President of the Pittsburgh Chapter of Robert Morris Associates and in charge of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company credit department, who will speak at the annual graduation of the Pittsburgh School of Accountancy in Hotel Schenley next Saturday night.

Typewriter Company Sales Rise Sharply

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Richard W. Sears, II, president of the Woodstock Typewriter Company, said the company had experienced a decided increase in business during the last three months. He announced that June brought the upturn as the largest sales month of the year, July was the largest in two years and August was the largest with two exceptions in the company's history. August sales were 58 per cent ahead of the same month of 1931.

Canada Carloadings Increase for Week

MONTREAL, Sept. 16.—Canadian car loadings during the week ended Sept. 10 totaled 44,278 cars, comparing with 41,521 in the preceding week and 53,368 in the like 1931 period.

Bituminous Coal Production Lower

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Bituminous coal output in the week ended September 10 totaled 5,290,000 tons, against 5,664,000 tons in the preceding week, the Bureau of Mines reports.

Anthracite production during the same 1932 week was 633,000 tons, compared with 1,069,000 tons in the week previous.

Overland-Harvester Sales Pact Pending

TOLEDO, Sept. 19.—L. A. Miller, president of Willys-Overland Company, states negotiations on a sales and manufacturing plan between his company and International Harvester have been under way since January, but that announcement of exact nature will have to await settlement of several details.

National Tea Sales Decline 19 Per Cent

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The National Tea Company reports sales for the four weeks ended September 10 of $4,677,734, compared with $5,801,745 in the same period last year, a decrease of 19.3 per cent. For the 36 weeks ended September 10, sales totaled $46,180,015, compared with $54,004,008 last year, a decrease of 14.4 per cent.

California Crude Oil Output Down

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—California crude oil output during the week ended September 17 averaged 476,000 barrels daily, a decrease of 800 barrels daily from the preceding week, according to California Oil World.

Orders for Lumber Well Above Output

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Lumber orders received during the week ended September 10 from reports of 627 mills, totaled 166,562,000 feet, or 58 per cent above production, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

Dry Goods Plans Cut in Capital

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Associated Dry Goods Corporation has notified the exchange of a proposed reduction in authorized second preferred stock to 67,255 shares from 100,000 and change in par value of common to $1 a share from no par value, each present share of common to be exchangeable for one new share.

Hawaiian Pineapple Pack Much Smaller

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—The Hawaiian 1932 pineapple pack to September 3 amounted to 4,470,667 cases, or a decline of 7,864,346 cases from the total packed to September 5, 1931.

Swallows Evidence In Bad Check Case

DOTHAN, Ala.—(INS.)—Because he swallowed the evidence, John Bess, Bonifay, Fla., probably will go free, police say. Arrested on a bad check charge, he seized the check and swallowed it.

False Fire Alarms Cost $136,250 in 1931

WASHINGTON.—(INS.)—False and needless fire alarms cost local taxpayers $136,250 during 1931. The average cost of a fire alarm is $50.

Wholesale and Jobbing Trade Conditions

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Tabloid review of wholesale and retail business conditions and the state of crops as reported to Bradstreet's last week from the following centers, on the basis of comparisons with conditions in the same areas in the corresponding week last year:

	Whole. and Job. Trade	Retail Trade	Mfg. and Industry	Collections	Crops
Pittsburgh	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Hard Finish Aids Yanks. Rate Gehrig Above Ruth.
Winner May Be Fagged. Backfield of Brothers.
New Park Hurts Hitters. Fates Jolt Canzoneri.

PIRATES CHANCE ALIVE BUT FEEBLE

THOUGH THE PIRATES kept their mathematical pennant chance alive by cleaning up yesterday's double-header in New York, where they made the notable record of eight wins in 11 games this season, the victory of the Cubs behind Charley Root's strong relief pitching in the Cincinnati marathon reduced that chance to such an extent that the only way in which Pittsburgh could now win out would be for the Bucs to win all of their remaining eight games, which would make 10 victories in a row, and the Bruins to lose every one of the six contests they have yet to play. The Cubs can clinch the pennant by winning only one of their four games with the Rovers in the series starting tomorrow. If the Corsairs were to sweep that series, Chicago could win out with two victories over Cincinnati, two defeats for the Bucs in St. Louis, or one Cub victory and one Pirate defeat.

Charley Root

The Yanks look like World Series winners regardless of the identity of the National League flag taker, and the strain of the hard-fought finish in the National probably will make New York's expected victory all the easier by leaving the Heydler champions tired and worn. Besides, the Cubs have been further strained by four extra-inning games and two double-headers in the last six days. And if the Pirates were to win out Gibson's men would be far from their peak after the tax of winning 10 games in succession.

AFTER PLAYING IN the Cleveland stadium for the first time, visiting players on the various other American League clubs have expressed the opinion that it will take rank as the hardest park to hit in that the majors have. Nearly all batting averages will be lowered there, it is predicted.

To begin with, gusts of wind from Lake Erie and cross air currents retard fly balls that might otherwise drop in the pavilion seats. Then the field is so wide across the middle that the first and third basemen can roam far for foul flies.

AND IN ADDITION, though the foul posts are only 320 feet from the plate, the stands curve out so widely just beyond that a terrific wallop will be required for a homer against the contrary winds.

Players and managers of other teams say the Cleveland club might as well get rid of its long fly hitters and reconstruct its offensive. They believe that chop hitters or those who hit low line drives will do the telling work at the new park.

A WORLD SERIES discussion between Burleigh Grimes and some of the Brooklyn players brought out that National League pitchers rate Lou Gehrig as more to be feared than Babe Ruth. "The Cubs haven't much to worry about if they can dope out some way of stopping Gehrig," observed Jack Quinn, the Methusaleh of Ringers. "What?" gasped Johnny Frederick. "How about Ruth?" But Grimes and Dazzy Vance nodded in agreement with Quinn. "That's the right dope," Vance said, "strange as it may sound. There are ways of pitching to Ruth. You can get him in the hole, maybe, and work on him. But nobody yet has doped out any way of curing this Gehrig plague."

Col. Jacob Ruppert

THE OWNERS OF the world series clubs don't get much, comparatively, out of the derby unless it goes beyond four games. The commissioner's office, or advisory council, takes 15 per cent of the receipts at each game during the whole series, and 60 per cent of the remainder at the first four games goes to the players' pool.

The owners of the contending clubs, therefore, divide only 40 per cent of 85 per cent of the receipts at the first four games, and each club must give half of that share into the treasury of its league. It is only after the fourth game that the owners of the teams in the series come in for a big cut. Then, after the advisory council's 15 per cent has been deducted, they divide the remainder and each club in turn gives half of its share to its league.

BUT IN SPITE of the financial loss it would mean to him, Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, insists that he was sincere when he expressed the hope last week that his club would win the first four games and end the series quickly. "The Yankees' task is not ended," Ruppert said. "The world championship is more important than the pennant and I repeat that I hope the Yankees will win four straight.

"I know that Joe McCarthy has that object in view. He wants to equal the record made by previous Yankee clubs, which won four straight from Pittsburgh in 1927 and from St. Louis in 1928."

THE POSSIBILITY OF three brothers being seen in the same backfield looms at Yale this fall for the first time in major college football. They are MacLean, Clem and Charley Williamson, of Glen Cove, L. I. Clem and McLean have played for two seasons. Charley, who is assistant football manager, received a uniform the other day and reported with the other candidates for practice. He formerly played at Andover.

LOOKING BACK ON the baseball season now ending, friends of Tom Bridges, Detroit pitcher, are recalling his close approach to a perfect game, which was ruined when Walter Johnson sent in a pinch-hitter with two out in the ninth, not a man to first base and the score 13 to 0. Johnson's explanation that he was trying to win reminds one scribe of a football story told by Fielding H. Yost.

THE MAIN WORRY of the majority of ring champions has been to get away from dangerous challengers. But the chief difficulty experienced by Tony Canzoneri, lightweight titleholder, has been to get them into the ring with him.

Tony Canzoneri

Canzoneri thinks the fistic fates have been unkind to him since he won the crown from Al Singer late in 1930. Three title matches that meant big money have been called off on him since he and Kid Chocolate packed Madison Square Garden last November.

TONY WAS TO have boxed Ray Miller for the championship in Detroit and was to have received a guarantee of $42,500, but the show fell through when the promoter sensed a loss and got cold feet. Canzoneri and Chocolate then were paired for a return match in Madison Square Garden, but that went by the boards when the Keed was deported because of his matrimonial difficulties in Havana. Worst of all, from the champion's point of view, was the arm trouble that kept Billy Petrolle from going through with the title match in the Long Island Bowl. That stood out as the biggest attraction of the year barring a heavyweight championship card, but it had to be put back to November 4 indoors, where even a sellout, if the delay has not taken the edge off the show, won't mean nearly as much money as an outdoor fight would have drawn.

DUKES PREPARE FOR STRUGGLE WITH W. VA.

Although the raccoon coats will not put in their appearance for some weeks yet, due to the warm weather, the depression and one thing or another, the college football season is set to make its presence very much felt this week.

Throughout the length and breadth of the land, the college varsities are completing their training sessions in preparation for inaugural contests Saturday. Few games of any great importance are on the books, only a scattered few promising any considerable competition.

BEARS FACE TOUGH ONE

Only one Big Ten eleven will see action, Coach Amas Alonzo Stagg sending his Chicago team against Monmouth College. The big game on the West Coast pits California against tough Santa Clara; Sewanee meets South Carolina in a Southern Conference tilt, and Louisiana State, under the tutelage of Capt. L. McCall (Biff) Jones, former Army mentor, tackles Texas Christian.

Practically the entire tri-state district swing into action either Friday night or Saturday, with the Duquesne-West Virginia and Geneva and Davis Elkins tussles Friday night giving the schedule a mid-season touch. The clash between the Dukes, who pried off the lid last Friday night by beating Westminister, and the Mountaineers tops the card.

Pitt, still at Camp Hamilton, continues its pre-season training drive today and has a second and final practice game booked for tomorrow. The Dukes, enjoying two days of rest, resume operations on the Bluff this afternoon and likely will be sent through a scrimmage. Carnegie Tech, with two more weeks of practice time ahead before it opens up with Geneva, also may be expected to put in a busy session or two today. The Tartan squad is in full charge of Coach Bob Waddell, Advisory Coach Wally Steffen having returned to Chicago. He will be back Saturday.

WOMEN'S GOLF TEAMS DUEL

Women golfers of the Schenley and South Park courses will inaugurate team play competition today, clashing over the 18-hole route at Schenley and engaging in a second 18-hole battle at South Park tomorrow. The Nassau system of scoring will be employed to determine the victor.

Mrs. Margaret Curry, women's city champion, will captain the Schenley team, favored to defeat the South Park lineup due to the greater experience of the players. Included on the Schenley team, in addition to Mrs. Curry, will be Mrs. Carrie Josephson, Mrs. Eva Blair, Edith Clark, Mrs. Harry Masury, Mrs. L. Brinkman, Mrs. W. Long and Sara Cuden.

Mrs. Myrtle Stearns, runner-up to Miss Morouse for the county park title; Mrs. N. L. Claiborne, Anna Horne, Anna Brennan, Mrs. K. Walker, Mrs. F. Ornstein, Helen Engeman and Katherine Richard will play for South Park.

The Pennsylvania Golf Association will hold a one-day tournament at Westmoreland Wednesday. Foursomes will compete at 18 holes medal play.

Dr. S. M. Hankey and A. D. Horgan tied for top honors in the 18-hole match play against par tourney at Stanton Heights yesterday, both finishing 1 up. J. B. Campbell was third, finishing all even.

At Edgewood, Dr. W. L. Thunhurst led the field with a low gross score of 78 and a low net of 73 in the 18-hole medal-play competition under full handicap.

Annual A. M. A. Dinner Tonight

The annual banquet and meeting of the Allegheny Mountain Association, of the A. A. U., will be held tonight at the William Penn Hotel. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

Reports of all committees will be heard and swimming, track and field records presented for approval.

CUE TOURNEY ON

A Class B three-rail billiard tournament will get under way Thursday at the William Penn parlors, Smithfield street. The annual old-timers' red ball tourney has been on for some time. Plans are being made by Manager Black for a city-wide three-cushion tournament for the title now held by Dale Campbell.

Tolley Beats Flinn In Jersey Tourney

PINE VALLEY, N. J., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—T. A. Torrance, captain of the British Walker Cup golf team, yesterday won the Crump Cup tournament by defeating his countryman and Walker Cup teammate, Cyril Tolley, 2 and 1, on the Pine Valley Golf Club course.

In the semi-finals, Torrance defeated W. B. McCullough, of Philadelphia, 3 and 2, after a stubborn fight, while Tolley eliminated G. H. Flinn, of Pittsburgh, runnerup in the Pennsylvania state championship, 2 up, leading all the way from the first green.

Gastanaga Breaks Bone in Forearm

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Isidoro Gastanaga, young Spanish heavyweight, suffered a fracture of a bone in his left forearm, boxing with a sparring partner yesterday, and will be unable to meet Les Kennedy, of Vernon, Cal., on the Max Baer-Tuffy Griffiths card at the Chicago Stadium, September 26.

The injury occurred when Gastanaga struck K. O. White on the elbow. He will be out of action for more than a month.

LOTT WINS TITLE

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—George Lott, of Chicago, yesterday crushed Berkley Bell, of California, 6-0, 6-0 and 6-3, in the final round of their match on the Oakmont Tennis Club courts to win the Pennsylvania state clay court championship.

BUSH TO HURL IN OPENER

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Responding to the cheers of a big homecoming crowd, Manager Charley Grimm, of the Cubs, today said he planned to shoot Guy Bush against the Yankees in the first game of the world series.

Hundreds of fans jammed the station as the Cubs came home with a six-game lead over Pittsburgh. Grimm said:

"We had a successful road trip. Every team sent its best pitchers against us and we had to fight all the way, but we did well. When we left for the trip, we had a seven-game lead. Today it is six and we'll clinch the pennant tomorrow by beating Pittsburgh in the first game of the doubleheader. We plan to use Bush in the first game of the series and expect the Yankees to counter with Ruffing."

Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, Cub backstop, who was spiked in Philadelphia, was up and around and expected to get back in the lineup tomorrow.

Dixie Title Series To Open Tomorrow

BEAUMONT, Tex., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Two clubs which have never been in a Dixie Series before will open play here tomorrow for the baseball championship of the South and Southwest. The Beaumont Exporters, of the Texas League, meet the Chattanooga Lookouts, of the Southern Association.

Vines Beats Jap In Exhibition Duel

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, Jr., world tennis champion, forewarned opponents in the Pacific Southwest tournament yesterday he is prepared to make a serious defense of his titles by defeating Takeo Kuwabara, champion of Japan, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3.

FITTRO NAMED CAPTAIN

PIRATES TRIM GIANTS TWICE IN NEW YORK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The pennant bee continued to buzz merrily in the camp of the Pirates as they spent today in Pittsburgh. George Gibson brought his surprising Buccaneers back home this morning after an exciting trip to the four Seaboard cities. The runners-up bowled over the Giants twice in New York yesterday and even though the Cubs won in Cincinnati they are not yet out of the forest of uncertainty.

Charley Grimm's club can clinch the flag by winning any one contest of a four-game series between the Cubs and Pirates which gets under way in Chicago tomorrow when the two clubs clash in a doubleheader.

CUBS ABOUT 'IN'

The Bruins are carded for six and the Buccos for eight contests before the curtain falls next Sunday night. In the event that the Cubs win one game from the Pirates they could drop the other three, as well as their two unplayed games with the Reds, and still win the flag, even though the Pirates should win four in succession in St. Louis after taking three out of four from the Cubs. Should this situation develop the standing of the two clubs would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pirates	88	66	.571

An interesting angle on the race in favor of the Pirates is shown in the fact that the Rovers could still catch up with the Bruins even if they should win another contest. A possibility of such a happening hinges on the two games scheduled between the Reds and Cubs.

If the Cubs should win but one of their games with the Reds, on top of a loss of four to the Pirates, the Buccos could ride to a deadlock by winning all four games carded with the Redbirds. The situation would then be like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Pirates	89	65	.578

Should the teams finish in a tie, the National League would order a playoff to decide the issue.

BUCS TO FIGHT

The Freebooters are imbued with that nonchalant "everything-to-gain-and-nothing-to-lose" feeling which makes a club very, very tough in a crucial series. That is exactly how the Giants felt back in 1921 when they bowled over the Buccos five times in succession. The Pirates realize that four triumphs over the Cubs would haul the leaders down to within two games and perhaps prolong the debate until the very last day of the season.

Their sugar-coated victory over the Giants yesterday gave added zest to the Buccos. True, they grieved a bit over the sad occurrences of the previous afternoon, when the Polo Grounders snatched a trimph from the Buccos' grasp after the Gibsonites appeared to have the game well sewed up. Nevertheless, the Pirates won the series and in doing so they were able to show better than a 50-50 result for their last Eastern jaunt. They won seven and lost five games on the tour.

Careful pitching by Larry French and Leon Chagnon, backed by a consistent attack, was largely responsible for the two-way win of the Pirates in New York. The Waner boys, especially Lloyd, had a field day, the wee centerfielder coming through with six

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—It looks as if Pittsburgh has lost the pennant and the football season can start right in at Forbes Field, but the Pirates still deserve enough credit to buy a steam yacht with a dime deposit.

What I mean is this: In the spring the Pittsburghs went down so fast they were mistaken for the Pennsylvania coal miners. Then they worked themselves up to the top of the league. Then they put on the greatest losing streak since Bryan got the idea of running for President. According to Hoyle, Babson's charts and statute law, they should have been through.

That's when the Pirates showed they were gamier than roast partridges. They climbed right back within snapping distance of the Cubs' heels and that's the way they're finishing after two nose dives without benefit of parachutes. And that's why I take my hat off to this year's Pirates, at the risk of exposing my bald head.

PITT TO HAVE POWERFUL TEAM DESPITE LOSS OF VETS

PANTHER SQUAD SHOWS CLASS AT WINDBER

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 19.—If you have some loose change you were figuring on wagering against Pitt's Golden Panthers of the gridiron this fall, you'd better keep it in your pocket. The Panthers are going to be some potatoes as a football team. Don't let anyone tell you different.

Sure, they lost eight men from last fall's starting lineup! Sure, they have as tough a schedule any college eleven ever was called upon to face! Sure, they'll have to depend on some comparatively inexperienced players, but they are going to have a ball club.

They've put in about 12 days now in the testing furnace here at Camp Hamilton. They've worked hard, but no harder than has Coach Jock Sutherland and his assistants. The results have been gratifying. The competition for each position has been so keen and so potentially powerful is the material that the two second string tackles of last year, understudies to Jim MacMurdo and Jess Quatse, are having difficulty in holding jobs on the second eleven. What does that tell you? It may not mean much to the lay reader, but it will cause more than one coach throughout the length and breadth of the land to stop and think.

SUTHERLAND HOPEFUL

Sutherland believes he'll have a pretty fair football team this fall, despite the terrific losses suffered through graduation. It is up to Coach Jock to fill eight varsity positions, a tremendous task, even for a coach as capable and cagy as Sutherland. An entire line must be developed and the fullback position strengthened, all this in time to square off against West Virginia, Duquesne, Army, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Penn, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech and Stanford on successive Saturdays, after opening hostilities for the season this week with Ohio Northern.

When it is considered that Pitt is to face a representative powerful eleven from the East, mid-West, Missouri Valley and Pacific Coast, as well as Tech, the Dukes and West Virginia from our own rugged tri-state district, it must be admitted that the Panthers are up against as tough an assignment as any college eleven ever undertook. There are no mere big-name games on that schedule. All are tough . . . plent-ee tough.

Now then, how about the prospects? How about the men with which Dr. Sutherland and his staff of assistants are toiling? How about 'em . . . well, read on:

If the situation as regards the line were only as clarified and bright as is that having to do with the backfield, the Panther mentor would be getting more sleep of nights. The line strength is there, but it remains to be tested and classified. Fortunately, Pitt's season last year was such that the second eleven saw almost as much service as the first, so that the loss of such a forward wall as the Hirshberg - Quatse - Milligan-Daugherty - Morris - MacMurdo-Collins combination was not as tragic as it might have been, though Heaven knows it was bad enough.

Better still, the caliber of the sophomore talent has turned out to be high grade, assaying plenty to each ton of beef and brawn.

ENDS QUESTIONABLE

A great deal of the success of the line will depend upon the way in which the ends come through. Ted Dailey and Muggsy Skladany, second-string wingmen last year, so far have withstood the attacks of the sophomore talent and will start Saturday against Ohio Northern. Understudying this pair will be Bob Timmons, the North Side lad who needs only aggressiveness to make him a wow, and Lou Wojcihovski, of West Virginia.

The tackle situation is giving Sutherland many a quiet chuckle. There are five big fellows battling tooth, nail and fist for the jobs, with the veteran Paul Cuba, of New Castle, who has lacked only the old fire in the past, and Bobby Hoel, a sensational sophomore from Evanston, out in front. John Meredith, a West Virginia entry, and Frank (Tiger) Walton, of the Beaver Valley, are trailing on the second eleven and John Love, a second stringer last year, and John Valenti, on the third.

Ken Ormiston, who fullbacked during his high school days, but been converted into a lineman, and Tarcicso Onder, a reservist last year, appear to have a slight lead in the race for the guard jobs. Ormiston, weighing around 175 pounds, fast and a hard hitter, is the ideal type of Sutherland guard. Dob Hartwig, up from Bellaire, the town that gave Hart and Bob Harris to Pitt, is making it plenty interesting for both Onder and Ken. Francis (Cowboy) Seigal, of Iowa, is paired with Hartwig on the second club at present. Improvement in his offensive play would make Seigal a tough baby to keep out of there.

TORMEY AT CENTER

The center job is being well taken care of by Joe Tormey, who had to ride the splinters for two years only because a man of the class of Daugherty was present. The late Knute Rockne saw Tormey play in '30 and classed him as the best defensive snapper-back he'd seen that year. Red Wilkins and Shotwell provide classy reserve strength for Tormey.

Paced by the crack halfback combination of Capt. Paul (Bulldog) Reider and Warren Heller, the backfield promises both speed and power. Not only does it promise such, but already has begun to pay off. Reider and Heller are ace ball luggers and an always dangerous forward passing threat. If you doubt the last statement, you might write Maj Ralph Sasse, football coach at West Point, for confirmation.

There are three lads, a senior and two up and coming sophomores, scrapping for the fullback berth. Big John Luch, until this season a lethargic performer, had the situation well in hand until he was stricken with an attack of appendicitis last week. Izzy Weinstock and Heinie Weisenbaugh, the sophomore pair, about on a par in all departments of the game, may cut themselves in on the job.

MUNGAS PROMISING

Rocco Cutri and Bob Hogan, who divided the quarterback duties a year ago are still engaged in a neck-in-neck race with Hogan, due to his sperior weight and booting ability, having just a very slight edge. Sophomore Miller Mungas, light but a bear on the defense and possessing a good head, will see plenty of service. Sutherland likes the way the quiet Bellaire lad handles himself.

Mike Sebastian, Reider's understudy last year, will continue in that role this fall, with Mel Brown and Nicksick subbing for Heller. Nicksick has an edge on Brown, a senior, who is handicapped with a bum shoulder.

There will be no drastic changes in the Panther style of offensive, other than that the forward pass will be called into more general use. The Panthers will once more employ their power plays, using both single and double wing back formations. The defense, of course, will vary according to the type of offensive used by the opposition, but Jock will not get away from his six-man defensive line.

Chef Finney Feeds Pirates

FLOYD VAUGHAN,

HAL FINNEY LEON CHAGNON PHIL BRUBAKER

Catcher Finney acts as cook for this hungry group of Pirates, stopping off here today for the last time this season, en route to Chicago for the crucial series with the Cubs beginning tomorrow. The players gathered in Finney's apartment at the Fairfax Hotel. What Finney was saying when this Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture was taken was: "Shut up, you wolves—who's the cook around here, anyway?"

WOOD ATTAINS RECORD SPEED

ALGONAC, Mich., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—After "warming up" along a mile straightaway at 126.09 miles an hour, Gar Wood today postponed until Tuesday his attempt to set a new world speed record on the St. Clair River with his Miss America X when motor trouble developed.

Wood drove the Miss America X onto the river course shortly before 8 a. m. today, ready for the attempt to beat Kaye Don's world record of 119.75 miles an hour, established on Loch Lomond, Scotland, in Miss England III.

Wood made three "warming up" dashes on the course. On one dash he was clocked officially by the timers at 126.09 miles an hour. Then he discovered a broken ring in one of the gear boxes which caused the shaft to overheat. Repairs necessitated removal of one of the Miss America X's four 12-cylinder motors. After two hours Wood announced the repairs could not be completed in time to make a trial today.

He said that if weather conditions were favorable he would make the attempt tomorrow morning at the same hour.

THE BABE

He's the Grand Slam of World Series—Here's His Life Story

This is the seventh of 10 stories relating the prodigious world series feats of the one and only Babe Ruth. Nearing the end of his career, the Babe this year will make his tenth and perhaps last appearance in the classic.

In the three long years that stretched between the Yankees' conquest of the Giants in the 1923 world series, and Babe Ruth's next series appearance with the Yanks against the St. Louis Cardinals in 1926, baseball's greatest slugger was tossed about in a storm of trouble that all but swept him from the game.

It was an interlude of physical and mental travail. Out of it came a bigger and better Ruth, grown to manhood in his attitude toward life and the game that had done so much for him.

CENTER OF INTEREST

Where other men, facing such a crisis, may work out their problems in obscurity, the humiliation and final rejuvenation of Ruth were nationally observed developments.

Each succeeding day of the turmoil was a front page word picture, followed avidly by millions, of progressive distress, disintegration, and final recovery.

The Babe survived the crash of the Yankees as a ball club in '924, when Miller Huggins' world champions, holding together as long as they could, fell apart like a one-hoss shay and dropped to seventh place in the American League. Still the Babe hit .378 over the season, gathering 46 home runs.

FAMOUS STOMACH ACHE

But years of careless training and high, glorious living in a circle of idolatry took their toll in 1925.

At Asheville, N. C., on the Yankees' way home from spring training camp, Ruth collapsed with a giant "tummy ache," a combination of indigestion and influenza. He was rushed to New York, taken to a hospital, and there it was found that he also had an abscess.

He spent weeks in the hospital and came out wan and weak to make his first appearance of the season June 1. He struggled along, fighting off injuries. He wasn't hitting. His temper was bad.

ROWS WITH HUGGINS

Then, to cap the climax, he staged his famous row with Miller Huggins, Yankee manager, in August that resulted in a fine of $5,000 and his indefinite suspension.

In a rage over the punishment for "misconduct off the playing field" Ruth hot-headedly launched an attack on Huggins through the newspapers, accusing the manager of blaming the failure of the Yankees on him alone, shouting he never would play with the Yanks again unless Miller were removed.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, backed Huggins. The Babe cooled off and realized his mistake. He made peace overtures, was rejected. Humbly he came back and admitted his fault, probably the biggest thing he ever did in all his career.

He came back to the Yankees a grownup. He has been that ever since. And the Yanks were off on a new wave of world series triumphs, with a new and mightier Ruth again smashing the home run record, lifting it to 60, and battering world series hitting marks into fragments.

his Dukes in the inaugural with Westminster. The locals were not forced to show much in recording their 20-0 triumph, but the team exhibited much promise . . . promise it must make good against Greasy Neale's Mountaineers this week. The contest looms as being a very tough one. It is likely that the same lineup that took the field against the Titans will be sent into the battle against the Morgantown invaders.

The Skibos still are working on the development of a running halfback and experimenting on the line. So far, Bill Spisak and Bill Carlson appear to have the edge over other candidates for the halfback job, with Spisak leading his rival by a very slight margin. He hasn't, however, clinched the job as yet.

The Tipoff

Walter E. Okeson, of Lehigh, commissioner of the Eastern Association for the Selection of Football Officials, is in town today. Tonight, at 8 o'clock, at the Keystone A. C., he'll preside at a rules interpretation meeting. The Pittsburgh chapter of the association will tender him a dinner previous to the confab.

There is to be another Layden at Notre Dame, and, according to Elmer himself, the new Layden will outshine the old. Young Mike Layden, Elmer's kid brother, after being all set for Yale, suddenly changed his mind and has matriculated at the South Bend institution.

"This Mike is a pip of a ball player," boasts Elmer. "I'm not popping off about him just because he's my kid brother, but he has everything I ever had and more. He is heavier, just as fast, a better passer and I guess he can kick as well. No foolin', he ought to turn out to be a wow. Wait and see."

Harvey Harman, head coach of football at Penn, lost one of his backfield candidates yesterday when physicians told Bud Smith, star dropkicker, that his football days were over. The player, whose accurate dropkick last fall gave Penn a 3-0 win over Lafayette, was found to have a chest condition and declared off the squad.

The opening games of the Allegheny Valley Soccer League were staged yesterday, large crowds watching some interesting action. The feature contest of the day was flashed at Russellton, with Curtisville, using the Russellton grounds, losing to the Valley Athletics, 1 to 0.

Harwick, playing at Springdale finished on the short end of a 4-to-3 score. The third game found Tarentum defeating Kinlock, 3-0.

Most of the teams are composed of youngsters breaking into the sport and what they lacked in polish, they made up in strenuous play.

The only goal of the Curtisville game came in the second half. Both defenses had been playing great soccer, but after 14 minutes of the second period, Curtisville wavered. R. Robertson scored.

UPSETS MARK FIRST SCHOOL GRID FRAYS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Old Man Upset, who usually plays an inconspicuous role during the early weeks of the football campaign, made his presence felt in the inaugural battles played by Western Pennsylvania high school elevens during the past week-end, and as a result some of the topnotchers in scholastic circles today are nursing bad bruises in the way of setbacks and surprises.

The biggest upheaval of the week was Waynesburg's fine showing against Washington High, which enabled the Greene countians to eke out a 7-7 deadlock with the Little Presidents. Washington, a member of the newly-created Double AA Conference, for years has been using Waynesburg as an opening opponent more for a workout than for any other purpose. It marked the first time in eight years that Waynesburg had come even close to defeating the Little Presidents.

NORWIN PRESSED

Norwin, another member of the Double AA group, experienced quite a session in squeezing out a 12-0 victory over East McKeesport, a Class B eleven. Bill Young's grid machine gave Jack Clawson's eleven a busy afternoon before bowing in defeat.

Jeannette, likewise of the select circle, saw its goal line crossed by Sewickley Township, also a Class B school. Markley Barnes' team, however, won with points to spare, 21 to 6.

Leechburg, usually a contender for the Class B crown, was the victim of an Alumni eleven, the Armstrong Countians losing a 6-0 decision to the graduates.

Uniontown, defeated by Scott High two weeks ago, came back strong to vanquish Fayette City in its second game, 12-0.

WILKINSBURG VICTOR

Wilkinsburg and Turtle Creek Union, members of the Double AA, both came through their inaugurals in an impressive manner. Wilkinsburg crushed Avalon, 33-0, while Pitcairn fell before Foxy Miller's Turtle Creek machine 20-0. New Brighton defeated Grove City, Rochester tripped Aliquippa, Freedom vanquished Leetsdale, Ambridge defeated East Liverpool, Ford City swamped Dayton Vocational and Ellwood City got a draw with Greenville in the other big games.

School Notes

Coach Steve Stepanian's Charleroi Cougars, contenders for the Double AA championship, face their first real test of the season next Friday night at Charleroi when Johnny Reed brings his Scott High machine to the Magic City. Scott, entered in the Class A race, already has beaten Uniontown and Munhall.

Coach Mose Lantz, former Westinghouse star, will take his Scottdale eleven to Jeannette next Saturday to test the Double AA representatives of that town.

Moe Rubenstein's Ambridge High eleven showed a lot of promise in scoring a 7-0 victory over East Liverpool Saturday. The game was booked at the last minute when Monaca was forced to call off its game because of the recent strike of students.

BUCS ON EDGE FOR BRUINS

hits and three runs as he set a fast clip for his mates. The scores of the games were 7-4 and 6-3.

Ralston Hemsley's double with Johnny Moore on second base in the fifteenth inning gave the Cubs a 4-3 victory over the Reds at Cincinnati yesterday. Red Lucas went the route for the Reds against Warneke and Root.

CHILLY SAUCE

When the Pirates shove off for Chicago tonight they will be accompanied by one of their best rooters. Frexy Benswanger says he is going to see the excitement in "Chi" if he has to make the trip in a day coach.

It's better than an even bet that Benswanger will rate a lower berth, but Bill seems to be the sort of a gent who would flip a coin with a rookie to decide which one rides the upper.

The Pirates will not have any batter who drives in as many as 100 runs this season. That is a strange situation in a club that has made a flag fight all year.

Pittsburgh Poloists Down South Park

The Pittsburgh Polo Club four, composed of George Vang, Dave McCahill, Paul Mazuzan and Jim Growden, defeated the South Park riders, 6 to 2, in the last scheduled outdoor polo title of the season at South Park yesterday.

PITTSBURGH—6		SOUTH PARK—2
Vang	No. 1	Landau
McCahill, Jr.	No. 2	Fisher
Mazuzan	No. 3	Ackerman
Growden	No. 4	Degenhardt

Score by chukkers:

South Park	1	0	0	0	1	0	—2

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 19.—The Charleroi Veterans captured both games of the two-game series with the Library Polo Club, winning yesterday's tilt, 6 to 1 after having triumphed 7 to 3 on Saturday.

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Tommy Hitchcock's Sands Point four overcame an eight-goal handicap and defeated Earle W. Hopping's Eastcotts in the final round of the Monty Waterbury Cup polo tournament yesterday, 18 to 16.

HOMESTEADERS WIN RELAY TITLE

BRIARCLIFF, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Carnegie Library Club, of Homestead, Pa., yesterday won the National A. A. U. women's 880-yard relay swimming championship, defeating two teams from the Women's Swimming Association of New York.

The Pennsylvania quartet—Johanna Gorman, Anna Mae Gorman, Louise Clark and Lenore Kight, swam the distance in 11:17 4-5 to win comfortably from the W. S. A. first team. A second team from the W. S. A. was third.

Miss Clark added to the Pennsylvania laurels by winning the National Junior 330-yard medley swim in five minutes, 22 4-5 seconds. Frances Hanlon, of the W. S. A., was second and Jean McCullough, third.

N. B. F. SANDLOT CHAMPS LOSE

The game between Fort Wayne and Newcomerstown, O., was halted in the fourth inning by rain with the Ohio team leading, 5 to 4. It will be played today.

World Series Rivals No. 1—Pitchers

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

In the spring of 1929 an awkward boy of 18 who seemed to be ill at ease on the mound drew a kindly smile from several members of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club as the Pirates warmed up for a game with the San Francisco Seals in the California training camp of the latter team. Self-effacing and somewhat abashed, the lad carried his more than six feet of gangling stature in a manner that made him appear to the Buccos as a close relative of Walter (Dutch) Ruether, former star left-hander.

Lefty Gomez

Lon Warneke

The southpaw yearling who thus drew a laugh from the big leaguers had not reached his twenty-first birthday before he had run up a string of 21 victories for a major league club. There was no laugh connected with this feat, and when the New York Yankees, champions of the American League, walk onto the field to start the world series, Vernon Gomez will be the most appealing and picturesque member of the diamond crew, with the possible exception of The Bambino.

In his second year of major league competition, Gomez also passed the 20 mark in victories, his slab feats being perhaps the biggest single factor in the winning of the flag by the Yankees. Vernon will not reach his twenty-second birthday until November, a fact that reflects his pitching greatness in no uncertain manner.

Starting off about the same time and under somewhat similar conditions as those surrounding Vernon Gomez was another obscure pitcher of lengthy proportions. Down in the Cotton States League a boy named Lonnie Warneke from the rural districts of Arkansas was on his way to a season that was to win him a berth with the Chicago Cubs. A year older than Gomez, Warneke beat the southpaw to the big show by the same length of time, but, unlike Gomez, Lonnie needed more polishing, especially in the matter of control, and he did not "arrive" until the lefthander had put a fine season in the records.

SPORT GOOD TO ROOKIES

Be that as it may, the National pastime, which has a generous way of leading poor boys along the paths of greatness, may see to it that their blazing trails meet in the brightest spotlight the sport produces—a world series contest!

In the event that the Cubs carry on to a National League championship, either Lonnie Warneke or Guy Bush is likely to be Manager Grimm's mound choice for the first game. Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees, doubtless would like to use Gomez in the first scrap as a compliment to the youngsters, but strategic urges may influence Mars Joe in the direction of one of his righthanders, the Bruins being extremely dangerous against lefthanded pitching.

Granting that Gomez and Warneke are the standout pitchers of the rival circuits, let us delve further into this important department of play. A natural question arises:

"Which team has the better slab staff?"

CUB HURLERS STRONG

The answer to the query as given by this writer perhaps carries some prejudice. I feel the Cubs have the best mound collection in the National League, and it is doubtful whether Grimm's sharpshooters as a staff can be matched in the junior organization. But the Bruins, I might hasten to add, are not up to the Yankees in at least two of the other three departments—the infield and the outfield.

Hewing to the line on pitchers, it can be stated that the Yankees wound up the season with a brilliant pitching corps; something they did not seem to have when the bell rang in April. Gomez, Allen, Ruffing, Pipgras, MacFayden and Pennock form a dependable slab setup for any club, and, backed by the terrific punch which Ruth, Gehrig & Co. give them, these pitchers stand out with exceptional force.

To pit against the Yank pitchers, Charley Grimm has Warneke, Bush, Malone, Root, Grimes, Smith, Tinning and May. The preponderance of righthanders is quickly noted, but Grimm's orthodox throwers are not of a common mold. The first four named have extraordinary speed, and each of the four has a good curve to enhance the speed. Grimes, as we all know, is at his best when the stake is great, so that Burleigh must be regarded as an ace in the hole in the coming fights.

YANKS MEAN AT PLATE

Grimm realizes there is a weakness in the southpaw division. Jake May cannot be depended upon to beat any club, much less the Yanks. The Chicago directors, however, may remedy the situation a bit before the series starts; yet, with his stellar righthanders around, Grimm has a comforting feeling.

The argument has been advanced that the Yanks will swat almost any kind of fast-ball pitching. Apparently this is true, but do they hit so consistently when the speed stuff is mixed with fast hooks such as those served by the Chicago hurlers? Perhaps they do, yet there are many National League followers who will answer in the negative.

WHO WILL STEAL SHOW?

American League experts evidently will not be surprised if Johnny Allen or Charley Ruffing receives the initial slab assignment from McCarthy. Allen, who is almost as big a sensation as Gomez, is a sidearm hurler of the sort that should bother the Bears McCarthy, nevertheless, knowing full well the quirks of Wrigley Field, might reserve Allen and Ruffing for duty in this somewhat queer park. The bleachers of left-center give side-arm righthanders an advantage at the home of the Cubs.

Inasmuch as the first two games of the series are carded for the Yankee Stadium, the "background" strategy is not likely to be played as heavily as when the teams switch to Chicago. Therefore, it is not presumptous to suggest that McCarthy may use Gomez in the opener, and, if he does, Grimm is apt to counter with his ace—Warneke. The two youngsters should be in the series focus much of the distance. But there is always a chance that a Pipgras or a Smith, a MacFayden or a Tinning will steal the show.

Tomorrow—The Catchers.

PAIRINGS MADE FOR HARVARD CUP PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Official pairings for the tenth annual Harvard Cup interscholastic tennis title tilting were released by Chairman Wells Fay early this afternoon. Precisely 40 contestants, representing 22 public and private high and preparatory schools, were enrolled for the competition, which got under way at 3 p. m. today on the University of Pittsburgh courts.

Ralph Bald, Western Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh Center junior champion, rates top position in the seeding, while his Mount Lebanon High teammate, Henry Ackerman, who won the Crimson trophy in 1930, is listed third, a notch below Bob Madden, hard-hitting Schenley entry and holder of West Penn and Pittsburgh Center boys' honors. Bob Burnett, Wilkinsburg mainstay, grabs off the number 4 spot.

No one school has thus far garnered more than a single leg on the Cambridge bowl, but Mount Lebanon, with Bald and Ackerman in the running, and Shady Side Academy, featuring Walter Moore and Jimmy Arensberg, aim to make serious bids for repeats. Schenley, pinning hopes on the promising Madden, looms as best bet among institutions that have yet to annex possession of the flaxon. The tournament is sponsored by the Harvard Club of Western Pennsylvania and carries with it the secondary school championship of Allegheny County. The pairings:

First round—Thomas Stout, Carnegie, vs. Theodore Lesko, Munhall; Robert McVey, Clairton, vs. James A. Criswell, Mount Hills; James Arensberg, Shady Side, vs. John Garvey, Munhall; Kenneth Rittenour, South Hills, vs. James Montgomery, University School; Robert Johnson, Bellevue, vs. Floyd Schake, Turtle Creek; Bernard Greenberg, Taylor Allderdice, vs. James Holt, Schenley; Robert Merchant, Wilkinsburg, vs. James Latzo, Ruskin; Samuel K. Pollock, Arnold School, vs. Robert Wandrey, Duquesne.

Second round—Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon, vs. Walter Ketterer, Dormont; John Chatham, Perry, vs. Raymond Brown, Colligan, Duquesne University Prep; Hadley Weiss, Crafton, vs. Walter Moore, Shady Side Academy; William Drew, Dormont, vs. Curtis Stone, Perry; James Haven, Carnegie, vs. John D. Zorns, Crafton; Howard Elson, Clairton, vs. Henry Ackerman, Mt. Lebanon; Robert Burnett, Wilkinsburg, vs. Alfred C. Pollock, Arnold School; George Dinsmore, Carrick, vs. Irvin Sobel, Ruskin; Don Robertson, Peabody, vs. Kenneth Mowery, Duquesne; Byron Dillon, Bellevue, vs. William Miller, Taylor Allderdice; Tom McKenna, Peabody, vs. Howard Wilson, Carrick; Jack Schroder, Brashley, vs. Robert Madden, Schenley.

J. O'LOUGHLIN VICTOR

Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace and top ranking West Penn racqueter, put finishing touch to a brilliant campaign yesterday by edging out his brother and teammate, Dr. Dave, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4, 11-9, before a large gallery in final combat of the first annual Stanton Heights invitation men's singles event. The victory, coming atop of triumphs in the Westmoreland County, Western Maryland, and Morgantown Country Club invitation tournaments, clinches beyond doubt or peradventure the oldest O'Loughlin's claim to another year's tenure of the initial district rating.

In morning semi-final tussles John accounted for Hub Rinehart, rangy Stantonian, 6-2, 7-5, while Dave eliminated George Henderson, likewise of the home club, 7-5, 6-3, after severe back court milling.

PAPALES LOSE DI STOUT

By TOM BIRKS

Practice games yesterday among various sandlot football elevens drew capacity crowds and for the most part, offered interesting bits of action.

The East Liberty Papales, who will be contenders for West Penn Conference honors, had little difficulty beating a heavy St. John's Scholastic outfit, 24 to 0, but the victory was an expensive one, as it cost the East Enders Chippy Di Stout, the smashing fullback, who broke his arm in the third period. He will be lost for the season.

OAKLAND WINS

Rox Rangers beat Snee, 52-0, and the big surprise of the day was furnished when North Braddock upset the Sto-Rox outfit, 6-0. The Goose Goslin entry in the lightweight class demonstrated its ability to click by stopping Mars Farm, 19-0.

The Baehr Olympics, under the tutelage of Bill Sullivan, had a hard workout at Olympia Park in preparation for the Burns game. Buzz Edwards was at quarter, Penny Newlin, Mortak, the classy Monessen ball toter; Urban, from Bellefonte, and Ludwig alternated at carrying the ball.

ROONEYS CARD DRILL

Art Rooney will send his squad through its first workout of the season this evening at 7:30 on the North Side. All of last season's players, along with Jess Quatse, will be on hand. It is rumored that Ralph Daugherty will be wearing a Big Green uniform this season.

CHICAGO RACER WINS HEARST TROPHY

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Shores of the North lagoon of the World's Fair grounds, very conceivable point of vantage on fair buildings, completed, or in course of construction, were packed with humanity yesterday as drivers from all parts of the country strove against wind and weather and the keenest competition of the year for the William Randolph Hearst gold trophy, emblematic of the Central Division outboard motor championships.

This event, sponsored by the Chicago Herald and Examiner and the Century of Progress Exposition, attracted a crowd that was estimated by fair officials at more than 60,000.

The winner of the magnificent Hearst trophy turned up in Horace Tennes, of Chicago, whose victories intwo amateur five-mile events and a second place in another gained him sufficient points to merit the award.

Presentation of the Hearst and other trophies were made to the successful contestants in the court of the Hall of Science.

Not a few of the thrills given the immense crowd were forthcoming from the deftness with which the Coast Guard crews effected their "rescues at sea."

The most spectacular one of the afternoon occurred when a boat driven by Gene Draper, of Detroit, got out of control, cracked into the sea wall and burned.

Three Illinois drivers swept to victory in the first final, John Frazier, of Rantoul, led Art Jacobs, of Chicago, and Kenneth Johnson, of Forest Park, in the first division, Class A, for amateurs. Frazier's first place gave him 400 points and a lead for the Hearst trophy.

Tennes went into a tie with Frazier for the lead in points by scoring a victory in the Class B final over Jack Smith, of Park Hills, Ky. This race was driven at an average of 47 miles an hour.

PACKERS WIN FIRST GAME

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Champions for several years, the Green Bay Packers have made an auspicious start in their bid for the 1932 title of the National Professional Football League.

After scoring a safety in the first quarter, the Packers tallied two touchdowns in the third, one on a pass from Herber to Hank Bruder, and the other when Michalske recovered a fumble by Stennett. The Cardinals' only score came in the fourth quarter after a pass, Stennett to Creighton, had put the ball in scoring position. Hill took it over.

Other clubs were busy with exhibitions. Red Grange led the Chicago Bears to a 26-0 victory over the Cleveland Panthers; the New York Giants beat the Canton Bulldogs, 33-0; Portsmouth trounced Grand Rapids by the same score, and Benny Friedman's Brooklyn Dodgers played to a scoreless tie with the Passaic (N. J.) Red Devils.

Baseball Player Dies in Practice

READING, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—While practicing before a baseball game yesterday, Jack Mervine, 20, dropped dead. Deputy Coroner C. E. Schlappich issued a certificate of death from acute dilation of the heart.

Mervine, a member of the Crystal Rock amateur team, dropped over at first base, while his team was taking infield practice. He caught the ball at first base, threw it back to the catcher and collapsed.

Petrali Annexes Hill Climb Crown

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Joe Petrali, of Sacramento, Cal., won the National Hill Climb championship yesterday, when he won the 45 Class A professional and 45 Class A expert events at the final climb of the season here.

American-Bred Horses in Sweep

ROME, Italy, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Four American-bred horses, owned by Italian sportsmen, accounted for the first four places in the final trotting race for the Mussolini Cup today. The 2½ kilometer race, with its purse of $2,500, was won by Jessamine in 3:21 4-5.

Mike Dundee vs. Cecil Payne, 10 rounds, Louisville, Ky.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Simultaneous with the staging of the last regular outdoor boxing show of the season at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight, announcement was made today that Al Brown, the bantamweight champion, will meet Mose Butch, local southpaw, in the main bout of the opening show of the indoor season at Motor Square Garden, next Monday night.

Davy Grove

Matchmaker Jules Beck had this battle signed for last season in the East End arena, but Brown showed up incapacitated at the eleventh hour, following a trip to California, and the match had to be set back. Since then Brown has toured Europe and returned to engage in several bouts on this side of the Atlantic. He defends his title against Spider Pladner, of France, in Montreal tonight. His bout with Butch is to be a non-title affair.

ELIMINATION WEDNESDAY

The second large local indoor club, Eddie Kapphan's Arena, on the North Side, will open Friday night of next week, likely with the winner of the Johnny Datto-Joe Marcus bout, in the benefit show at the Meyers Bowl, Wednesday night, meeting Battling Gizzy in the main event, a "natural."

Davy Grove, of the North Side, boxes Jacquette Elverillo, formerly of Porto Rico, in the windup at Hickey Park tonight. In three other eight-rounders, Larry Madge, of Cleveland, boxes Anson Green, Negro middleweight, of Homestead; Young Rudy, of Charleroi, meets Tom Malco, of Soho, and Louis Disantis, of Cleveland, engages Don Asto, of Uniontown.

Between Rounds

A boxing class will be inaugurated in the Allegheny Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight by Jimmy McCoy, former local boxer. It will be continued every Monday and Friday night and on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Twenty-seven amateurs have enrolled.

The card has been shaped for the amateur boxing show to be held in the Moose Temple, October 5, under the auspices of the Allegheny County Women's Roosevelt-Garner Club. Al Quaill and Walter Marn will box the main bout. Lenny Burkinelli will engage Steve Korach. Mike Wolf meets Pat Powers. Red Davidson opposes Clem Riaha and Walt Zock takes on Steve Kobeda.

The knockout of clever Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland, by Tony Dazzo, of Chicago, in one of the bouts on the card in which Barney Ross stopped Frankie Petrolle in Chicago a few nights ago was a surprise. Wallace's seconds threw in the towel in the fourth round.

Art Rodenbach, New York heavyweight, who meets George Panka, of Homestead, in the main bout on the benefit card at the Meyers Bowl Wednesday night, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday and will work out at the Pittsburgh Lyceum today and tomorrow.

Homestead Grays Defeat Crawfords

The Pittsburgh Crawfords dropped the final game of their season-long series with the Homestead Grays as they bowed, 5 to 1, in a contest that got under way at Greenlee Field at 12:01 o'clock this morning.

Yesterday afternoon, the Crawfords defeated the J. L. Thomas nine, 5 to 1, in a benefit contest.

In other sandlot tilts, the Homesteam Aces nosed out the Hoppers, 11 to 10, and Gibsonia downed the Eighteenth Ward nine, 12 to 10. The score of the Grays-Crawfords game:

BENEFIT GAME TODAY

The Mutes and Iroquois will play a benefit baseball game in Wilkinsburg this evening. The proceeds will be given Al Ringer, first baseman, who was injured in the recent eliminations.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Aunt Julia Decides That Val Is to Be Married In Her Home

CHAPTER XXV.

Aunt Julia wasn't surprised that she was to be a witness at the tiny wedding. She expected it. Took it as her right. Her only surprise was that Joe's mother was to be included.

Fortunately she couldn't know what was going on across the street:

"If you can't have your own sisters and brothers to your own wedding, then I give up," Mrs. Carey was saying, crying and darning Joe's best silk socks with stout gray darning cotton at the same time.

"You're a meanie if you don't let me. Meanie, meanie, meanie—" Vivian, the baby of the family, was crying, too.

"I wanta be the flower girl. I wanta be the—"

"Well, you can't. I ain't got time to make you the dress. Now I told you that, didn't I? All I'm askin' is for your brother—"

"Then if I can't be the flower girl I don't care. I won't go. I don't care if the whole family goes. I won't—"

"Joe, do you think her white lingerie would do, if I done it up nice? With a big pink bow or somethin', Joe? What the poor kid needs is a perm'nent. All the kids has them. Those old kinks I put in with the iron! Stop crying, lover. Maybe your brother'll let you have one. He's got so much money nowadays."

Vivian's sobs stopped miraculously.

"Oh, keen! But no old pink sash, thank you. I want a new blue slip, to go under my dress!"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a man-hating maiden aunt, Julia. Millie roams the world, returns to America, but Julia clings to the child. Valentine becomes engaged to Joe Carey. Joe leaves to take an architect's position in Minneapolis. Aunt Julia is opposed to the match and sends Val to Santa Barbara to visit her mother. Val is both shocked and intrigued by life in the 'gay set.' She returns to her aunt and her stenographic job. Joe sends her a diamond engagement ring as a birthday present. Mrs. Carey is hysterical when she learns of the engagement and other neighbors begin to gossip about Val. Joe returns to town. He and Val decide to get married and move to Minnesota.

Now Go On

VAL FAVORS CHILDREN

Ruthie, the mousy 15-year-old, whose feelings were always hurt, sobbed once, and ran from the room.

"Vivian, go see what's the matter with your sister!" Joe insisted, giving the now radiant Vivian a push towards the door.

"If one gets it, so does the other."

"Very well, Joe, dear," his mother said meekly.

"But none of them goes to the wedding—that's flat!"

"Joe, it don't hurt you, and if it gives the poor kid any fun to be a flower girl, why do you be so selfish? If it gives them any fun—"

"Oh, I wanta—Mamma, make him let me! Mamma—make him—"

Edwina, who was doing her algebra at the table, said, "If anyone in this family goes, I'm the logical one, being the only unmarried young lady. Not that I care, of course. It's just the principle of the thing!"

When he came back he found Val sitting on her front stoop and Vivian, disheveled and tearful, but smiling, beside her.

"If we're going to have your mother and my aunt we may as well let the kids come, too. Vivian wants to be a flower girl. She has a little chum who was a flower girl once ... Poor kid—once I'd have given my right eye for the same thing—"

"Gosh, you're too generous, Val!"

But Joe couldn't find it in his heart to dissuade her. He was too pleased. After all, the poor kids ... if it pleased them to come ...

Aunt Julia was thoroughly disgusted.

"I never heard of anything so plain sentimental foolish in my life. It isn't two weeks since Georgie was making the little kids in the block throw orange peelings at you, and Vivian was out there holding her tongue out and looking cross-eyed till I hoped her eyes would stick that way, just to serve her mother right for letting a child act like that. And now you're going to let the whole kit and caboodle—"

"Oh, well. We'll just have the two families. I wish Marjorie were up here, though. I'd like to have her for matron of honor."

"Next thing you'll be wanting white satin and orange blossoms and a church wedding."

"Aunt Julia, don't laugh—but I would. I know it's silly—but I would. And a long veil, and lilies—"

"Humph. Craziest thing I ever heard."

"I know. But every girl wants ... Of course I'm not serious about it. Why, I'm going to be married Friday, and there wouldn't be time."

"Val—you DO want white!"

Val did. She wanted to be a bride, in white satin and orange blossoms, and she wanted a long veil and her mother to give her away.

But that was impossible, and besides she had the exquisite blue-gray outfit that Millie had given her for a going away dress, and nothing could be lovelier than that.

MARRIAGE AT HOME

It was disappointing that Millie couldn't come. It was too bad that all the Careys had to be there. But after Friday she wouldn't have to see any of them again, for a long, long time.

At the very last minute Aunt Julia decided that there was only one place for Val to be married, and that was right in her own home. With only one day's grace, she managed to get the lace curtains washed and up again, and cleaned the already immaculate house from cellar to attic.

It seemed a shame to get up an elaborate wedding supper for just the Careys, so she asked her old friend, Augusta Vollmer, and her second cousin, Lucy Cordova, a sad-faced widow with whom she was not as a rule on the best of terms.

There was a little argument about the minister.

The Careys had all gone to the Congregational Sunday school, and Mrs. Carey still attended church and church activities occasionally. So she said that it would be only right for Mr. Hink, the Congregational minister, to be asked to officiate at the wedding.

Aunt Julia, who would as soon have had Mr. Hink as any other, immediately decided against him.

"All our family have been Presbyterians, though Val's mother did send her to a convent when she was a little girl. I'll have the Presbyterian minister."

PREPARES MEAL

"But you don't even know him, Miss Macfarlane, and Mrs. Hink and the Rev. Hink and all of us are great friends. I'm sure Val won't care. Where is she? I'll go ask her!"

"I'm managing this wedding!" Miss Macfarlane announced grimly.

So the Presbyterian minister it was.

Aunt Julia wouldn't have a caterer, nor anyone to help. Since she must have the Careys, she'd at least show them what a proper wedding supper should be.

Creamed chicken in home-made patty shells. Biscuits to be popped into the oven the last minute. Crab salad, smothered in pale gold mayonnaise. A silver cake. And a fruit cake that, alas, had to be bought from the baker because for a really good fruitcake you must have at least two weeks' notice, and lots of time.

Joe found Val and Vivian sitting together.

But hearing the bustle of Aunt Julia in the kitchen, the feeble efforts of Cousin Lucy Cordova to help, and Miss Vollmer rocking and waiting in the living room, she had a sudden crazy desire to run.

This ... all this ... was her wedding! Not what she wanted at all. The gentle happiness that had been hers was gone. She felt irritable and frightened ... trapped.

If only there was no family. If only she and Joe—

"No, you just keep out of my way. I'm getting along fine. You might call up and ask the ice cream man, though—the Acme Cream Company—the ACME CREAM COMPANY—A-C-M-E—ACME—"

Val lifted the beautiful dress Millie had bought her from its hook in the closet. Touched the blue fur gently. It didn't belong here, in this house, with everything so different ...

When she slipped it over her head and looked at herself in the mirror she knew that she shouldn't have worn it for a home wedding in Aunt Julia's house.

She looked like a mannikin from a dressmaking shop, a movie star out of Hollywood, anything but what she really was, Aunt Julia's niece—Mrs. Carey's daughter-in-law ...

The doorbell was ringing.

"I'll go!" Miss Vollmer shouted.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Reveals Methods Used to Disillusion Marion

Lillian waited for several seconds before she answered my query concerning the success of Mary's scheme, and the cure of Marion's infatuation for Charles Owen.

"I'm practically sure of it," she said. "Mary and Ronald have been giving the prettiest little exhibition of a lad falling in love with a siren that ever was staged. Marion is thoroughly convinced of the authenticity of the drama, I'm sure, and she's so furious with Mary—inside—that she could boil her in oil.

"Outwardly, of course, she's especially sweet to Mary, in the time-honored fashion of well-bred girls, the world over. She has been so astonished at Ronald's defection, so busy trying to cover her chagrin, that I don't believe she has had time to think of that old buzzard, Owen.

"Ronald certainly has the makings of an actor, unless—I'm afraid, sometimes—well, I've been wondering if he wasn't fed up with her preference of Owen to himself, and wasn't really acting, in his demeanor of perfectly charming but indifferent courtesy to Marion.

"Of course, he's miming as far as Mary is concerned, but—do you suppose he's being cured of an infatuation also?"

"I'm sure Ronald is just as much in love with Marion as ever," I said, "if such adolescent affection can be called love. His pride may be so hurt that she will have to use some extra wiles to get him back, but he's still hers. I'm sure of that."

"I'm glad to hear you say that," Lillian said, "but there's one question left in my mind. Just at present I think Marion has no time to think of Charles Owen, and I'm staking a hundred to one that she's cured. But it's that one chance that's worring me, and there's only one sure proof—so that we'll know, absolutely."

TO INVITE OWEN

She paused and, after a silent second, I asked quietly: "And that is—what? Can I help?"

"Yes." Her reply was abrupt. "There's only one way of knowing whether she still prefers that old reptile to Ronald, and that is to see the two together in some place where both have an equal chance to make a good appearance; where, in fact, Owen would have the advantage, if any."

"I agree with you," I said, "and it's easy to see what you want of me. You want me to invite Mr. Owen down to the dinner dance. All right, I'll do it; also the Brixtons."

"You lamb!" she exclaimed. "I knew I could count on you. But you'll have to hire a hotel. You're counting on Ronald's bringing down some more Yale boys, aren't you?"

"Also Harry's cadets. But I have it all thought out. I can put cots in the bungalow for all the boys, and the girls can have extra cots in their rooms. I'll give the Brixtons the boys' room, and treat Mr. Owen as a boy, too, and make him camp in the bungalow with the collegians."

"It'll be tough on the boys," Lillian commended dryly, "but they probably can stand it for one week-end. And I do want Marion to see Owen again, against the background of all these youngsters of her own age. I'm banking on her cure. Oh, Madge, wouldn't it be awful if she should still be attracted by him?"

PSYCHOLOGY

"Don't think of that possibility," I said sharply. "Fate couldn't be so cruel. How about the psychology treatment? Have you been administering any of that to Marion?"

"Have I?" Lillian chuckled reminiscently. "You know, I've never been very enthusiastic about Ronald. God forgive me! I'd almost be willing to let him marry her tomorrow, now that I've had this fright about that old hyena."

"You'll exhaust the birds and the beasts if you call him many more names," I admonished her. "Stop worrying about him, and tell me what you've been saying to Marion."

"Mostly 'I told you so.'" Marion's mother replied, with another chuckle. "I rather gave the general impression that fickleness was only what was to be expected of him. I also delicately intimated to Marion that so young and inexperienced a girl ought to realize that she could not compete with a girl who has Mary's beauty, her stage training and her ability to dance so divinely."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The members who attended the Cameraphone Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club meeting Saturday were pleased with the first of the fall entertainments offered for their enjoyment.

Jean Coffield and Elaine Fierman, two active little girls, opened the show, after the usual reading of the club pledge and the salute to the flag.

These two clever little girls offered for the amusement and entertainment of the members three songs and dances, the first song, "A Great Big Bunch of You," was followed by a very intricate tap dance. For this number and the one that followed these youngsters were dressed in russet and orange costumes. Singing "Humming to Myself," they again appeared and had all the other members singing with them. For their third and final number, they appeared in rhinestone acrobatic costumes. They sang "Whistle and Blow Your Blues Away," ending with a very new and novel acrobatic tap dance.

Esther Moreland appeared next wearing a black costume trimmed in rhinestones and offered for the youngsters a dance known as the "colored tap." This was very aaffective with the colored light playing on the rhinestones which were on her costume. Her second number was a dance entitled "Diana" and her costume for this number was gold and purple.

CAMERAPHONE NEWS

Jerry, a pet dog owned by Carl Wilson, is just about the cutest dog seen around East Liberty. Would I like to own him? Billy Clapp has five little bulldog puppies about four weeks old and are they frisky. Maybe I'll have a dog yet.

And speaking of the dogs, Edith Bettilyon has a fox terrier which he has named "Spot." He's pure white with the exception of his left eye and that's black. Eddie says that he didn't get it fighting, either.

John Joseph Cleary one of the contestants for the title "Champion pie eater" of the Cameraphone theater, failed to place today but after the contest was over he was heard telling his pal that he was satisfied, because it was blackberry pie and if there's anything he likes, it's blackberry pie. From the looks of his face, he enjoyed himself.

Here's the boy that is going to have more friends than the chap that sells the football tickets at the Pitt stadium. He's Charles Murrey Greenburg, and he's going to get a pony from his grandfather. Already he has a waiting list of the chapter members wanting to take a ride. I saw the list and was I thrilled, the first name on it was Betty Neidhammer. Thanks Charles.

George McDonough, who lives in Braddock, paid a visit to the club today. Manager Earl Roeser brought him to the stage and introduced him to all the members.

Laurels Undeserved

Garner Points Out That Hoover Claims Credit for Relief Measures Which He Openly Opposed.

Speaker Garner, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, pointed out in a recent speech that President Hoover is taking slightly more credit than the facts warrant. He is rather brazenly claiming that he initiated certain relief measures which, as a matter of fact, he openly opposed and for which he scolded Congress only a few months ago.

He vetoed the Wagner employment legislation, fought the Garner measures for financial relief, and largely emasculated them.

He berated Congress for attempting to relieve conditions by extending funds directly to legitimate business instead of sinking them into the pockets of high financiers for special and speculative purposes.

Less personally ambitious American citizens saw months ago that immediate and drastic aid was necessary.

President Hoover in his address Thursday before the Welfare and Relief Mobilization Conference stated:

"I secured to the Red Cross 85,000,000 bushels of wheat, 500,000 bales of cotton, and an authorization to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance $300,000,000 to such states as could not finance themselves to take care of distress."

He did not obtain a bushel of wheat nor a bale of cotton for the Red Cross. Congress initiated that legislation. He had nothing to do with the lending of $300,000,000 to the states for relief. Democratic Senator Wagner, of New York, originated that idea and it was written into the relief over the President's opposition.

The President, as Mr. Garner says, vigorously assailed the appropriation of funds for public buildings for unemployment relief.

In his acceptance speech of August 11, the President said:

"The opposition leadership insisted, as the price of vital reconstruction legislation and over the protests of our leaders, upon adding $300,000,000 of costs to the taxpayers through public works inadvisable at this time."

On August 11 he criticised the "opposition" for insisting upon "adding $300,000,000 as inadvisable."

On September 9, he boasted that he had ordered the federal departments to speed up the constructive programs.

We can be sure of but one thing; our President will oppose every relief suggestion that does not arise in his own arrogance, and then when he is forced to action he will claim as his own the very legislation he has condemned.

In this respect he may remind you of an old railroad builder who said that anything that wasn't nailed down belonged to him, and anything he could tear loose wasn't nailed down.

Herbert Hoover will discover that the American people are brighter than he thinks.

If he has any doubt let him wander into a motion picture theater and observe the enthusiastic indifference with which they greet his picture on the screen, and the glad enthusiasm that greets the photographs of Roosevelt and Garner.

False Economy

It Is More Important to Save Life Than to Save Money—Safety Devices Should Be Installed.

Discussion of the serious automobile accident situation in Pittsburgh has brought to light that the city government is refusing to install needed safety signals and traffic controlling devices because of the expense.

The apparatus and equipment are all on hand. They were bought some time ago.

The Better Traffic Committee has testified to the need. It has made careful engineering studies of the city and knows where additional safety devices are required.

Because it would cost a few thousand dollars to erect these signs and controls, Council has thought it best to let them rust and gather dust in warehouses.

And the recent sharp rise in the number of automobile fatalities emphasizes the need for every reasonable protective measure that the experts on safey recommend.

A Visit From Bombers

The Flight of a Fleet of Army Airplanes Over the City Suggests Preparedness.

The nine United States Army bombing airplanes that roared over the city in battle formation Saturday were here on a friendly visit. The flight was a part of the ceremonies attending the christening of the new bomber Pittsburgh at the County Airport.

If it had been a hostile fleet, it would have had Pittsburgh at its mercy. The visit is accordingly calculated to make citizens thoughtful.

If the United States were to strip itself of its defenses, as some of the Pittsburgh pacifists advocate, it would be an easy matter for a fleet of enemy bombers to destroy the city.

In case of war the enemy would regard it as very desirable to drop bombs on Pittsburgh's steel mills and munitions, armament and chemical plants, and put them out of commission.

The bombers' visit suggested preparedness.

A Hornet's Nest!

And had a lot of fun

And when those insects get real mad

Counting the "Catch"

In a summer love-affair, the big thrill is the nibble at the bait, but the real test of skill consists in landing your catch.

* * *

A man is always more interested to see a show, when there's a long queue in front of the box-office, and more anxious to date a girl, when there's a long waiting list ahead of him.

* * *

That tottering old turtle in the New York Zoo whose mate is 220 years his junior, is probably the only living male who has ever found a girl who was young enough for him.

A woman has reached the age of discretion when her weight, her diet and her "symptoms" absorb and excite her more than the thought of any man's kiss.

* * *

A man used to feel that it was only chivalrous to tell a girl that he loved her, before trying to kiss her. But, nowadays, he feels that it is only prudent, to assure her, that he DOESN'T love her, before "consenting" to kiss her.

* * *

This is the time of year for a girl to remind herself that there are three things which can never be successfully warmed over—cold waffles, a cold baked potato and a cooled summer infatuation.

* * *

A wise woman never listens seriously to what a man says before the first drink when he's on his guard—or after the fourth drink, when he's irresponsible.

A modern woman may enjoy single-blessedness and freedom from the ties-that-bind; but, somehow, there's a heart-warming glow of satisfaction in being able to look upon a man and say "A poor thing—but mine OWN!"

To cure a budding romance or revive a dying love, there is nothing so effective as a little "absent treatment."

AT SEA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, Sept. 19.—Ascending a gang plank I always think of Scamp Montgomery's ecstatic yelp at his first voyage: "Swell creek, some skiff!" Few thrills surpass that of a liner easing out to midstream, scorning the snub-nosed tugs and heading majestically for the ever mysterious deep.

A mass flutter of 'kerchiefs, acres of upturned faces, the startled flights of gulls, the dimming roar from a thousand throats—Manhattan and its cluster of needle spires go shimmering by. One feels all of a sudden, a somebody—an integral part of a high adventure, a back log in a big blaze.

This ship is the Ile de France, long a favorite because of its fine consideration for dogs. Billy, the Boston, is starting his sixteenth crossing. The Sealyham was left behind because he reacts peevishly to change. Even spending a night at Greenwich, Ct., he howled continuously—just a homebody.

Billy's staunch friend, Charlot, a 15-year-old page boy in a cocky tambourine cap and a pouter pigeon-chested uniform of pink, espied him trotting up the gangway. He rushed to the dog, which nuzzled a wet nose against his cheek, and Charlot crooned a volatile sing-song of endearing French.

The dog, embarrassingly diffident to strangers, wiggled joyously and trotted off with him for some mysterious ship quarter. I suspect the kitchen. This voyage was an overnight impulse. A New England motor trip was in prospect. Then in a fever of packing we caught this ship by an eyelash.

* * *

Experience has taught me planned vacations are often duds. Those mapped out generally result in our rocking away on some seaside hotel porch, barely speaking and in something of a black stupor. But by jumping suddenly into some crazy jaunt we find, at least, we have not been bored.

* * *

For instance, in an alcoved recess a short way from my Deck A cabin, I noticed the identity card bearing the name of an infamously-discussed international gigolo. He is a fellow of waxed hair, onyx eyes, long sideburns and a general patent-leather patina. His door is on hook and thus for a week I can observe the home life of a gentleman gleaner. Too, I have longed to know how he acquires such jauntily flaring effects with white evening tie ends.

One seldom leaves or enters the New York port without meeting that indefatigable Boswell of Skipperdom, Harry Acton. He took the routine of ship news and columnized it into a genial pillar of patter. We did not know that Gloria Swanson's luminous eyes were brimmed with tears at the going-ashore gong, or that Sinclair Lewis lived on raisins and nuts for an entire crossing, until Harry gave the dull muck of the water fronts his neat brand of journalistic polish. A fellow of collegiate dress, amberlucent eyes, he has a way of making voyagers tell all.

* * *

The ninny in me, I suppose, but I like to stand aft as a liner cuts its path of luminous turrets to the sea. There is a stark grip watching that impossibly fantastic and sharply edged array of towers that is Manhattan, slowly turn to a lilac vagueness. One second a thin opaque in mist, a dip of the ship and it is gone. One is nonestly-to-goodness at sea. Everyone doubtless experiences that quick desolating clutch: Shall I ever see it again?

In a commendable excess of elbow grease, I did the packing. This is being dashed-off four hours or so out, and so far I've missed only an eraser, the capped top of the letter "k" on the typewriter, copy paper and my fountain pen filled with red ink. My wife across the cabin reports one of my socks tucked in her hat trunk. She doesn't have to know, but I found the other in my briefcase. But shucks, the twitter of getting ready to go away, my side hurting from packing and everything!

* * *

I'm a packing wizard compared to the poor goof next door. In a fine frenzy of cynicism, I heard his wife bellow: "I don't suppose it ever occurred to you to bring along our express money orders." That bird is better off at home. Or in the ocean.

The good flagship begins to roll in answer to the swelling sea. I had a mess of grand ideas about dinner tonight—potage ognione, pate de fois gras, truffles, peches flambe. But with that last roll it just struck me dieting is dandy. Food is fol de rol anyway. At heart I'm ascetic, yearning to be pale and interesting. And it's beginning to look as though I'll get my yearn.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Ended in a riot.

Want the job?

"DO WE ONLY DO THE THINGS WE WANT TO DO?

For example:

A young man sacrifices his own youth, gives up a college career, renounces the girl he loves and devotes himself to the support of his fatherless brothers and sisters. What's the answer?

Is he a saint or is he simply doing the things he wants to do?

Did he bravely conquer a temptation to be selfish, or did he secretly PREFER that grim sacrifice to joyous self-development?

Then does he, or doesn't he, deserve the credit for his generous deeds?

Another example:

A town is suddenly gripped by a deadly epidemic. A doctor leaves his home and loved ones, isolates himself in the danger zone, labors there, night and day, until he too, is stricken down.

Is he a hero, or is he simply following out the law of his own nature?

In other words, is he actually being SELFISH?

Are we always selfish—as selfish in our GOOD DEEDS as in our BAD DEEDS?

DO WE ALWAYS DO THE THINGS WE WANT TO DO?

"That's absurd," you say. "Often I do things I don't want to do. Often I am tempted and yet resist the temptation."

But do you really resist the temptation, or do you do the thing you secretly desire to do?

And, being what you are, could you have done anything else?

That leads on to another even more exasperating problem—

IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A "FREE WILL?"

Have we the power to choose between good and evil, or must we do what we're shaped to do?

A disturbing question, isn't it? It disturbed those four young men. Two of them said that we only did that which we wanted to do. Two of them denied that and said we had to struggle between good and evil and deserved a lot of credit when we chose the finer things.

Then the fight was on. Presently all four of these young men were very, very angry.

You'll be angry, too, if you start to discuss that question. Human beings have been getting angry over such questions since the world began. But that is how and why the human brain has grown.

Our brains grow by asking questions; by thinking about everything in life, even the simplest things, by taking nothing for granted; by doubting and questioning and rebelling and battling to find the truth.

Go on; try to answer that question! See how hard it is to answer! Get mad about it! Discover how little you really know about yourself or anyone else. You'll be surprised! And you'll be humiliated.

BUT SURPRISE AND HUMILIATION ARE THE BEGINNING OF WISDOM.

Isn't It So?

Talk Can't Help Idle Men—PUT MEN TO WORK!

By B. C. FORBES

MANY avenues of employment and re-employment must and can be opened before winter comes. Here is one:

Mammoth eastern railway consolidations have been sanctioned after endless public and private, official and unofficial, confabs and conferences, hearings and investigations. All major obstacles have been overcome, all major problems solved.

Only petty personal jealousy in one or two quarters now, so far as known, is blocking action, preventing making the dirt begin to fly.

Highly-placed railway obstructionists should be given peremptory orders by their boards of directors to come off their perches immediately, sign and seal the agreements, and FORTHWITH PUT TO WORK the MEN, the MATERIAL, the MONEY necessary to integrate, to knit together, to consummate each of the four planned systems.

LACK of money or lack of credit is pleaded in most directions as an insurmountable reason for withholding most employment-giving projects.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with the endorsement of the Interstate Commerce Commission—our federal regulatory body—has actually urged leading roads to accept generous loans to make repairs and improvements, even though these may not be immediately needed.

Consequently, it is inconceivable that the funds necessary to carry out the officially-approved combinations would not be very readily furnished on reasonable terms.

Why, therefore, further indefensible dilly-dallying when it is so urgently essential that every possible step be promptly taken to enable idle breadwinners to regain their economic status, their purchasing power, their self-respect?

Ponder this appalling fact: FOR EVERY TEN RAILROAD EMPLOYES NOW ON PAYROLLS, SIX ARE COMPLETELY IDLE.

DANIEL WILLARD, head of one of the four-party systems, who has long had a deeper understanding than most railway presidents of the importance of the human element in industry and who is anxious to expedite any and every practicable move calculated to expand employment, aptly points out that "other considerations" than strictly economic ones should be taken into the reckoning. Announcing his willingness to accept Reconstruction Finance Corporation credit to increase employment on his road, he admonished:

"Sometimes I think we are slaves to economics.

"There is another factor that is of equal if not greater importance—the human side. NO GOVERNMENT CAN ENDURE WITH 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 OF ITS CITIZENS OUT OF EMPLOYMENT, WITH NO MONEY TO TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES AND THEIR FAMILIES."

He added that about 600,000 railway employes are now out of work and a total of only 1,000,000 employed on some basis.

Here we have a "SELF-LIQUIDATING" project of magnitude, READY to be launched, READY to be financed.

WHY NOT LAUNCH IT WITHOUT FURTHER UNSEEMLY, UNTIMELY, UNPATRIOTIC QUIBBLING?

The directors of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Baltimore and Ohio will find the public demanding an answer if they permit their executives to dawdle delay and deny employment much longer.

KILL-JOYS

By Winifred Black

The widow has been at the mountain resort for two weeks and we've all been in love with her—every one of us, from the waiters and the cook and the clerk at the desk to the grouchiest of all the guests.

No; she's not a beauty, and she's not a great wit; but she's so good-humored, so friendly, so ready to be amused.

She's amusing, too, in her own quiet way. She sees the fun in everything, and when the day was a little gray and dull we all waited for the widow. When she came in sight the clouds lifted and the world became once again an amusing place to be—a sort of friendly, comfortable, how-nice-you-are, and how-much-I-appreciate your place, too.

Day before yesterday the widow's daughter arrived, and all in a twinkling the widow's light went out. Daughter is not in the least pretty, she hasn't one flash of wit in her whole make-up, and she is not at all good-natured.

Daughter is a teacher. She doesn't talk; she lectures, and if anyone moves, or coughs, or even gives a modest apologetic yawn daughter frowns and all is immediately respectful silence.

Daughter disapproves of the mountains. She can't see what people see in sunsets, and as to the men who get up at 4 in the morning to catch go out and wade in the ice water to catch a few poor little helpless fish—if daughter had her way she would shut them all up somewhere till the fishing season was over, and let it go at that.

Daughter doesn't dance—not at resorts. She thinks the company is too mixed. So the poor widow, who shakes rather a lively little foot of her own, sits on the piazza in the evening and does her best to look disgusted when the band begins to play.

You'd never know the widow was the same woman that we all liked so well just a few little days ago.

What a shock it would be to daughter if she realized what she does to her mother! I do wonder how she manages to do it?

I know two brothers who are just like that. Taken separately, they're both rather wonderlings—light-hearted young things, both of them—but together, they would sour an old-fashioned pan of milk if they only looked in the direction of the dairy.

Husbands and wives? Oh, there are hundreds of husbands who have a genius for taking all the originality and zest and joy out of their wives—but they're not so bad as the wives!

Tell me, truly, how many dozens of husbands do you know who are the best sort of fellows when they are "on their own," but turn into fidgety, silent persons, with a kind of grudge against living, the minute their wives appear?

Why, oh why, is this so desperately, so cruelly true?

Tell me, ye winged winds, and I will send up the biggest and the lightest and the most beauteous kite in the world to be your sport and plaything.
